Nixon party drugging in foreign land is recounted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of President Nixon's traveling party were drugged during a trip to an "unfriendly" nation sometime in 1971, the CIA's former scientific chief told investigating senators today.

Dr. Sidney Gottlieb told a Senate health subcommittee that the President was not affected but that his personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkash, was.

Gottlieb said one symptom of the drug was that those affected by it cried at inappropriate times.

He said that he has seen documentation indicating that foreign intelligence agents used drugs on American officials until 1973.

Gottlieb apparently made the disclosure as an afterthought after he had concluded reading a prepared statement. His testimony was taken in front of senators in a small room and piped to reporters and members of the public who completely filled a nearby hearing room.

Gottlieb requested the unusual procedure through his physicians because of a heart ailment.

Gottlieb also said that it was his understanding that in most cases foreign intelligence agents used drugs to steal documents from American officials. He did not say this was the case in the alleged drugging of members of the Nixon traveling party. He gave no reason for that alleged occurance.

Gottlieb was in general charge of the CIA's testing of mind altering drugs in the 21-year period beginning in about 1952.

Earlier, CIA Director Stansfield Turner told the panel the surviving records of the agency's drug tests are so fragmented and confused it still is not possible to say the entire story has been told.

"There is no way I can look you in the eye today and say more material won't turn up this afternoon," Turner told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee.

"We are not professing to tell you the complete story," said Turner. "We are attempting to tell you the story that we know."

He conceded that "there's lots of confusion about files at the CIA," but said he has no reason to believe, as some previous witnesses have suggested, that the CIA kept inaccurate files.

Inflation slackens again, smallest rise in nine months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation slackened in August, for the second consecutive month, as consumer prices rose by only a modest three-tenths of 1 per cent, the smallest rise in nine months, the government reported today.

The increase was the lowest since a similar rise last November and followed a rise of four-tenths of 1 per cent in July and increases of six-tenths in May and June.

The steady decline in wholesale farm prices was reflected on grocery shelves last month as food prices rose only slightly.

Meanwhile, the cost of services, which had been the fastest rising component of the Consumer Price Index this year, slowed sharply last month.

The slowing of inflation this summer has been one of the few bright spots in the nation's economic picture, which has seen unemployment rising again and the rate of economic growth slacken.

Grocery prices, which had contributed to an annual inflation rate of about 10 per cent at the beginning of the year, rose only two-tenths of 1 per cent in August, following a decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent in July.

The cost of other commodities, such as household goods and autos, rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in August, but these had not contributed to the inflationary surge earlier this year as much as had food.

Carter administration economists are counting on slow increases in food prices to help hold down the overall rise in consumer prices during the rest of the year.

If averaged out over the entire year, the August increase would mean a 3.6 per cent rate of inflation, a sharp improvement over the earlier pace. Consumer prices rose at a 10 per cent annual rate in the first quarter and at a rate of 8.1 per cent in the second quarter.

Despite the improvement in the pace of inflation, the Labor Department reported that the purchasing power of workers' paychecks declined for the second consecutive month. Real spendable earnings — take-home pay adjusted for taxes and inflation — for the average worker declined six-tenths of 1 per cent because of inflation and a decline in the average number of hours worked, the government said.

In August, the Consumer Price Index stood at 183.3, meaning that a basket of goods and services that sold for $100 in 1967 now costs $183.30. Consumer prices last month were 6.6 per cent higher than a year ago.

All percentages in the price report are adjusted to account for seasonal influences but the index itself is not adjusted.

The Labor Department said the cost of services rose five-tenths of 1 per cent in August, the smallest increase since December, when these prices rose only four-tenths of 1 per cent. The slowdown was largely due to the first decline this year in mortgage interest rates, seasonally adjusted. Gas and elecricity prices continued to rise last month, but at a lower rate than in June or July.

Pomona to get lion's share of $6 million

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Ten valley school districts are expecting nearly $6 million in additional revenue by January following Saturday's signing of the state school finance measure, aimed at implementing the Serrano vs. Priest Supreme Court decision, by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Of that $6 million figure, the lion's share, a whopping $2,031,000 will come to the Pomona Unified School District as Pomona officials have learned the district had qualified as one of 19 district's in the state to receive special funding under the bill's "urban factor".

Pomona would have received about $900,000 without the additional urban factor monies. The factor relies on a formula of enrollment and poverty statistics to determine eligibility.

Other districts and their anticipated incomes from the adoption of the legislation are: Alta Loma Elementary, $138,000; Bonita Unified, approximately $300,000; Central Elementary, approximately $95,000; Chaffey Joint Union High School, approximately $500,000; Chino Unified, approximately $600,000; Claremont Unified, approximately $250,000; Ontario-Montclair Elementary, $600,000; Upland Elementary, $260,000; and Walnut Valley Unified, $300,000.

In most cases, the arrival of the money is anticipated in January with most districts receiving notices from their respective county offices saving the amounts had been budgeted to their accounts. Payments are expected to arrive in lump sums.

The 800-student Cucamonga Elementary School District is the sole bridesmaid among the 11 local districts as it won't receive a penny from the bill this year and will eventually have to end up paying money to the state under the bill's guidelines.

Cucamonga is a basic aid district; that is, a district which survives on its own basic local tax income and not from any monies beyond the state foundation program. The large amount of industry in the Cucamonga area provides a total assessed valuation of nearly $57 million for the district's 800 students.

Cucamonga Supt. Julian Lopez stated, "I don't like this bill." He noted that it will mean a certain tax increase for his district over the next few years as it begins to pay money from its local tax income to the state. Lopez said Cucamonga is presently operating on a deficit budget and this year's reserve has only $25,000.

Many districts will be using the added income to help balance deficit budgets. Pomona, for example, will spend nearly $2.5 million of its 1976-77 ending balance this year; $2.5 million more than the district will receive in revenue. The state money will go to offset that expenditure.

Ontario-Montclair will use its nearly $600,000 to offset the loss in money from average daily attendance as the district fights against unexpected declining enrollment. The district had projected a net increase of 200 students this year, but instead — in the opening week of school — has recorded a loss of 144.

Chino will put its $600,000 in reserves also, according to Assistant Supt. for Business Al Searfoss.

Beef auction, cake contest to highlight fair agenda

Clear, cool weather is attracting more visitors to the Los Angeles County Fair than in 1976, according to attendance figures for the first five days of the huge exposition at Pomona.

A total of 36,963 visitors went through the fair's turnstiles Tuesday to bolster the attendance for the 1977 fair to 328,111, compared with 302,940 for 1976.

Fair officials believe that the special events and many attractive displays at the 1977 fair will continue to draw large crowds for the remainder of the exposition's run.

Many people will be on hand tonight at 7 o'clock for the auction of 105 beef animals in the junior livestock competition.

"My Favorite Chocolate Cake Contest" also is scheduled for 7 p.m.

The 10th annual Mother-Daughter Look-Alike Contest is a special event Thursday on the Amphitheatre stage at 5 p.m.

Other special attractions are the bands from Azusa, Monte Vista, Sierra, Rosemead, and Glendora high schools which will parade in front of the Grandstand at various times of the day.

The Valley Quarter Horse Association has scheduled a free show in the Carnation Ring at 1 p.m.

An 11-race card of horse racing begins at 1 p.m., and the Grandstand area will be cleared by 8 p.m. for the popular "Up With People" show.

"The Re'Generation" show at noon, 2, 4, and 6 p.m. on the Pavilion stage continues to attract large audiences.

Those with an interest in flowers may enjoy the judging of the amateur and advanced amateur flower arrangements at the Fllower and Garden Show.

Esplendor Azteca Dancers and Mariachi Juvenil de Monterrey offer interesting shows beginning at noon at Mexican Village.

Continued fair with slightly warmer temperatures through Thursday. Light smog. High both days 84, and the overnight low 50. Tuesday's high was 79 and the overnight low was 50. Thursday's sunrise 6:39, sunset 6:48.

Panel proposes higher S.S. payroll taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee is calling tentatively for higher payroll taxes, especially on better-paid workers and their employers, in an effort to pull the Social Security system out of the red.

The proposal, which would come in addition to higher taxes already planned, would increase both the tax rate and the maximum amount of earnings on which the levy is applied. For very high-paid employes, the tax could more than double within five years.

While persons earning $18,900 a year or more would begin to feel the additional payroll deductions in 1979 under the proposal, lower-paid workers would not be taxed more severely than they are under present law until at least 1981.

The decision Tuesday by the House ways and means social security subcommittee carried on a 7-6 vote and is scheduled to be reviewed later this week. The final decision is subject to action by the full committee and later by the House and Senate.

The plan calls for no Social Security tax increase in 1978, in accordance with President Carter's desire for a time when the economic recovery is expected to be slow.

For this year, the maximum tax paid to Social Security by any worker and his employe is $965.25. The tax rate is 5.85 per cent of the first $16,500 earned. The figures will rise to 6.05 per cent of $17,700 next year.

Under the proposal tentatively adopted by the panel, persons earning $30,000 or more by 1982 would pay up to $1,980.

By some projections, the maximum tax could increase to almost $3,300 by 1990. Future tax bases cannot be predicted exactly because they are set in accordance to average wage levels in the country and because of other variations.

The subcommittee made a tentative decision earlier to bring into the Social Security program more than 4 million workers not now covered, including persons employed by the federal government, state and local governments and nonprofit organizations.

However, opposition has developed to this proposal and even many of its supporters doubt it can be put into effect by 1980, the date the subcommittee chose.

Bringing more workers into the system would make it possible to slow the increase in taxes paid by each person contributing to Social Security.

President Carter has proposed a different package, designed to keep the Social Security trust funds from being exhausted by 1983.

Federal pay hike in effect Oct. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is granting federal white-collar workers and military personnel a 7.05 per cent pay increase that will cost the taxpayers about $3.4 billion.

The White House announcement Tuesday said the hike would go into effect Oct. 1 and cover 3.4 million people on the federal payroll. It is below the 8.8 per cent increase which had been sought by a group of federal employe union leaders.

The 7.05 per cent, across-the-board pay raise was recommended by Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, Budget Director Bert Lance and the Civil Service Commission and had been endorsed by the President's advisory committee on federal pay.

Mayor offers $100,000 for Chinatown slayers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The highest reward in the city's history — $100,000 —, has been offered by Mayor George Moscone for information leading to three gunmen who killed five people and wounded 11 others at a Chinatown restaurant, triggering new youth gang violence.

Moscone announced the reward at a news conference Tuesday after consulting with homicide investigators who said they have "certain suspects" in the Sept. 4 shootings but "not enough to make an arrest."

Flanked by Moscone and Police Chief Charles Gain, chief homicide investigator Lt. Dan Murphy said "we're focusing on certain individuals but we don't have what I would call proof-type information."

Murphy, head of a newly formed task force assigned to root out mushrooming Chinatown gangsterism, said officers think they know who planned and carried out the predawn restaurant killing.

The gunmen sprayed a roomful of diners with a Tommygun, shotgun and pistol. Police say the incident was related to a feud between the Joe Boys and Wah Ching, rival Chinatown street gangs, but all of the gang members in the restaurant escaped unhurt.

Police say the Golden Dragon killings may have triggered several other gang-related incidents in recent weeks, including the slaying of a reputed gang member and a robbery-murder at a Chinatown mah-jong gambling parlor.

A previous $25,000 reward would be increased to $100,000, Moscone said, in hopes it would entice more information from reticent witnesses.

"I'm hoping that the $100,000 will be so tempting that someone who has information but hasn't come forward will talk to us," he said.

The money would come from the city treasury and would go to "anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for one or more of the Sept. 4 Golden Dragon killings."

Gang violence has cut heavily into the tourist trade in Chinatown.

Ugandan plane at OIA has security in tizzy

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

There were some anxious moments at Ontario International Airport Tuesday afternoon when a medium size jetliner from Uganda without any clearance asked for permission to land there.

Whom was the jet bringing to California? Could it be Idi Amin, the infamous dictator of that African nation? Could it be one of his deportees? Perhaps a group of defectors?

A Secret Service team arrived from Los Angeles to meet the plane, and airport security joined the group.

But the arrival turned out to be nothing as exotic as airport personnel anticipated. Authorities said the jet was a freighter with a crew of 10 and one passenger, here to pick up electronic equipment from Aerojet General in Azusa.

The plane had landed earlier at Melbourne, Fla. Why it had not obtained clearance for landing at Ontario was attributed to lack of understanding of flight procedures.

Although the processing went smoothly, the Ugandan party met unexpected problems elsewhere.

With the Los Angeles County Fair in full swing in Pomona all the motel rooms in the area were taken, and the visitors had to go to a motel in Fontana to find accomodations overnight.

Weary refugees land in S.F., head for homes across country

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A planeload of Indochinese refugees, half of them weary from roaming the Gulf of Siam in makeshift boats for months because no nation had room for them, were headed for homes in the America's heartland today.

The refugees, many of them former officers in the fallen Vietnamese army, arrived Tuesday at San Francisco International Airport and caught connecting flights to such places as Peoria, Ill., Topeka, Kan., Hopkins, Minn., and Beaumont, Tex.

The 113 immigrants from Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia are the first of 15,000 refugees to be admitted under a program authorized last month by the Carter administation.

After stepping off the Pan Am 747 named "Clipper Plymouth Rock," Tien Dinh Nguyen, 38, told why he, his wife and their nine children sold their Vietnam home, bought a boat and set sail for Thailand.

"We are Catholics and anti-Communists. I would like to say to the free world that Communists lie."

Nguyen said he tore up all his identification papers in Vietnam because, "if the Communists had caught me, I would have been punished and re-educated. Hard labor. They kill — but slowly."

Ngyuen and his family were lucky. After five days in the gulf in a leaking boat, they were able to put ashore and join the rest of the 80,000 war refugees in Thai camps.

However, there was no room for many others who were forced to remain on their houseboats. These "boaters" were given priority when President Carter permitted the immigration, along with refugees who have close family ties here or who worked for the U.S. in their own country.

The flight to the United States was paid for by the International Governmental Committee For European Migration. In 25 years the New York based group has helped relocate some 2.5 million refugees from war-torn nations.

Committee spokeswoman Ruth Tropin said that to get on the flight from Bangkok, the refugees had to promise to repay part of the cost once they find jobs. She did not know how much the flight cost.

The San Francisco Travelers' Aid Society and U.S. Catholic Charities also assisted Tuesday, directing refugees to appropriate airport gates without the benefit of a common language.

"It wasn't easy, but in the end it all went off pretty smoothly," said Barbara Glesener of Travelers' Aid. "We got them all off on flights to their new homes."

Each refugee is sponsored either by a private or religious agency such as U.S. Catholic Charities or by a family, she said. But California Health and Welfare Secretary Mario Obledo said he was worried that the refugees would become a financial burden.

He said California taxpayers will have to put up an extra $39 million a year if special federal funding of welfare for Indochinese refugees runs out as scheduled Sept. 30.

Half of the 156,000 Indochinese refugees who came to America since the end of the Vietnam war settled in California and 22,000 of those are getting federal assistance, Obledo said.

But Tobin said the average refugee is unlikely to end up on welfare. "Refugees make good citizens," she said. "They work hard and are determined to build new lives for themselves."

One who seemed to fit that mold was An Thuat Dinh, 22. As she stepped off the jetliner to begin a new life here, she cradled an infant in her arms and told a reporter, "I will take any kind of job to support myself and my child."

Immigration officials estimate it will take several months to bring all 15,000 of the new refugees to the United States.

L.A. consumer price index up slightly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Consumer price index figures for August brought both good news and bad news to Los Angeles consumers, the U.S. Department of Labor said today.

First, the bad news:

Consumer prices locally rose .1 per cent during the month, according to Jim Wurth of the Southern California office.

He said the good news is that the increase is the smallest monthly jump in Los Angeles since April, 1976.

Wurth said higher utility rates played a key role in the modest price hike.

The increase pushed the index for the Los Angeles-Long Beach metropolitan area to a new high of 180.6, up 6.4 per cent from last August.

In simpler terms, the purchasing power of the dollar bill slipped to only about 55 cents, little more than half of what it was in 1967.

Wurth said consumers locally paid roughly $!8.06 in August for a market basket of goods and services that would have cost $10 in 1967.

The pricetags on apparel went up, particularly men's and boys' clothing, which rose 2.5 per cent.

Health and recreation costs rose .6 per cent while food prices increased by only .3 per cent during August. Residential gas and water rates jumped a full 2 per cent.

Wurth said the only decrease came in transportation, where costs fell .4 per cent below July levels.

Since the first of the year, prices have risen locally by 4.5 per cent. The first eight months of 1976, however, saw only a 3.8 per cent hike.

But officials relieved it wasn't more

Chino district loses $312,000 in funding

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Chino school officials are feeling good today — despite the fact they have lost $312,000 in federal funds.

Supt. Duane Stiff told the school board Tuesday night the district could have lost much more — about $700,000. "We managed to 'salvage' about $400,000," he said.

The federal Economic Development Administration (EDA) had threatened last month to withdraw the $700,000 from a $5 million grant received by the district last year to build two elementary schools.

Stiff had explained that construction costs for the Dickson and Cortez schools did not run as high as expected. "Bids came in low on some items, so it left us with excess money."

But the district was not anxious to lose the entire $700,000 since it needed furniture and other equipment for the two schools presently under construction.

In fact, Stiff said, the $700,000 was part of the original grant and the district should be permitted to use it for the much-needed furniture.

Stiff said he was pleased the district managed to recoup about $400,000 out of the $700,000 the EDA warned it would withdraw. Administrators had negotiated with the EDA in Seattle for several days.

EDA officials finally said the district could keep $400,000 for various uses, including furniture. About $212,000 will be used for additional furniture and equipment (the district previously was allowed $156,000 for furniture) and $186,000 for other additions at the schools. About $60,000 was given for architecture and engineering fees.

Other items allowed by the EDA include eight lighted tennis courts, $160,000; relocation of portable building, $8,000; improved insulation, $4,875; boys toilet doors, $400; and anti-graffiti coating, $13,000.

The government turned down district requests for money for solar heating and cooling for the schools, a master TV antenna system, and upgrading the intercom systems.

District officials said they could still go ahead with solar energy plans, but the money would have to come from other sources.

Trustee Al McCombs wondered why the EDA approved tennis courts for the schools and not solar heating "when the big government push is for solar energy."

McCombs did not feel tennis courts should have been a very high priority. "They were not in our original plans and it rubs me the wrong way."

Emily Harris' sentence won't be extended

Emily Harris, convicted of kidnaping and robbery in a 1975 shootout while she was a fugitive with heiress Patricia Hearst, will not have her 11-year sentence extended, California prison authorities have decided.

The Community Release Board at the California Institute for Women in Chino, where Mrs. Harris is being held, made the decision Tuesday at a "serious offender" hearing.

"As a result of today's action, she remains eligible to be paroled on April 20, 1980, if she doesn't lose any of her good time," explained Robert G. Borg, the prison's associate superintendent.

The board could have ordered Mrs. Harris to serve up to three additional years before becoming eligible for parole.

Mrs. Harris's husband, William, who was her co-defendant in the 1975 robbery-shootout at a Los Angeles area sporting goods store, is serving an 11-year sentence at San Quentin. Miss Hearst, also charged in connection with the incidents at a sporting goods store, is free on probation.

Attorney Leonard Weinglass, who represented Emily Harris at her trial, had voiced fears before the hearing that his client's sentence could be extended because of her political ideology and links to the Symbionese Liberation Army.

He noted at a press conference that Miss Hearst is free on probation even though she was the only one of the trio who fired a gun during the incident at the sporting goods store.

"It cannot be explained in law," he said. "It can only be explained in terms of who Patricia Hearst is and the influence her family wields."

State briefs

Another Bakke case

WOODLAND (AP) — While the U.S. Supreme Court is waiting to hear the Bakke case, another white student is suing on grounds a minorities program is keeping her out of the same school.

Rita Clancy, 22, who immigrated to the United States from Russia seven years ago, contends she graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles with an A average and is at the top of the UCDavis Medical School's waiting list.

But she says she can't get into the Medical School of the University of California at Davis because the admissions program reserves up to 16 places in each entering class of 100 for disadvantaged minorities.

In the Bakke case, Allan Bakke, also a white, won a state Supreme Court ruling saying the UC Davis Medical School's minority admissions program violated his rights and prevented his admission.

The U.S. Supreme Court is to hear the university's appeal next month.

Mrs. Clancy's case was filed Friday in Yolo County Superior Court. Judge Warren Taylor immediately ordered the university to admit her or explain why it is refusing. A hearing is scheduled for next Monday.

Oil terminal talks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After meeting all day to overcome a hurdle blocking plans for an Alaskan oil terminal in Long Beach, officials of Standard Oil of Ohio and Southern California Edison say they're still far from reaching an agreement.

Top executives of both firms held preliminary talks Tuesday on a pollution trade-off proposal in which Sohio would pay for cleaning up emissions from Edison's facilities in the harbor area.

"If anything did come of it (the talks), it would be many months off," Sohio spokesman Sam Baker said at the oil company's corporate headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio.

Under the plan proposed by state Air Resources Board Chairman Tom Quinn, Sohio would be required to finance some $90 million in pollution cleanup work at Edison to offset smog which would be created by the oil terminal.

Utility bill signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill to prevent the state Public Utilities Commission from withholding refunds of utility overcharges to businesses has been signed by the governor.

Sen. John Stull, R-Escondido, authored the bill, criticizing what he called a PUC scheme to withhold millions of dollars in refunds from commercial customers.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. signed the measure, SB604, on Tuesday.

It requires the PUC to continue ordering refunds equitably among all its customers, business as well as residential.

The PUC "was considering how to distribute refunds, but had no ironclad proposal. It must be considered moot now," said PUC spokesman Gene Raleigh.

Richard Spohn, state consumer affairs chief, had proposed using business refunds for energy conservation programs.

Raleigh said backers of such a proposal felt businesses raised their prices when their rates went up. He said they usually do not lower them when they receive refunds.

Raleigh said a "ballpark figure" for the amount of refunds the PUC could consider is $500 million, roughly half of which would have to go to businesses.

Of the $500 million, the PUC recently ordered Pacific Telephone Co. to refund $14 million to all classes of customers and made a similar Pacific Telephone and General Telephone order involving $270 million.

UC bargaining policy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Employees at the University of California apparently have moved a step closer to collective bargaining under a proposed UC new policy.

However, a UC spokesman insisted that the policy, which would include binding arbitration of grievances for the first time in UC history, does not move the university any closer to collective bargaining.

Yet Rep. Fortney H. Stark, D-Oakland, disagreed Tuesday, calling the policy "an about face by the university" which would bring the 130,000 UC employees "vastly improved methods of resolving labor disputes."

Stark said the policy would establish procedures wherein both sides in the labor disputes would meet promptly for bargaining talks and would confer in good faith.

The policy would also provide mediation by the state Conciliation Service in disputes over wages, working hours or conditions, and allow binding arbitration of individual grievances.

Current policies, he explained, permit the university to refuse to meet with the employes and provide no mediation or arbitration.

Stark said the new policy came as a result of legislative pressures.

Van Houten trial judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Superior Court judge who presided over a Pentagon Papers trial will hear the third murder trial of Charles Manson follower Leslie Van Houten.

Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer was assigned the case Tuesday, and Miss Van Houten was ordered to return to his court Oct. 20 for setting of a trial date. Attorneys predicted the trial would begin in November.

Miss Van Houten, 28, is charged with murder and conspiracy in the Aug. 10, 1969, slaying of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca and with conspiracy in the slaying the previous night of actress Sharon Tate and four others.

Her second trial ended after the jury became deadlocked over the defense's contention that the woman suffered from diminished mental capacity.

More than four years ago, Ringer presided over the trial of four White House aides accused of breaking into the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, the psychiatrist who treated Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Ringer had supboenaed former President Richard Nixon to testify on behalf of the defendants, but his action became moot when the case was moved to Washington.

Survey on lawyers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new survey says that about one out of every 10 persons who passed the California Bar Exam in the last five years didn't find a job as an attorney.

The survey, released this week by the California Young Lawyers Association, was compiled from 8,000 answers to questionnaires mailed to almost all the group's 27,500 members.

Here are some findings of the survey about those who have passed the bar examination in the last five years and pay association dues:

—About 4 per cent are unemployed.

—About 6 per cent have non-legal jobs, but would like to work as attorneys.

—About 2 per cent are working as lawyers, but don't feel they are earning a living. Most of those have their own law practices, said Bob Webster, the association's executive coordinator.

2 charged in fiery car crashes; 1 a fatality

Felony charges have been filed against two motorists allegedly involved in two flaming car crashes in Pomona, authorities said today.

One suspect, Roland Anthony Hubbard, 28, was charged with manslaughter and drunken driving. The other, Milton Howard, 20, was charged with hit-run driving. Both face arraignment in Pomona Municipal Court.

Hubbard was accused of being the driver of the car which ran into the rear of an auto at the Corona Expressway near Dudley Street early Sept. 16 in a crash which caused both vehicles to burst into flames. A 14-year-old Pomona boy, Tyree Gill, was burned to death and two others in that car also were burned. Hubbard, who claimed he was not driving, sustained a cut chin.

Police, investigating the case, said a highway patrol expert determined that the car which struck the rear of the victims' auto was traveling at between 76 and 90 mph.

In the second case, Howard was accused of leaving the scene of an accident Sept. 13 in which two Chino sisters were burned. The victims, Elizabeth and Becky Landon, 14 and 13 years old, remain in fair condition in the burn ward of County-USC Medical Center.

That accident occurred on the Corona Expressway at Ninth Street.

Man's throat slashed in attack by 2

A 44-year-old San Bernardino man was attacked by two men armed with knives who slashed his throat Tuesday night outside a theater in the 100 block of east B Street in Ontario, police reported.

Police said the victim, John Dominec Frisone, suffered only superficial wounds in the reported attack and was treated and released from Ontario Community Hospital.

The victim told officers that he was leaving the theater when two men shoved him and told him to get out of their way.

Police said a push and shove match resulted and the victim was apparently stabbed and cut.

Frisone walked into the Ontario police station covered with blood to report the incident.

Sought for investigation of attempted murder are two Latins, 17 to 20 years of age.

Sniper fires on Chino police in patrol car

Chino police officers returned fire on a sniper who reportedly fired at a police unit patroling the area of Riverside Drive between Fourth and Fifth streets in Chino late Tuesday night, police said.

Police reported detective Dave DeLeon, with another officer who was not immediately identified, were driving in an alley south of Riverside Drive about 11:15 p.m. when two shots were fired at the police car by a sniper.

Neither round hit the police vehicle, but DeLeon fired one round at the shadow of a man running through the alley.

Police said there was no indication the officer's bullet had hit the suspected sniper.

DeLeon was not injured.

Shortly after the shots were fired, officers cordoned off a two-block area and made a house-to-house search for the sniper, but were unable to locate him.

Police said that although the two officers were in an unmarked police car the sniper knew they were police.

The shooting incident was the second in the past two weeks in which Chino police cars have been fired on from ambush.

DMV office burglarized

The Pomona office of the Department of Motor Vehicles was found burglarized Tuesday morning, police said.

The one-story building at 211 Erie St. had been ransacked and two electric calculators, a hand calculator, two sound system speakers and an AM-FM radio were stolen. The loss was valued at $600.

Police reported that the intruders tried unsuccessfully to open the office safe. They added that it was the second time within a month that the DMV building had been burglarized and both times the safe has withstood attempts to open it.

Driver dies in crash on S.B. Freeway

A 55-year-old Los Angeles man died this morning as a result of injuries sustained in a traffic accident on the San Bernardino Freeway west of Rochester Avenue in the county area of Ontario about 12:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The driver of the vehicle, Felix Ralph Acosta, according to the San Bernardino County coroner's office, died as a result of multiple injuries suffered in the accident.

A passenger in the vehicle, Ascension John Montes, 78, of Los Angeles, suffered a broken neck and was listed in stable condition at Ontario Community Hospital.

California Highway Patrol officers said it appeared the vehicle driven by Acosta that was pulling a second car went out of control and ran off the road, rolling over and over.

Acosta and his passenger were pinned in the pickup truck for nearly an hour before they were freed by firemen and paramedics and rushed to the hospital.

Patrolmen said both the pickup truck and the towed vehicle rolled several times after they left the freeway.

Student slashed at Garey High

Seventeen-year-old John W. Foster was cut on one arm Tuesday morning as he was passing through a group of other students at Garey High School in Pomona.

Police, who were not sure if the incident was an accident, reported that the cut could have been made with a razor.

Windfall for valley schools . . .

increases may take much of the Chaffey Union district's $500,000. Russ Dickinson, assistant superintendent for business, is not yet completely sure of the district's funding level, but feels $500,000 is his best estimate.

The Walnut Valley school board has expressed some desire to see its $300,000 go toward a tax decrease for district residents, especially in light of the district's present tax override which was approved last March by voters.

Bonita is unsure what will happen to its approximately $300,000, but early indications seem to show it may go into reserves or, possibly, a wage increase to district employes. District Supt. James Johnson has already noted that much of the raise granted Bonita teachers in the district's recent teacher contract settlement reflected the state money.

A deficit budget in the amount of $200,000 will be offset by the Upland school district's $260,000 income. The additional monies may go to salary increases and some capital outlay projects.

In Claremont, district officials expect nearly all of the $250,000 in state money to go toward erasing part of the district's $600,000 deficit budget.

Alta Loma Business Manager Stacey Nelson said his district's $138,000 will probably go into undistributed reserves.

In the Central school district, Supt. Donald Sperry said the $95,000 the district will be receiving will probably find its way into school maintenance, food and transportation facilities.

One unpleasant outgrowth of the funding levels may be Pomona's uncommonly high funding. One neighboring school official noted, "There is no telling what that kind of money will do to labor negotiations and comparability. Even though we use the entire county to determine salary schedules, neighboring low-wealth districts may suffer next to Pomona's income."

Parent power

Can no longer take school basics for granted

First in a series
By JOHN DOUGLAS

Is your child's school able to give him or her a basic education? Are you sure your tax dollars for education are spent well? Are children safe in the halls of the schools in your neighborhood? No parent in America can any longer conscientiously answer these questions, "I assume so." These are not just concerns in big city schools. A glance at national statistics shows how deeply troubled the school systems throughout our nation have become.

Take violence. Each year 100 people are murdered in American schools. Some 70,000 serious assaults on teachers are reported annually, and nobody seems to know how many students are victims of assaults. More than a billion dollars damage is done to American schools through vandalism each year — enough money to pay the salaries of 50,000 teachers. And the situation is getting worse. Assaults on teachers increased 77.4 percent from 1970 to 1973. During the last 13 years, juvenile crime has grown 245 percent. No wonder many children are afraid to walk down the halls of their schools.

The most startling figures, however, are those dealing directly with how well the schools are fulfilling their primary task — preparing children to meet the everyday demands of a complex society. One of the best indications that the American school system is flunking comes from a recent survey conducted for the U.S. Office of Education by researchers at the University of Texas. Adults were tested for their competence in handling the basic skills of daily life: Could they read and interpret the signs that surround them, pick the best buy from a grocery shelf, and apply basic arithmetic to their own finances?

In a surprising number of cases, the answer is, frankly, no. One fifth of adults surveyed did not know the meaning of the sign "We are an Equal Opportunity Employer." Most adults tested said they had had bank accounts, but 14 percent were unable to fill out a sample check correctly. Nearly one-third could not compute a week's wages if they included some hours of time-and-a-half pay for overtime. Another survey of young adults, taken earlier, found that 84 percent couldn't balance a checkbook.

The University of Texas study concluded that less than half of all American adults — 16.3 percent — can really function proficiently in today's society. Another third are only minimally functional. And nearly 20 percent are "incompetent or function with difficulty." The researchers admitted they found the results "surprising, perhaps even shocking."

Another researcher, Ted R. Kilty, whose specialty is determining what reading level is needed to perform various daily tasks, puts the matter even more bluntly. A sixth-grade reading level, he says, is needed to study a driver's manual or instructions on how to brew coffee. Directions on TV dinners are written at about an eighth-grade level and instructions on an aspirin bottle require about a tenth-grade reading ability. Since 54 percent of adults in the U.S. read below the sixth- or seventh-grade level, he concludes, they will simply be unable to handle many of the most important daily reading tasks that confront them. This is tragic.

If adults are in trouble, the reasons are not hard to find when one looks to see how well school children are learning their lessons. The Education Commission of the United States has conducted extensive surveys of students and has found that perhaps one million American teenagers have gone through school without learning how to read beyond the fourth-grade level. The commission's report on reading ability concludes that many teen-agers "cannot even follow the schedules in TV Guide; far more find it impossible to draw inferences from anything they read beyond the simplest levels."

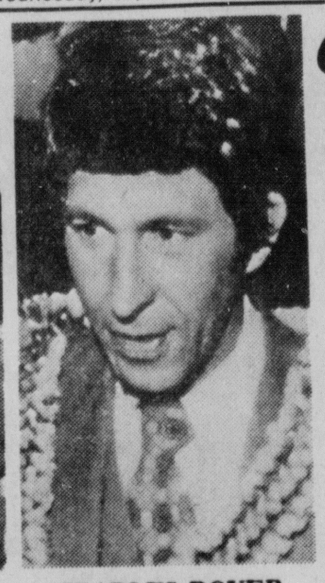
Newsman, political neophyte in runoff

PAUL SCHELL



CHARLES ROYER

SEATTLE (AP) — A former television reporter and another newcomer to electoral politics will square off in the November election for mayor of the largest city in the Pacific Northwest.

With 99.5 per cent of the vote counted in Seattle's non-partisan runoff election, officials said Charles Royer, former political analyst for KING Television led with 32,662 votes. Paul Schell, former head of the city's Department of Community Development, was second with 26,842.

Wayne Larkin, who gave up his seat on the City Council to make the race, was third with 19,738 votes. He was followed by three council members who did not resign — Phyllis Lamphere, president of the National League of Cities with 14,463 votes; Sam Smith, council president, with 11,423, and John Miller, 8,944.

Nine other candidates, mostly from minor political parties, trailed far behind. Royer, Schell and Smith are Democrats.

Miller was the only candidate to identify himself as a Republican, while Larkin and Mrs. Lamphere said they had no party preference.

Mayor Wes Uhlman, who served two four-year terms and withstood a recall election, did not seek re-election.

He, too, is a Democrat, having served as chairman of the state Senate Ways and Means Committee before becoming mayor. A year ago he lost the Democratic gubernatorial primary by a razor-thin election to Dixy Lee Ray, who went on to victory in the general election.

When the two winners, both considered liberals, were interviewed together on KING-TV, there was only one apparent area of disagreement. Royer repeated his opposition to the downtown Westlake Mall project, which Schell, like all of the City Council candidates, has favored.

The project, approved by a unanimous City Council vote, would mix public and private monies in a multi-store redevelopment project at the core of the downtown area.

500 turn out at Job Fair

EL SEGUNDO (AP) — More than 500 former B1 workers from Rockwell International turned out at a Job Fair at the company's plant here to meet with representatives from about 175 firms.

Rockwell, which sponsored a similar job-hunt six weeks ago, hoped the success of that one would carry over into Tuesday's event. A spokesman said more than 600 persons found jobs as a result of the first Job Fair. The aerospace company is sponsoring the program in an effort to help its laid-off employes find work.

BABY FOUND IN ALLEY — Mary Stephens holds baby found in a Hammond, Ind., alley way. The unidentified 4-6-month-old boy was abandoned by someone driving a "green car," according to police, who allowed Mrs. Stephens to take care of the baby overnight.

Trial held up in death of judge's daughter

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The trial of two men charged with murder in the bombing death of Arizona reporter Don Bolles was suspended after the daughter of the judge was found shot to death in her Tucson apartment.

Court officials said the trial would be delayed at least until Thursday.

Tucson authorities said an autopsy was scheduled today to determine whether Lynn Thompson, 24, had committed suicide.

Miss Thompson, daughter of Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson, was found by a roommate Tuesday afternoon in the home they shared with two other girls near the University of Arizona.

Police said they believed Miss Thompson had killed herself with one bullet from a .22-caliber rifle found next to her body.

A roommate said Miss Thompson, a law student, had been depressed recently, police said.

Thompson has been presiding at the trial of James Robison, 55, and Max Dunlap, 48. They are accused of first-degree murder and conspiracy in the June 1976 car bomb death of Bolles, an investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic.

Testimony in the trial has been under way for two weeks.

John Harvey Adamson, who has confessed to placing the bomb under Bolles' car, has testified about a complex plot to kill Bolles, Arizona Atty. Gen. Bruce Babbitt and a third man, former public relations man Al Lizanetz.

Adamson has testified that Dunlap hired him to kill the three men and that Robison helped him build and detonate the bomb that ended Bolles' life.

Should government share cost of squeezing oil from shale?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee, contending President Carter's energy plan offers no incentive for increased production, is debating whether the federal government should share the cost of squeezing oil out of shale in the Rocky Mountains.

The ultimate cost could be billions of dollars. But, says Sen. Herman Talmadge, if oil can be extracted profitably from shale, it coud provide a 200-year supply at today's rate of U.S. consumption.

Talmadge, D-Ga., is urging the committee to approve a tax credit for shale oil produced in the United States, allowing an energy company to reduce its federal income tax by $3 per barrel.

"The beauty of this credit is that if they don't produce any oil then it won't cost us a dime," Talmadge told colleagues Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the full Senate is resuming debate on a key Carter proposal, one calling for continued federal price controls on natural gas. Although decisive votes will come later in the week, the Senate scheduled votes today on an amendment to end all controls and on one to freeze prices at the current level.

Talmadge's tax credit proposal is based on one company's estimate that it can produce shale oil at a cost of $18 a barrel. The $3 credit would almost make up the difference between that cost and the current $14.40 price of imported oil.

Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., noted other estimates of shale-oil costs are as high as $30 a barrel. To approve such a credit now would be "shooting in the dark," he said.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the committee, and Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, its ranking Republican, quickly endorsed Talmadge's plan. But at the request of Laurence Woodworth, Carter's chief tax adviser, the panel delayed a vote on the proposal until figuring out a way to pay for the tax credit.

There are indications the committee will reject one major source of revenue that could pay for such a proposal, the crude oil tax that Carter proposed as a way of forcing conservation.

Long said even if the committee rejects the crude oil tax, which would raise the price of gasoline by up to eight cents a gallon, the panel will approve whatever alternative tax is necessary to finance its energy program.

Asked for an example, the Louisiana Democrat said, "No mind is fertile enough to think of all the ways we could tax if something needs to be done."

Many congressmen — especially those from oil- and gas-producing states — say Carter's energy program depends too much on conservation, offering little to encourage increased energy production.

The House, in approving its version of the Carter package, added only slightly to the incentive. But Long and a majority of his colleagues on the Finance Committee have indicated repeatedly that they will vote additional tax incentives for industry.

Eleanor Roosevelt wanted death at end

NEW YORK (AP) — In her final years, Eleanor Roosevelt was crippled with incurable aplastic anemia and asked her doctor for an overdose of drugs, according to her son, Elliot Roosevelt.

Elliot said his mother finally stopped taking her medicine to hasten her death, spitting out her pills or hiding them under her tongue.

His reflections on his mother's final years are in "Mother R: Eleanor Roosevelt's Untold Story," of which there are excerpts in the current Ladies Home Journal.

"My sister was fearful that compassion might tempt Dr (David) Gurewitsch into acceding to Mother's wish," Roosevelt wrote. "If no one else would grant her desire, she would have to see to it herself. Believing it was nonsensical to go on any longer, she spat out the pills she was handed, or held them under her tongue."

His sister, Anna, fearful that Dr. Gurewitsch would comply with his mother's wishes, pushed the doctor aside and brought in specialists, Roosevelt said.

Political arena

Legislation designed to cut red tape for funding youth-family programs has been approved by the Senate and sent to GOVERNOR BROWN for his signature.

It is authored by ASSEMBLYMAN JOSEPH B. MONTOYA, D60th Dist., La Puente, and ASSEMBLYMAN BILL LANCASTER, R-62nd Dist., West Covina.

Numbered A. B. 965, the measure is referred to as the Multiservice Youth and Family Programs Act. It establishes a statewide system to coordinate the procurement and disbursement of federal funds for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

SEN. ALAN CRANSTON, D-California, is urging House passage of his Earthquake Hazards Reduction Act as "a historic step in mankind's age-old battle against the most terrifying of all disasters."

For the first time in history, Congress has recognized earthquakes as a national problem, Cranston said.

"And for the first time, we will have a coordinated federal program to predict future earthquakes and reduce the loss of life and property they cause."

Cranston has been trying for five years to get an earthquake bill through Congress. He introduced his first bill in 1972 and finally last year got it through the Senate only to have it die in the House in a legislative logjam in the closing days of the 94th Congress.

Members of the 65TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT DELEGATION of the LOS ANGELES COUNTY DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE have taken a position on City of Pomona acquiring the Fox Theater as a public auditorium.

"While recognizing the need for an auditorium in Pomona, the consensus of the delegation is that if a feasibility study shows the project to be acceptable, from a safety and financial standpoint, funds should be sought from individuals, private groups and foundations, rather than from tax money, reserves or a bond issue," said Leisa Bronson, chairman of the delegation.

"Since the city does not have sufficient funds with which to establish a senior citizen center or to provide mini-parks for children, it is difficult to see how it could provide funds which which to purchase the theater property and to cover the very substantial cost of rehabilitation that would be required. The cost of maintenance, including large insurance payments, also would have to be met.

"The 65th Assembly District delegation of the Los Angeles County Democratic Central Committee would therefore favor raising funds for such a project through private effort.

"We believe this would elicit more widespread, popular support and enthusiasm.

"We suggest also that the management of the auditorium be turned over to a non-profit organization, should the property be acquired.

"We further recommend that in constituting any committee on planning or program, due consideration be given to the cultural mix of the valley, and that this mix be represented in the make-up of such committees," Mrs. Bronson said.

Part of Pomona district's reorganization

Affirmative action proposals introduced

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

With some 200 district residents partially filling the Education Center auditorium Tuesday night, Pomona Supt. of Schools Charles Carpenter introduced a number of staff proposals aimed at further utilization of affirmative action guidelines in the district's ongoing reorganization.

The meeting had been preceded during the day by a two-hour meeting between trustees, administrators and residents of the district's Latin community who were angered over what they viewed as the board's "racist", "unthoughtful" and "arbitrary" decisions regarding Latins and the Latin community in the district's presently occurring reorganization.

Latin residents had picketed the Education Center Friday to demonstrate their concern that a top line Latin administrator be named by the district, that the Office of Intergroup Education not be dismantled, that funds for bilingual education be restored to their 1976-77 level and the district's Children's Center be returned to its Madison Elementary School site which was riveted with 38 bullet holes over the Labor Day weekend.

At least 13 residents of a loose minority coalition appeared before the board during oral communications asking that the board do more in regard to affirmative action and minority rights during the reorganization and that greater concern for the needs of the Latin and non- or limited English speaking community be shown by the district.

Luis Mata, a spokesman for the protesting group, told trustees that Latins wished to be thought of as first-class citizens in the community, not as second-class.

"We must get the same quality of education supplied to the other groups in the community," he said.

Former board President Mary Montes stated, "District administrators must be representative of the entire community. Our community does not know the specifics of your reorganization efforts, but phase one has us worried."

Mrs. Montes commended the board for its courage in bringing about the reorganization, but added she hoped the board would consider the needs of the entire district population.

Responding to criticism Tuesday evening, Carpenter told those attending, "No ethnic group will be allowed to lose ground in this district. We have an affirmative action program and we intend to live up to it."

He then presented a lengthy laundry list of proposals aimed at completing the reorganization, informing the district population and giving further impetus to affirmative action guidelines.

Among the superintendent's proposals are:

—Establishment of a fourth area administrator to supervise adult education, children's centers, Park Avenue High School, all preschool programs and other areas referred to by Carpenter as "the fastest growing areas of the district."

—Implement and complete the next reorganization phase in the Office of Educational Services within the next four to eight weeks. Carpenter said this definitely does not include the removal from the administration of administrators Bill Pitts, Joseph Barfield, Ray Thomas and Ken Cooper.

(He added that no quotas would be set, but that affirmative action guidelines will be followed with "measurable progress".)

—Establish a position in the district administration "with clout" to specifically supervise the district's compliance with the Lau-Nichols decision requiring children be taught in their native or predominant tongue.

—Proposed increasing the number of bilingual preschools from the present three to the earlier proposed six as soon as space becomes available.

—Proposed returning the Children's Center to the Madison or other acceptable site as soon as possible.

—Proposed supplying a certificated Spanish speaking staff member other than a teacher to work in the office of schools with a significant Spanish speaking population.

—Proposed establishing two community services centers at two schools in the district still to be determined to act as community recreation and information centers between the district and residents.

The superintendent said these proposals would be implemented as soon as possible following board study and approval and that "promises have been made for years. Words are cheap."

FLYING FINGERS

It was a great day for Martha Chamberlain of Claremont who gained a blue ribbon and a $25 prize for winning the junior division Nimble Fingers crocheting contest at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona Tuesday.

Crocheting: Claremont woman wins

Having a foot in a cast kept Martha Chamberlain from competing in 1976, but Tuesday the Claremont grandmother edged out an Upland resident to win the junior division of the Nimble Fingers crocheting contest at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona.

Credited with 16¾ scallops by judge Ruth Moses, Mrs. Chamberlain said that she worked a little slower this year "because the hook didn't compute with the thread."

She said she was being cheered on by her husband, "Mutt, that's the only way they know him," who works for Freightliner in Chino and is on vacation this week.

A competitor since 1960, Mrs. Chamberlain said the blue ribbon Tuesday was her third.

She said she will spend the $25 first prize to buy her husband a present for his birthday Sunday.

Betty Lee of Upland was a close second with 16-plus scallops. Other finishers included Dorothy Farrell, Azusa; Maria Jimenez of Los Angeles; Shereiene Courville of Montclair; and Juana Pro of Azusa, all with 14 scallops.

It was so close for third through sixth places that Mrs. Moses was counting stitches finished to separate them.

The senior division for those 65 and older was an altogether different contest because it had to be run twice.

It was discovered after the contest had gone through its run of 15 minutes that not all the competitors had been furnished the same size thread by the fair.

Coordinator Nadine Lowrey explained that for the contest to be fair to all, it should be run again.

Master of ceremonies Harry Hofmann called it "an untoward incident."

The winner was a Long Beach resident who has been trying for victory since 1949. She is Cecilia Peterson, credited with 14 scallops.

She has been second the last two years, but has 110 ribbons to her credit from Home Arts competition.

Second went to Mable Dodd of Whittier with 13&1/5 scallops, followed by Dorothea Hesiler of Fullerton; Juanita Swaim of Long Beach, and Ina Maxwell and Agnes McQueen of Los Angeles.

Recalling legislators urged

Property tax relief action sought this year

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The demand to call the state Legislature back into session so lawmakers can come up with some "meaningful" property tax relief this year is gaining momentum.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors Tuesday passed a resolution which urged Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to use his constitutional powers to summon the legislators into an emergency session, hopefully by next month.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said there was an "immediate need to get the burden off the taxpayers." He said he was "deeply disappointed" that lawmakers adjourned last Friday without any meaningful tax reform laws.

As part of the resolution, supervisors offered several suggestions on what the reform bill should include.

Hahn said if the cost of administering welfare and Medi-Cal and providing health services were assumed by the state, the county's tax rate could go down $1.74 per $100 of assessed valuation. This would thus reduce the current $4.25 rate by 30 percent.

Supervisor Baxter Ward said he had been informed by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of San Pedro that Thomas intended to reintroduce his earlier bill which calls for a state takeover of not only health and welfare but also of education.

Under that proposal, the state would finance education through a sales tax. Ward said the ultimate reduction to property owners would be a 60 percent cut in the tax bill.

But board chairman Ed Edelman pointed out that an overall tax reform law would have to include a revision in assessment practices because "as long as we have inflation the property values continue to rise and taxes will rise along with it."

He recommended "split assesments" as an alternative through which homeowners would be taxed at one rate and owners of income property would be taxed on a higher basis. He said six or seven states are already using that method.

The supervisors asked Gov. Brown to call back the legislators as soon as possible so that the "small taxpayers" could bet a break in time for next year's taxes.

L.V. council halts home construction

A pending water shortage has put a stop, at least temporarily, to the unprecedented population growth of La Verne.

The City Council, at a special meeting Tuesday night, slapped a freeze on the construction of new homes, except for one tract in the Foxglen area, and one house in the middle of the city.

Kenneth I. Mullen, the city's water consultant, said the two projects would not cause water problems.

Mullen said the city actually had enough water in its wells but because that water had to be blended with the supply from the Metropolitan Water District in diffuse impurities, the system could not serve additional subdivisions right now.

The moratorium will remain in effect until Dec. 3 to enable Mullen to prepare a report on what is needed and how it can be financed. The freeze could then be extended until the needed facilities are built.

In Tuesday's preliminary report, the water consultant told the council that a $.5 million reservoir and connecting pipelines would have to be built in the area between Foothill Boulevard and Base Line Road, another reservoir is needed south of Foothill, and additional reservoirs and pipes are needed in La Verne Heights, the prime area for the extension of the system.

The moratorium was approved despite some mild objections by developers who told the council they had millions of dollars tied up in proposed subdivisions.

The builders told the city they would be willing to pay their share of the cost of water if they could obtain building permits but the construction of needed facilities may take as much as two years.

Spray paint can ordinance adopted by Chino council

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Possession of aerosol spray paint cans by minors will soon be against the law in Chino following adoption by the City Council of an anti-graffiti ordinance Tuesday night.

Chino Police Chief Gerald Doyle reported to the council that banning the possession and sale of spray paint to minors would help police in their efforts to combat a graffiti problem in the city.

His original proposal, however, would have only prohibited possession of the paint between the hours of 8 p.m. and 8 a.m. when most graffiti incidents take place, he said.

City Councilwoman Eileen Carter asked that the ordinance be revised to prohibit possession of spray paint cans by minors at any time.

"It would seem to me it would be better if possession by minors was prohibited around the clock," Mrs. Carter said.

When the question was raised by Mayor Bob McLeod that around-the-clock enforcement of the ordinance might prohibit youths from legitimate uses of spray paint, she replied, "You could always require the good old-fashioned letter from the teacher."

Doyle explained that police would use discretion in enforcing the ban. He also indicated steps would be taken to prevent potential abuse of the law.

Doyle said present law does not allow police to prevent defacing of public and private property unless officers catch violators in the act.

"We feel this ordinance will help us a great deal. We want to keep spray paint out of the hands of kids. We feel it is kids that are doing most of the damage," he explained.

The new ordinance, which will go into effect in 60 days, will also prohibit city merchants from selling spray paint cans to persons under the age of 18, or displaying spray paint in self-service counters.

"We feel this part of the ordinance will prevent shoplifting of paint cans," Doyle said.

The anti-graffiti ordinance was written by Chino City Atty. James Gutierrez and is modeled after a similar ordinance that has been used in San Dimas for about one year.

Ontario council agrees it will not issue Expo bonds

Under no circumstances will the City of Ontario issue the $133 million revenue bonds necessary to finance Expo 81, the City Council unanimously agreed Tuesday night.

The action came in response to a question from the audience after the council had voted 3-2 to approve the previously considered Expo 81 agreement.

The agreement, according to City Manager Roger Hughbanks, sets out conditions under which the proposed world's fair could be held at Ontario Motor Speedway (OMS) in 1981.

"It is a working document," said Hughbanks. "It spells out what City of Ontario would do and what the Expo 81 Corp. would do, if a fair should be presented."

This was the third time the agreement had been before the council. It was continued twice, first when one councilman said he had not been notified ahead, and again when the mayor went on vacation.

The two no votes against the agreement were cast by council members Bob Abel and Faye Dastrup.

The council authorized Mayor Paul Treadway to accept a $2.258 million federal grant through the Public Works Act for construction of a new City Hall in the Civic Center.

Hughbanks said the project should be into construction prior to the federally-required Dec. 15 deadline.

Council also authorized the mayor to accept a $282,000 grant and a $534,000 loan under President Carter's drought program.

The money will be used to reconstruct seven wells and develop other water production facilities, Hughbanks said.

Go slow on youth power

Gregg Schneiders, the White House "special projects" man who dreamed up the idea of a nationwide corps of juvenile energy inspectors, is either operating out of the penthouse level of an ivory tower or was told to come up with "something really different" to give to the President.

Not that the basic idea is all that bad. A "low key," voluntary program in which young people, armed with a government-prepared checklist, would go from house to house in their communities looking for energy problems — missing storm windows, underinflated automobile tires, leaky or overfilled toilets and the like.

One kind of energy this nation isn't short of is that of its youth, and we can't think of a better way of utilizing it than in a program to educate adults about conservation. We're sure the kids would respond with enthusiasm.

But as Schneiders conceives it, the inspectors would first make their outside inspection, then knock on the door and inform the resident of his "score" and offer to make a similar survey inside the house.

On the theory that there's always somebody who doesn't get the message, we're afraid there could be some serious misunderstandings on the part of homeowners who saw teen-agers peeking at their windows or snooping around their cars. Some people believe they have a God-given right to shoot anyone so engaged.

If this sounds overstated, we would still argue that many people would resent uninvited youngsters trooping about their property without permission. There have already been the inevitable — and most unfair — references to Hitler Youth and Big Brother. Thus our modest suggestion is this:

Try the idea out on a pilot basis in some community. But please, have the kids knock first, explain what's going on, get permission and then inspect.

Unfair to Old Glory

Dear Editor:

Umm!! Can you smell that delicious aroma of T-bone, sirloin, or even the lowly hamburger? Hurry, though, to the patio. They may be burning!! Once there, everything's fine. Just a little smoke to join the other pollution! Oh, that's OK, we must satisfy our stomachs and barbecuing gives the meats such a delicious flavor!

Horrors!! The next morning's paper announces you must register your barbecue at the city hall and sign up to use it once per month at a designated time. Ouch! This steps on my personal freedom. I'll appeal to the Supreme Court.

As I'm going to the mail box with the appeal, I happen to notice something red, white, and blue in the gutter. What's that? Oh, it could be a U.S. flag someone has thrown down because it's tattered and faded. Well, I'll just throw it in the garbage — wonder why they didn't burn it? But where? No back yard incinerator, no wood-burning fireplace! Still the garbage can is not the place for it, I'll give it along with mine to the Elks or VFW for their flag-burning ceremony. Oh yea?!? That's been outlawed by the Air Quality Management District!

Seriously, this is about the last word to inflict a high mandate on one of our most cherished rights — to have and love a flag and to dispose of it in a manner befitting its dignity.

Friends, shall we sit idly by and allow this Air Quality Management to interfere with our right to give a few flags a decent burial? Without raising our voice in protest?

If you have ever attended a flag-burning ceremony, you would be touched with the reverence and solemnity displayed. In about an hour's time once a year, over a hundred flags can be disposed of. Does that compare with the pollution of the hundreds of barbecues, freeways choked with cars, three-day weekends, etc., etc.

Maj. Robert Kingsbury, director of military and veteran's affairs for the county, feels that some alternative plan should be arranged and asks for suggestions.

As president of the Pomona Avenue of Flags, I resent this unfair treatment of Old Glory. Let's see what we can do to countermand this order as reported in the Progress Bulletin Thursday, Sept. 1, 1977 titled "Old Glory Disposal Quandary."

Please help by writing to: Maj. Robert Kingsbury, c/o L.A. County Air Pollution Control District, 434 S. San Pedro, Los Angeles, Calif. 90013.

Just in jest

If you don't believe our modern youth is definitely under-privileged, answer me this: — How many of today's youngsters have ever seen a button hook, an ivory-handled back scratcher, or an ear trumpet? For that matter, how many of them have ever been warned that if they swallowed watermelon seeds they would get appendicitis? Also, how many of them have been taught that a hefty dose of codliver oil is a sure cure for almost all childhood diseases? And ever since they have acquired electronic pocket computers and instant spellers, how many of our modern young folks are capable of reciting the multiplication table or know that although Constantinople is a very long word, you can spell it with two letters?

Well, there you have only a few of life's many advantages with which we Old Timers were so fortunately blessed. And somehow we just can't seem to get over feeling it is a crying shame today's youth are not enjoying similar advantages.

Feds finance swimming pool

By EARL G. WATERS

Assemblyman Mike Cullen who, as chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, keeps a watchful eye on state operations, recently deplored the manner in which funds are being allocated under the Federal Public Works Employment Act. His point was that many projects which have never been reviewed by the Legislature are being financed with federal funds. Worse, projects which were refused state money are being financed by the federal government.

As Cullen observed, the federal program "makes a shambles of our budgetary process." He said bypassing of the Legislature not only enables state agencies to build facilities not approved by it but puts it in the position of being compelled to subsequently finance completion of many of these projects as well as being burdened ever after with the costs of maintenance and operation.

Cullen provided a list of projects totalling $56 million which the federal government had approved. The document had been prepared by Martin Glick, director of employment. Among those things listed was $425,000 for solar heating swimming at Long Beach State. This fact was duly reported here.

Now, Jon H. Regnier, director of physical planning and development at the Long Beach university, has written "to clarify the description of the project." He said he "would appreciate a correction of the impression left by your article that we were going to spend $425,000 to solar heat a swimming pool . . . (and) would appreciate your correction of the implication . . . that the swimming pool project is low priority." Regnier explains that only $100,000 will go for solar heating and $325,000 is "to replace or repair two instructional pools."

OK, Mr. Regnier, but $100,000 is still a lot of money and some may wonder why that is necessary in balmy Southern California. But the real question is how did the swimming pool project get into the act in the first place.

The office of legislative analyst advises that funds for the project were not only never requested of the Legislature but were not on the college trustees' list of approved projects for 1977 or on the five-year project plan. They also advise that, historically, swimming pools have a low priority with the Legislature.

In contrast, the Legislature did approve $500,000 to equip the school's industrial science building and increased its request of $600,000 for equipping a science building to $1.1 million. It also granted $265,000 for design plans for a music building but that was blue pencilled by Gov. Jerry Brown.

Regnier alludes to the federal funds as a savings to the state. Obviously he knows better but, as many on the receiving end of federal project money do, he gives the impression that such money is manna from heaven and no cost to the taxpayer.

Cullen gets nearly apoplectic on the subject, stating that "It costs the taxpayers at least $1.10 for every dollar going into projects from this roundabout source." Cullen isn't even figuring the long-term operational and maintenance costs for projects which might not exist without federal funding but he is aware of them, for he says, "Regardless of where the money comes from, it should be used for projects with the highest priorities."

Even Regnier concedes "the current (federal) program . . . on the surface, appears to be fairly chaotic."

Of beanies and freshpersons

Thoughtful-Americans shouldn't read too much significance into the return of the freshman beanie to Columbia University after an absence of eight years.

While it is one more welcome sign that things have gone back to normal on the nation's college campuses after the unrest of the late 1960s and early 1970s, it should be borne in mind that the wearing of the cranial apparel is strictly optional.

Thus it is expected that many Columbia "freshpersons," unconversant with tradition, insufficiently appreciative of their lowly station in life and — perhaps — immoderately obsessed with the idea of obtaining an education, may reject the symbol outright or consider it merely a novelty.

Also flouting tradition is the fact that the new Columbia beanie sports a visor, suggestive of the headgear customarily worn by those who engage in the game of baseball.

One campus does not a beanie revival make. To be sure, the Columbia development is a beginning, but whatever happened to goldfish swallowing, Volkswagen stuffing and all those other "important" activities America's institutions of higher learning were once noted for?

A hit in any league

He may not be the new Babe Ruth or the new Henry Aaron, but let's concede that Japan's Sadaharu Oh probably would have been a great hitter no matter where he played.

We say this because we think Oh deserves more credit than he's been getting in the states for hitting his 756th home run the other night and thereby surpassing the American record of 755 set by Aaron before he retired last year.

So, all right, Japanese baseball is not quite up to American standards. So the parks tend to be smaller and the pitchers less intimidating. But those who've seen Oh in action — and that includes ex-major leaguers playing in Japan — will tell you that Oh can play first base on any man's team.

Forget about Ruth and Aaron. Let's just think of Oh as the Japanese version of Mel Ott, with his right leg cocked in the air and a nasty habit of smashing the ball into the right field bleachers on every 10th trip to the plate.

Carter swayed by gas industry

WASHINGTON — It looks as if the White House may base the future price of natural gas on a study that was strongly influenced by the friendly folks who sell natural gas.

The new Energy Department, which will take jurisdiction over the energy muddle next month, will have the power to set interstate gas rates. The Energy Research and Development Administration, meanwhile, came up with a study that would undercut the White House's pricing policies. The report has been forwarded to the White House.

Now a confidential Senate investigation has found the study was tainted. An alarmed Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, has written to energy czar James Schlesinger about the findings.

"Disturbing information regarding influence exerted by the natural gas industry upon the development and conclusions of the natural gas supply study . . . ," he wrote, "has been brought to my attention."

He informed Schlesinger that the ERDA task force had relied heavily on an earlier study by the Stanford Research Institute. Declared Metzenbaum: "Natural gas industry representatives had the final say on the cost-of-production estimates which were incorporated into the Stanford Research Institute study."

The Stanford group, he said, had engaged in some mysterious sleight of hand. At the beginning of the study in 1975, the group estimated the available gas supplies were 25 percent higher than the figure it is now using.

This strange shrinkage in the supply estimates caused an equivalent rise in the cost-of-production estimates. Now the natural gas industry can cite the higher cost estimates to justify higher prices. Metzenbaum referred to this juggling as a "manipulation of cost figures" affecting "about one-fifth of the total gas supply projected."

Apparently, the industry influence went even beyond the Stanford study. The ERDA task force's Christian Knudsen was compelled to discard his own gas supply curve, he told Metzenbaum, because it "conflicted with the industry's supply estimates." As a result, Knudsen was removed from the task force.

The director of the ERDA team, Philip White, admitted that Knudsen's findings were ignored in favor of the industry's estimates. Or to put it in the words of White's aide, Hugh Guthrie, Knudsen's curve was "inconsistent with current industry experience."

Significantly, both White and Guthrie came to the government from the oil and gas industry. White was on the payroll of Standard Oil of Indiana for 37 years and still draws a $43,000 annual pension from a company trust. And Guthrie collects $15,000 a year from Shell Oil after 33 years with the company.

Footnote: White admitted the ERDA report drew information and suggestions from the industry. But he insisted: "We deal in technical not political decisions." Knudsen's curve, he said, was "somewhat naive." Guthrie agreed with White and stressed that their personal integrity should not be questioned.

Convention inflation

By MARTHA ANGLE
and ROBERT WALTERS

DETROIT (NEA) — "We're going to need Yankee Stadium for the (1980 Democratic National) Convention," moaned exasperated political writer Ken Bode.

"I know," replied a bemused Morley A. Winograd, chairman of Michigan's Democratic party. "This is the Astrodome proposal."

That exchange occurred earlier this month, when the Democratic party's Commission on Presidential Nomination and Party Structure, headed by Winograd, met here to consider reforms and refinements in party rules.

Despite the implication of the Bode-Winograd colloquy, the commission promptly moved to tentatively adopt the mindless proposal being discussed — a rules change that will grant honorary, ex officio delegate status at the 1980 convention to virtually every-real and imagined Democratic leader in the country.

Specifically, the commission proposed to award everything except voting rights to Democratic members of the House and Senate, governors, mayors, state and local officials, community leaders, party officials and even contributors.

That's not all the politicians got from the commission. Another proposal, also tentatively approved, calls for a 10 per cent expansion of the total number of voting delegates (slightly more than 3,000 last year), with all of the newly created convention votes specifically earmarked for distribution to "party leaders and elected officials."

The first, although not necessarily most significant, problem with that approach involves the massive size of the quadrennial presidential nominating conventions, among the largest meetings now held in this country.

In addition to the 3,000 delegates and their families at the 1976 Democratic convention, there were an equal number of alternates and their families, an oversized press corps of about 7,500, politicians' staff members, contributors, guests, observers, lobbyists and all manner of hangers-on, for a total of about 20,000 people.

The political conventions have grown so large that the number of cities with both sufficient hotel rooms and a cavernous meeting hall large enough to accommodate either the Democrats or Republicans can be counted on the fingers of one hand.

New York's Yankee Stadium and Houston's Astrodome are indeed large enough, but there's little likelihood of the Democratic convention being held in either city. The early favorite for host city, for obvious reasons, is Atlanta. Its biggest hall is the Omni, a large convention facility but certainly not big enough to hold the crowd the Winograd commission has authorized.

The more serious difficulties posed by the commission's planned changes are philosophical ones. For the past decade, party reformers have worked hard to cut down the number of big shots and fat cats who traditionally dominated conventions in the past.

As recently as 1964, only 1 per cent of the country's population earned $25,000 or more annually, but wealthy men and women in that category comprised 30 per cent of that year's Democratic convention delegates.

At the 1972 and 1976 conventions, grass-roots supporters of the various candidates and rank-and-file party workers finally claimed some of the delegate seats that rightfully were theirs, as did members of traditionally underrepresented groups such as blacks, women and young people.

Jimmy Carter, the self-proclaimed "people's president," ought to be concerned about future conventions being overrun by politicians — but he has delegated authority to deal with party rules changes to Mark A. Siegel, a zealous opponent of reform efforts of recent years.

A brilliant political strategist and deputy assistant to the President on the White House staff, Siegel sits on the commission and controls a pro-Carter majority on that panel. But he has unwisely chosen to abuse that power by cutting a deal with the same old-school politicians who only a year ago were Carter's favorite subject of derision.

A word about chain letters

Dear Ann Landers: May I make a comment on chain letters? I refer to those similar to the one I am enclosing — The Good Luck Prayer.

I've been asked to send 20 copies of the prayer within four days. (Postage alone is $2.60 — not to mention the time and trouble.)

I can't think of 20 people I dislike enough to hand them such a bothersome burden. The chain letter I am now looking at threatens death to anyone who breaks the chain. How would I feel if I sent this terrible thing to a friend and she died shortly after?

Since I am not acquainted with any of the signatures on the letter, who knows if it has been around the world nine times or whether the extravagant claims are true. Please comment. — Mad In Unionville, Ontario

Dear Mad: Chain letters are a racket, a crashing bore and a pain in the ankle. They are also illegal. My advice to one and all who receive these trashy annoyances is to feed them to the nearest goat.

Dear Ann Landers: I've noticed complaints from your readers because you use "he" when you mean he or she. Why don't you create a new pronoun exclusively denoting him or her? May I suggest "hem."

Any newly made-up word, in order to gain acceptance, would have to be launched by a widely-read person such as you. I hope you'll do it, Ann. Sexist expressions are an insult to the new breed of woman. — P.T. From San Francisco

Dear P.T.: the word "hem" is already in the language. It has several meanings: (1) to restrain or surround, (2) the border or edge of a piece of fabric, (3) to pause in speech..as to "hem and haw."

I'm not particularly interested in coining any new words. I have enough trouble with the ones we already have.

Dear Ann Landers: Was I right or wrong? I'll leave it to you.

My husband and I were invited to my mother-in-law's home for Sunday brunch. She was a little late with the preparation so I offered to help.

I went in the back of the house to get my eyeglasses out of my purse and passed the bedroom I was shocked to catch glimpse of my husband lying on the bed and my mother-in-law's stepdaughter was sitting on the edge of the bed beside him. It looked very cozy.

After I regained my composure I walked back there, stood in the doorway and gave my husband a go-to-hell look. When we got home I told him a thing or two. He said I was out of my mind. — to "grow up" — that a mature woman wouldn't throw a fit over "nothing."

Does that sound like "nothing" to you? Answer soon. I am — Furious In Anson

Dear Fury: Sorry, there are too many missing links in your story. (1) How old is the girl? (2) Why was your husband lying down? Was he ill? (3) What do you do when you "throw a fit"? Yell? Belt him? If I had more information I might be able to give you a reasonably intelligent answer. Write again, please.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Mosquito nips parakeet

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband thinks I was having a hallucination, but I'm positive I saw a mosquito biting Toots, our parakeet. Mosquitos do bite parakeets, don't they? Please say yes. My husband says no, that they bite people. — T.R.

DEAR T.R.: Of some 120 species of mosquito in North America, many (fortunately for us) have the poor taste to prefer species other than man. Since several species prefer birds, it's entirely possible Toots was attacked by a hungry mosquito.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've been advised to have all the hair clipped off my collie because he has a bad skin rash all over. Won't he look pretty gruesome without his coat? — L.Z.

DEAR L.Z.: Probably he'd look peculiar, possibly gruesome, too, at least as long as he's afflicted with the skin problem. Certainly, treating a generalized, stubborn and severe skin condition in a long-haired dog is greatly simplified when the hair's removed. It's a logical part of the treatment. As far as appearance is concerned, don't cry, or laugh, when you see your dog hairless, he'll feel badly enough about his coatless condition, anyway.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My kids are small so I had the cat declawed to protect them. It didn't work because now she bites them when they grab her. I hate to spend more money on her, but I'll have to have her teeth filed flat, unless you've got a better idea. — R.H.

DEAR R.H.: A better idea would be to keep the kids from grabbing your cat in the first place. This could save the kids from serious problems since cat bites frequently become infected.

Also, it could spare your cat the trauma of being pounced on and packed around in a manner to which she doesn't want to become accustomed. Besides the expense involved, filing feline teeth flat is an impractical approach to the problem since such teeth would all become infected and need to be extracted. No, I'm not recommending your feline's fangs and/or other teeth be pulled. To reiterate, I'm suggesting her teeth (at least) be left intact, and that SHE be protected from the children so that she doesn't have to defend herself by biting. Small children cannot be expected to handle her properly and, in fact, shouldn't be allowed to try, for the good of all concerned. And you should be concerned for all.

About this-that

The average United States family of four eats almost three tons of food annually.

A gold mine near Johnsville, Calif., may have been the home of America's first ski lift. In 1860, skiers skied down the mountain slope there on Sundays, riding up again aboard the mine's chain line of ore buckets.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Thursday, Sept. 22, 1977
Your Birthday, Sept. 22, 1977

Situations that you will personally control develop as you want them to this coming year. Under no conditions should you leave important decisions to subordinates.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This could be a red letter day for you materially. Everything is keyed to something you're presently working for, not a new venture. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The attention is centered on you socially today. It's not that you'll try to dominate the scene, but others will push you into the limelight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to bear in mind today that you carry a little more weight than your opponents. There's no force stronger than the power within that makes you a winner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, revitalize a friendship that can stand you in good stead for your own personal gratification. This is where your treasure lies.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you will function best in situations from which you can gain. This doesn't imply you're being selfish. It's only logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 19-Feb. 19) Look at life philosophically today and you'll be a winner with very little effort; if not, I'd be apprehensive about the final results.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others want to do favors for you today and accomplish things to make you happy. Don't be patronizing. This would inhibit their efforts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If at all possible today, get together with those with whom you'd like to firm up a business relationship. Much can be accomplished.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions favor talking to people today who can do things for your work or career. Deal directly with them. Good things will happen.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Follow your nobler instincts and give unstintingly of your time and substance to others today. Returns will be far greater than the outlay.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something important in your life is presently undergoing a radical transformation. Don't be fretful. It will prove to be for the better.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Wherever you go today, you bring sunshine and harmony. You are the moderating influence that brings others to the negotiating table.

This mummy is no dummy

Like thousands of other Southern Californians, I am eagerly awaiting the arrival at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art on Feb. 15 of "Treasures of Tutankhamen," an exhibition of treasures, jewelry, artifacts and golden goodies from the tomb of King Tutankhamen, fabled "boy king" of Egypt some years ago (1352-1344 B.C.) If you think "Star Wars" drew crowds, wait until the late Egyptian teen-ager hits town!

King Tut, as he is commonly referred to by us commoners, loved art, gold, nubile maidens and being king. I find that Tut and I have a lot ankhamen.

Tut, as you know, hem, married one of the daughters of Amenhotep IV. He was a mere boy when he ascended the throne, and he never knew about oil wells. He died before he was 20 and had himself buried in a subterranean Buckingham Palace, surrounded by furniture, tapestries, jewelry, weapons — even the throne — and possibly a few faithful slaves. This gigantic tomb-treasure room was stumbled upon in 1922 by an archeological expedition led by the Earl of Carnarvon. It did nothing to detract from the romantic appeal of the digs that a pulp magazine curse against plunderers of the tomb was emblazoned over the doorway and within a few years the members of the British expedition were dropping like flies. Juicy, that! Mummy's curse, what? Hand from the grave and all that. Jolly stuff for the Sunday supplements.

King Tut's mummy case and its attendant furnishings are now on tour of the United States and they are outdrawing the Dodgers. At the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., lines went around the block from dawn till dark, seven days a week for four months. When the exhibit moved to Chicago's Field Museum in April, people camped out all night on the museum's grounds, just like a World Series.

The exhibit is now down in New Orleans where it has generated enthusiasm and tourist trade above the Super Bowl and nearly rivaling the Mardi Gras itself. The office of Mayor Moon Landrieu (really, that's his name!) reported, "The direct economic impact of the 'Treasures of Tutanhamen' on the city is estimated between $20 million and $30 million." If Tut were alive today, he could have reaped 10 percent, more than his kingdom's wealth. People are pouring into the city, hotels and motels are booked solid, theaters and restaurants are full. It's like Expo 81.

One way to assure yourself of seeing the exhibit without waiting in day-long lines is to buy a membership in the museum. The Chicago museum's memberships zoomed to more than 60,000 (double the normal) when the Tut exhibit came, and they finally suspended new memberships. The New Orleans museum stopped selling memberships in August — they had gone from 3,000 to 12,000. The Seattle museum, where the Tut road show plays after Los Angeles, knocked off membership sales in July — they had more than five times their normal enrollment.

American merchants have not been snoozing at the tomb. There is a Tut sleeping bag on the market ($140), and golden scarabs and mock mummy heads. A New Orleans orchestra has an album out, "Old King Tut," and a local theater company is doing "Tut, Tut," a spoof on mummy movies. Tut tie-ins are seen in white goods, clothing, wall paper, cosmetics, jewelry and even a line of sunken bathtubs. I'm thinking of starting an Egyptian newspaper, the Tut Tattler.

It is estimated that more than 10 million people will see the Tutankhamen exhibit during its three-year, seven-city American tour.

Tut is not really an exemplary figure. It is recorded that he met a toothsome Egyptian naiad in the royal garden one evening and made her a mummy.

Dr. Lamb

Pain hampers his daily walk

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 75 and have walked all my life. I still walk every day only I am having trouble with my leg. I can only walk a few blocks and have to stop while the pain leaves. I do not have high blood pressure and all my tests come out okay.

My doctor gave me Roiacol time span tablets, one a day, and I've taken them for more than a year. I just cannot tell the difference. What do you think of this drug?

I just feel awful when I do not get my walk. I would hate to give it up. It's the best part of my life physically.

Is there anything you could suggest to me? I would try anything. I do not take any other kind of medicines. I'm not heavy, 5 feet 6 and 117 pounds.

DEAR READER — Helping you depends upon what you really have. Your doctor must think the pain is caused by poor circulation as Roniacol is used to increase circulation. Your description of developing a pain with walking that goes away with resting suggests that may be the case.

Other possible causes include arthritic changes which might involve the hip or knee. You might ask your doctor to arrange for a consultation with an orthopedic specialist and see if he can provide any help.

You might also get some help from simple aspirin. Why? Because it is a good pain reliever and it seems to have some anti-clotting action that might be helpful. Its "blood thinning" action might help your circulation if that is the problem. So whether you have pain from arthritis or poor circulation it could be tried.

Talk to your doctor about it first as some people do not tolerate aspirin well but most do. A few people are inclined to develop a bleeding tendency with it. It should be taken with meals or at least with a cup of milk. I am sending you the health Letter number 8-8, Apirin and Related Medicines, for you to study. It will give you information on how to take aspirin safely. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New Yok, N.Y., 10019. Aspirin will not interfere with the action of the Roniacol that you are already taking.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a woman of 49 years. I took the pill for eight years and have been off it for a year now. I have not had a period since I came off the pill. Does this mean I have gone through the change and there isn't any possibility of my becoming pregnant at this age?

DEAR READER — Women who naturally have completed the menopause and have not had a period for over a year are not likely to get pregnant — some authorities say two years BUT in the case of the woman who has been on the pill as in your case, you should be very careful about deciding that you have gone through the menopause.

The pill may result in a temporary suppression of the normal ovulation process and you might still ovulate. I think under these circumstances you should definitely have your doctor examine you. He can advise you if you have or have not completed the menopause and are no longer likely to get pregnant before you throw caution to the wind.

Pass	2♣	Pass	2♦
Pass	4 N.T.	Pass	6 N.T.

Opening lead — 2♥

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

North's two-club bid was Stayman, his four notrump just a strong raise in notrump the way he and his partner were using Blackwood. South's jump to the slam was a mild overbid, but the slam was a good one. There were 11 top tricks and a heart finesse for 12.

South looked at the heart lead and decided that East would surely hold the queen. West was not the sort of a player who would lead from a queen against six notrump. So South looked around to find a way to make his slam even though the heart finesse was off.

The play was really obscure, but he found it. He played the eight of hearts from dummy and covered East's nine with the king.

Then he cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds and noted that the 10 dropped from East. He assumed that was East's last diamond. Four rounds of clubs came next. West chucked a heart, Dummy discarded a spade and the queen of diamonds.

Now South led ace and a small spade. West could not afford to rise with the king. That play would drop East's queen so West played the 10 spot. East was in with the queen and had to lead away from his queen of hearts up to the ace-jack in dummy.

Ask the Jacobys

Was the late George Reith the first contract expert to use point count?

He was the first writer to use one. His count was A = 6; K = 4; Q = 3; J = 2 and 10 = 1.

We owe George a great debt. Back in 1929 he asked young, unknown Oswald Jacoby to play as his partner in the first contract pair tournament. They won and Jacoby was started on his bridge career.

Drunken tuna easy to move

The sealife folk, as all realize, are called upon from time to time to transport fish from one place to another. But that species of tuna known as albacore gets a little tricky in travel. It thrashes around like crazy. To simmer down a tankful of such, alcohol was poured into the albacore's water. Excellent, excellent. They all got drunk. Shipping them was easy. They didn't care.

Q. "What's a 'grief therapist'?"
A. That's collegiate jargon for funeral director.

A. About 75.

A. Maybe 24.

OLD AND HELPLESS

It was long a tradition among the traveling Eskimoes to leave their helpless elderly to die when said oldsters no longer could care for themselves. Certain South Sea natives refined that tribal survival even further. Their helpless elderly simply climbed into canoes and paddled off into oblivion. In the event of worldwide nuclear war, what do you suppose our helpless elderly would do? A Rand Corporation study of 11 years ago checked out such a possibility. Upshot: It was thought that no provisions should be made for the oldsters, that the nation in such a fix would be better off without any of the aged and feeble.

A haberdasher is basically a dealer in accessories — shirts, ties, socks. Peddlers in Germany would cry their wares by calling "Habe das" -- in English — "I have that." When the sellers settled in stores they kept their traveling name — haberdasher.

Water conservation policy adopted

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council asks that all citizens do their best not to waste water.

Recognizing that the severe drought conditions now existing in California will affect the quality of living in the community, now and in the future, the city has recently adopted a City Water Conservation Policy.

The water conservation policy adopted in June asks that all citizens of Claremont follow four basic conservation measures.

Water use for the City of Claremont from March through August was 37 per cent less than for the same months in 1976.

Water use by residents appears to be similarly reduced, a city official said.

Claremont residents are specifically requested not to hose down sidewalks, walkways, driveways or parking areas.

It is requested that no lawn be watered between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Water running from a hose while washing a car should be directed on plants or turned off.

Sprinklers should be adjusted to provide the most efficient watering with minimum flow.

Observed violators of the policy may be contacted by city personnel and asked to stop wasteful practices.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Paul E. Cook, Department of Community Development, 624-4531, ext. 229.

School bond panel named

The Pomona school board has named an 11-member panel to make recommendations to the district in preparation for a school bond election next spring.

The committee composed of community residents was directed to hold its first meeting tonight in the board room of the Education Center to select a chairman and begin developing its recommendations on the size and scope of the bond election.

Early estimates have ranged anywhere from $15 to $30 million in bonds that the district may attempt to gain through the sale. It is felt by many observers that the district will go for one large package instead of two or three smaller ones to insure the floating of funds for the Diamond Bar high school, a measure which may meet some resistance in Pomona.

To counteract that resistance, it is felt that several needs now facing the district's Pomona schools may also be included in the bond election. Already mentioned have been the one or two elementary schools in the Phillips Ranch area, a new kindergarten facility for Arroyo Elementary School, a cafeteria and additions to Westmont Elementary School, additional classroom space at Hamilton Elementary School, additional classroom structures at Ganesha and Pomona high schools, replacement of many of the district's vintage relocatable classrooms and some kind of provision for maintenance to bring some of the substandard schools up to par.

Other projects which have been mentioned but which may find tough going to win approval when cost of the rudimentary list is considered include a district football stadium, a district auditorium, a continuation school for junior high school students and a special education facility.

The district presently has approximately $20 million in unused bonding capacity. Districts in California may be bonded to 10 per cent of their total assessed valuation.

Despite that, the district might float a bond election for more than its present 10 per cent bonding level, and not sell the bonds until the district assessed valuation increases — through growth and inflation — to meet the additional amount.

Committeee members are:

—Shirley Robbins, a longtime community activist and director of Open Choices, a community agency attached to the Greater Los Angeles Community Action Agency.

—John Ridley, a former City Council candidate and a member of the city's Merit Commission who resides in south Pomona.

—Ken Pine, a Diamond Bar resident and former school trustee who has worked tirelessly for a Diamond Bar high school.

—Shirley Abrams, another noted community activist who recently chaired the district's Affirmative Action Committee.

—Roy Decker, a former longtime member of the Pomona school board.

—Bob Abernathy, a school administrator in Whittier and a member of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association who has served on the homeowners education committee.

—Mary Montes, former president of the Pomona school board and longtime activist in the Pomona Latin community.

—Jo Sigler, an officer in the Associated Pomona Teachers and a lifelong Pomona resident.

—J. Romo, another prominently involved member of the community and former member of the city's general plan committee, owner of Romo Electronics.

—Clyde Stephens, a former candidate for the California Assembly and an employee of General Dynamics.

—Laura Pilchier, the president of the Pomona Council of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Ferguson honored

Ray W. Ferguson, general manager of the Chino Basin Municipal Water District, has been honored by the district's board of directors for his 15 years of service.

He was appointed to the district board in 1962 and represented the Ontario area. He then became general manager in 1976.

Ferguson also serves as a commissioner of the Santa Ana Watershed Project Authority, director of the Association of California Water Agencies, and a director of the Metropolitan Water District.

HMC CENTER DEDICATED — Participating in the dedication of the Jacobs Science Center at Harvey Mudd College recently were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Jacobs, donors; D. Kenneth Baker, HMC president; and Hary T. Mudd, board chairman, from left. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs pledged $1 million in endowment funds in 1976 when the college launched its Campaign/25, an effort to raise $25 million by the college's 25th year in 1980. The science center was built in 1961, but has been completely remodeled and houses the chemistry department, part of the physics department and the new biological sciences laboratory.

23 reach scholarship semis

Twenty-three local students have been named semifinalists in the 23rd annual National Merit Scholarship Program.

These academically talented students will have an opportunity to continue in the competition for about 3,900 Merit Scholarships to be awarded to 15,000 semifinalists across the nation in the spring of 1978.

Semifinalists are named from over one million students enrolled in 17,500 high schools who entered the 1978 program by taking the 1976 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Local semifinalists and their schools are: Daniel J:. Knauer, Alta Loma High School; Lisa A. Beckwith, Chino; Glenn R. Wichman, Claremont; Devin E. Benhur, Bradford K. Justus and Michael K. Mills, Webb School, Claremont; Michael A. Klaus and Michael K. Motsberry, Glendora.

Thomas J. Rogers, Wilson High School, Hacienda Heights; Brain A. McLaughlin, Damien High School, La Verne; Terri L. Cheney, Juliet D. Connor, Lance M. Schaina and Laurence M. Schaina, Chaffey High School, Ontario; Roberta J. Brandenburg, Ganesha High School, and Marty K. Rupp, Garey High School, Pomona; Dennis W. Disney, San Dimas High School.

Janet M. Carnett, Shirley L. Carter, Steve E. Omlid, Cheryl R. Robnett, Richard A. Sonner and Dennis M. Young, Upland High School.

The semifinalists, most of whom will complete high school and enter college in 1978, represent the top half of 1 per cent of the nation's most academically talented young people.

Since the merit scholarship program was established in 1956, over 49,850 students have won scholarships valued at more than $136 million.

Three valley hospitals have been accredited

Three valley hospitals have been accredited under a comprehensive, statewide Consolidated Accreditation and Licensure Survey (CALS) program.

They are Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitation and Pomona Valley Community Hospital in Pomona and San Dimas Community Hospital.

The California Medical Association, the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals and the California State Department of Health jointly conduct the CALS surveys, collecting data.

CALS surveys about 325 hospitals a year. The survey takes one to three days, depending upon the size of the hospital, and are made by a team of five: a state licensing representative, two CMA physicians and a physician and nurse from the joint commission.

The surveyors give the hospital an analysis of its quality and recommendations for any needed improvements, and, if warranted, will accredit the hospital, enabling it to participate in the Medicare and Medi-Cal programs.

Chino General Hospital gains its accreditation

The Chino General Hospital, a 118-bed facility, was recently accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, said Dean Garrison, hospital administrator.

The accreditation covers the period from May, 1977 to May, 1979. This was the result of an on-site survey made by an accrediting team.

During the survey, doctors and employees were interviewed, plant facilities and equipment inspected, and the quality of health care analyzed, he said.

Accreditation surveys are voluntary. Hospitals don't have to be legally accredited, but most seek it because it represents a benchmark of quality higher than required by the government, Garrison explained.

The Chino hospital, located at 5451 Walnut Ave., has about 2,000 patient admissions and 15,000 outpatients annually. It is staffed by 90 physicians and 130 employees.

Resuscitation class offered

The Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA will sponsor a class in cardio pulmonary resuscitation Thursday at 6 p.m. at the YMCA office, 400 S. Brea Canyon Road.

The fee will be $2. The class is three hours long. Susan Fisher, a certified instructor from the American Heart Association, will teach.

Class size is limited. For further information, persons may call the Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA at 595-5015.

MYSTERY VICTIM DIES — Unidentified, severely beaten young woman lies unconscious in earlier photograph at a Chicago hospital. She died of her injuries without being identified by hundreds of parents who visited her.

Really against canal treaty, says panel member

Joint Chiefs not stating true feelings?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior member of the House Armed Services committee said Tuesday he does not believe Gen. George Brown and the Joint Chiefs of Staff were stating their true feelings when they endorsed the Panama Canal treaties.

"The Joint Chiefs have been put on notice this year that they either express the party line or else," Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., told a House hearing on the agreements.

Brown, who is chairman of the Joint Chiefs, has said publicly that the military group backs the treaty "100 per cent" and has previously characterized as "false and vicious" accusations that the chiefs were supporting the treaty merely as an "act of loyalty to the President."

Stratton, who is third-ranking Democrat on the Armed Services panel, said he has strong misgivings about the treaty provisions under which the United States supposedly would be guaranteed the right to defend the canal after it is turned over to Panama in the year 2000.

A close reading of the documents shows that no such provision actually exists, Stratton claimed. "It refers only to neutrality, and how do you get defense out of that?

"There is not a single word in there that gives us any defense rights. We need it, and in words of one syllable, not an abstruse interpretation by some second echelon flunky in the State Department," he said.

Stratton spoke as the House International Relations Committee resumed hearings that opened last week with former secretaries of state Henry Kissinger and Dean Rusk testifying in favor of the canal agreements.

Although the Senate would ratify the treaties, the House will have a voice in deciding whether to approve an economic package for Panama and possibly on the transfer of U.S. property to that country.

In the Senate, Assistant Majority Leader Alan Cranston, DCalif., reported for the first time a headcount indicating enough support for ratification. He said the number of senators committed or "leaning in favor" of the pacts was in the "high 60s" and those opposed or leaning that way in the "low 20s."

Ratification requires a twothirds vote — 67 votes if all 100 senators were present. Cranston said he could find only seven senators "for which I have no feeling" as to their views on the subject.

Surveys of Senate attitudes toward the treaties have varied widely, showing anywhere from a third to two-thirds of the members undecided. Hearings will begin in the Senate next week.

Today's House witnesses included some of the treaties' most outspoken foes, including Rep. Philip Crane, R-Calif., chairman of the American Conservative Union, and Rep. Larry McDonald, R-Ga.

Stratton said that ever since Robert S. McNamara was secretary of defense under President John F. Kennedy, "we have found it very difficult to get uniformed military officials to come up here and tell us what they really think. Congress has to ask for their personal opinion, so that they'll be able to give it."

Jane Doe dies of beating injuries; still no identity

CHICAGO (AP) — Hospital attendants lovingly called her Jane and wept when she died. Hundreds of parents called or visited in the hope that the pretty, blonde Jane Doe might be their missing daughter.

The teen-ager, found beaten unconscious in a forest preserve Sept. 6, died unknown but not alone.

Resurrection Hospital received 500 telephone calls from parents in a dozen states. The suburban Schiller Park police who investigated the case estimated they received 1,000 calls from parents.

Pictures of the girl in her hospital bed appeared in newspapers and on television. More than 200 people visited her. She was a pitiful sight. Both eyes were blackened and there was an ugly bruise on the side of her head.

The freckle-faced mystery girl, believed to be 15 to 18 years old, died Sunday, never regaining consciousness. A memorial service was held in the hospital chapel Monday, and more than 150 attended, most of them white-uniformed hospital workers who fought for her life.

"I had a call from a mother in Pennsylvania yesterday who had not heard from her daughter for a year," a hospital spokesman said. "Like all the rest she asked about identifying clues. Some parents or relatives who called thought they might be on the right trail and took a plane to see her. They looked and left weeping, or went to the chapel to say a prayer for her.

"The girl had a remarkable effect on those who worked with her," he said. "Even our hardened nurses in intensive care sobbed when she died, every one of them."

Jane Doe will rest in Cook County morgue for at least 28 days. Possibly she will be identified. If not, the hospital spokesman said she "will be given a dignified burial." He said a funeral home will provide services without charge. Hospital employes are starting a fund for a grave site and marker.

Jane Doe was found near a road in Schiller Woods by a passerby who heard groans from a thicket. She was bound in a blanket wrapped with a knotted cord. The assailant had fashioned one end of the cord into a hangman's noose, but it was not around her neck.

Police theorized she had been dumped in the woods from a passing auto. She was wearing a mulicolored flower print blouse and black slacks.

At Jane Doe's mass, the Rev. John Kuhlmey, a hospital chaplain, said goodbye for her:

"I'm sorry to leave you so early, but for some unexplained reason, someone didn't want me to linger here too long," he read. "There are many girls — out there — just like me. Some of them are hungry and cold; hungry for love and cold from indifference.

"Couldn't you do something for them? Search them out, bring them to loving people."

Jane Doe did not die without love, although she didn't know who gave it.

Sharking experience ends in $300,000 suit

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The battle over the 2,000-pound great white shark began soon after it died.

A commercial fisherman caught it off Carlsbad in June 1976 and sold it to three men for $400.

The trailer in which they were taking it home — to a future as a sideshow exhibit — fishtailed on a freeway and crashed. A tow truck finally scooped up the 15-foot-long sea monster but by then its stench was overwhelming.

In desperation, the owners sold it to Robert T. MacBryde but he took them back as partners, refrigerated their prize and together they showed it at fairs throughout the United States.

But bickering ensued. In a $300,000 damage suit against his partners, MacBryde claimed Monday:

"The conspirators maliciously deprived my business of the chance of success and in so doing they deprived hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of people around the country of a thrilling and educational experience."

A defendant, Harley Branson, said the suit "will be defended vigorously."

The great white shark was silent in cold storage somewhere in Los Angeles.

New discount programs giving elderly a break

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Millions of senior citizens are learning that it sometimes pays to grow older.

They are taking advantage of discount programs offering older Americans up to 50 per cent off on products and services.

The programs, most of which were begun in late 1975 or early 1976, are spreading across the country. They vary in organization and eligibility requirements, but they all have the same goal: to help senior citizens, particularly those on fixed incomes, save money.

One of the most ambitious efforts is Ohio's "Golden Buckeye Card." Joe Gall of the Ohio Commission on Aging said it is the only statewide program in the country.

The Golden Buckeye plan started in March 1976. Ohio residents 65 and over can apply for a card at any one of about 1,500 locations. Holders of the cards are then entitled to discounts on everything from auto repairs to groceries at participating merchants.

As of the beginning of September, Gall said, 517,465 persons had applied for cards and 17,178 merchants were participating. He said the state had started a campaign to reach shut-ins and others who normally would not hear about the program through organized senior citizens clubs or activities.

A nationwide discount program is available through the American Association of Retired Persons, a Washington-based group with 10.8 million members. Anyone 55 or over can join the group — you don't necessarily have to be retired. Members pay a $3 annual fee and receive discounts at nine national hotel and motel chains and two rent-a-car companies, Hertz and Avis. They also can take advantage of a pharmacy service providing home delivery of prescription drugs and medical items at low cost.

Information is available from the association at 1909 K. St., Washington, D.C., 20049. (The association, in conjunction with the National Retired Teachers Association, also published a comprehensive "Retirement Information Guide," available from Fulfillment Section, NRTA-AARP, P.O. Box 2400, Long Beach, Calif., 90801.)

Individual stores in some areas also offer discounts on particular products on particular days. A New York supermarket chain, for example, gives senior citizens 10 per cent off on fresh produce one day a week. Korvettes, a New York-based chain of discount department stores, recently announced it would offer senior citizens a 10 per cent discount on merchandise in all its 58 branches every Wednesday.

Senior citizens in Illinois not only get store discounts, but also can participate in special programs of entertainment and recreation thanks to the VIP Council of Illinois, Inc., in Wheaton. VIP, a nonprofit group which receives some government funds and makes up the rest of its budget from fund-raising events and donations, has issued 35,000 cards to persons over 60. There is no charge for the cards, but the council accepts donations from those who can afford them.

Cardholders receive store discounts, free admission to some local college entertainment productions and special benefits such as low-cost trips to sporting events. Most participating merchants are in northern Illinois, but a council spokesman said some cardholders successfully used VIP identifications to get discounts elsewhere.

The elderly aren't the only beneficiaries of the discounts. The merchants themselves benefit through increased business. "There's lots more buying by senior citizens than by the young," said a spokesman for the Los Angeles Department of Parks, which started a Senior Citizen Discount Program last year.

Retailers participating in the Los Angeles program display a special emblem indicating that they give discounts to seniors. Lists of stores — now about 500 — are published regularly, and the spokesman said 1,500 copies of the latest directory, issued in May, already have been distributed.

The spokesman said that "on the whole," merchants have been willing to cooperate. Senior citizens who encounter trouble are encouraged to report to the parks department and the spokesman said, "I've had only two reports of problems this year."

The federal government has many programs to help the elderly. They range from many, well-known, widespread plans like Social Security to more limited things like the Golden Age Passport, which entitles holders to free admission to national parks, monuments and recreation areas.

Information on the programs is available from federal departments involved, but individuals may find it easier to contact state or local agencies. A list of state agencies is available from the Administration on the Aging, Washington, D.I. 20201.

A list of some federal aids in the areas of jobs, food, medical services and income supplements is included in a fact sheet from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Lance not doing his job right, says Proxmire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only senator who voted against confirming Bert Lance as budget director says Lance should resign because he has failed to master his job.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Monday he is not as concerned about allegations concerning Lance's conduct as a banker as he is about signs that the Georgian has not taken hold as director of the Office of Management and Budget, even though he has had since January to learn.

In three days of Senate hearings last week, Lance said he should be judged not solely on those occasions in which he may have made a business mistake, but on his entire career, including what he said are his early achievements as director of the OMB.

But Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said, "All indications are that he has delegated virtually all authority to subordinates and really hasn't taken charge at all."

Lance's sole qualification for the OMB director's job was that he was "President Carter's friend," Proxmire said.

"He had never managed a budget. He had not one minute of experience in the federal government," Proxmire said.

The Wisconsin Democrat said in an interview he believes that Lance's performance in office has justified his vote last January against confirmation.

Although Proxmire has been a critic of Lance for months, he has not previously urged the budget director to resign. He said late last month that while he wanted to see Lance replaced, he didn't believe the time was right for the President's longtime friend to quit.

"If Mr. Lance should leave now, there might be a feeling he was drummed out for a lack of integrity, and he's a man of high integrity," Proxmire said on Aug. 28.

Speaking on a television interview program, Proxmire added he hoped "there might be a time when Mr. Lance can step aside."

He said Lance should exploit the more favorable atmosphere that has been created to "resign with his head up."

3 go to jail now for Viet '70 war protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the turn of the decade, during an age of student protest, three young men participated in an anti-Vietnam war demonstration in a small college town near Washington.

This week, uprooted from otherwise typical middle class lives, they went to jail for their part in that protest of seven years ago.

Jay G. Rainey, 31, is married, the father of two children and was head of employe relations with a Virginia manufacturing firm. James G. McClung, 36, was a public information specialist at the Library of Congress in Washington. Stephen B. Rochelle, 29, of suburban Fairfax works with computers at a Maryland engineering firm.

Last week they were ordered by Rockingham County (Va.) Circuit Court Judge Joshua Robinson to report to the county's jail on Monday to begin serving six month jail terms.

Suitcases in hand, neatly dressed, they did so.

Robinson said in court that the usual reasons for sending people to jail — punishment, retribution or rehabilitation — did not apply in this case, according to county prosecutor David Walsh.

But Robinson was quoted as saying he would not overturn a jury's decision, even one made seven years ago, and that he had to uphold the integrity of the judicial process.

Rainey found it "a hell of a reason to send three people to jail who've built up their lives in the past seven years."

In 1970, Rainey, Rochelle and McClung participated in a sit-in with about 40 students at what was then called Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va., about 100 miles from Washington. Rainey and Rochelle were students. McClung was an assistant English professor.

According to news reports and interviews, the group was protesting the Vietnam war, violations of student rights and refusal by the school, now called James Madison University, to renew contracts of some professors, including McClung.

College officials called in police to dislodge the demonstrators and many were convicted of trespassing and fined $100 each.

But Rainey, Rochelle, McClung and four others argued that their constitutional right to free speech had been violated. They asked for a trial in circuit court, without a jury, according to their lawyer, John C. Lowe. Their request for trial without a jury was denied. The jury that heard the case imposed six-month jail terms and $500 fines on Rochelle and Rainey, Lowe said. McClung got a nine-month sentence and a $1,000 fine. The four others were fined $500 each.

Rochelle, Rainey and McClung appealed. A federal district court decided their right to free speech had been violated. But the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned that decision, saying First Amendment rights of students on campus are not as broad as those of a citizen in public places, Lowe said.

Jack Depoy, then the prosecutor and now in private practice, said Monday that changing a jury's decision "undercuts one of the basic principles of our system."

As for Rainey, Rochelle and McClung, now upright citizens, who were first sentenced when times were different, Depoy said: "It's hard to say they shouldn't have exerted their right to protest. They could have served their time then. To appeal, they paid their money and took their chances. They knew what they were doing .... It was a serious criminal offense, not in exercising their right, but in creating a situation that required use of police in a crowd."

He added: "I feel like they are being treated fairly under all circumstances. If you just hear that three people living decent lives have to go to jail, anyone would be concerned. But when you know the circumstances, I don't know how anyone can get that upset about it."

County Sheriff Glenn M. Weatherholtz said Monday that the court recommended that Rainey participate in a program that would allow him to work at his job during the day and stay at jail at night. "It's essentially like renting a room in jail," he said.

He said the court also urged that Rochelle and McClung do community volunteer work in exchange for time cut off their sentences.

The greenest and most plentiful leaves are those of grasses. Some kind of grass can be found on almost all the land parts of the earth.

The green in grass comes from a green coloring substance called chlorophyll, the same material that gives tree leaves and many other plants their green color.

Through a process called photosynthesis, the green chlorophyll helps change sunlight, air and water into food for the plant. If sunlight is cut off, no green chlorophyll can form.

If a box is left on a lawn for several days, there will be a yellow patch where chlorophyll-making stopped because the sun was shut out. But after a few days in the sunlight, the grass looks green again.

As the growing season ends, the chlorophyll food-factory of many grasses closes down, and the green color disappears. In the spring, new grasses will grow -- vigorous and full of green chlorophyll.

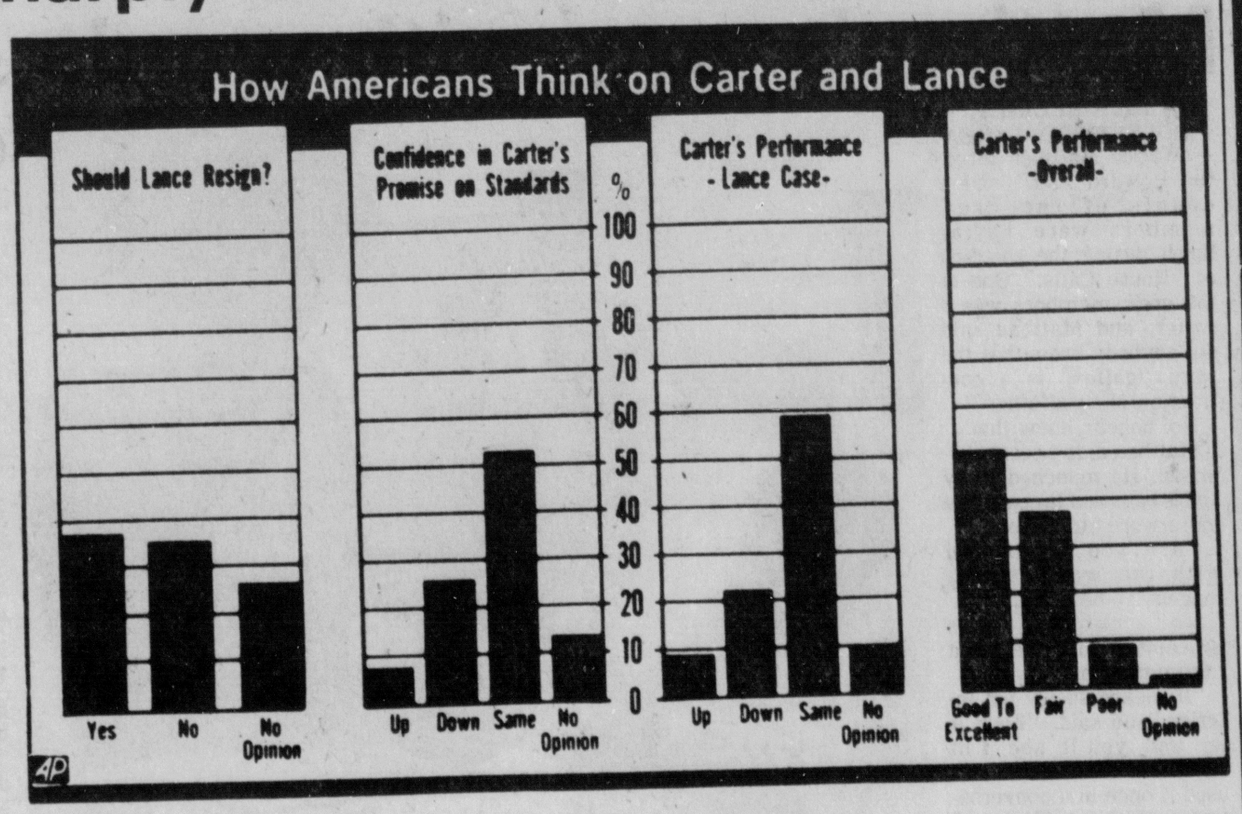
'Jury' sharply divided on Lance issue



RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — he American people, the ury that Bert Lance ought to judge his case, re sharply divided over whether Lance should keep is job as budget director n the Carter administraion, an Associated Press ublic opinion poll shows.

The nationwide survey of ,548 adults, taken Monday evening, also found Presiident Carter's image had been dented by the Lance affair, particularly in regard to Carter's oftrepeated campaign pledge o enforce high moral standards in government.

The AP survey showed that nearly 38 per cent of those interviewed felt Lance should resign his position as director of the Office of Management and Budget, while about 35 per cent said he should stay. Nearly 27 per cent expressed no opinion, despite wide publicity about the case.

The AP survey followed Lance's vigorous self-defense during three days of nationally televised Senate committee hearings into his personal and business dealings.

The hearings before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee were intended to focus on allegations that Lance withheld personal financial information during his Senate confirmation hearings in January.

The impact of Lance's 20-plus hours of testimony last week before the Senate panel is difficult to measure, since the television audiences for the hearings were believed to be very small. National television ratings for last week are not yet available.

The survey provided some indication that Lance's television performance helped his standing with some Americans.

The telephone survey was conducted for The AP by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa.

The 3 per cent difference between those favoring Lance's resignation and those opposing it is inconclusive because of the margin of possible statistical error.

Lance has repeatedly said that he would not resign and that he is innocent of any wrongdoing in his personal financial affairs.

Carter and Lance met privately Monday. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said he had no information on what was discussed or who requested the session.

Powell said if Carter has made a decision on whether to keep Lance as budget director "I'm certainly not aware of it."

The President, meanwhile, is scheduled to hold a news conference this week. The day has not been announced.

Lance said in opening his testimony before the Senate committee last Thursday that he wanted to speak directly to the American public.

"I have infinite faith in the fairness of the American people," he said. "I welcome them as the jury in this proceeding, for I am sure and comfortable knowing that my conscience is clear and that the people's verdict will be a fair and just one."

The White House said Monday that mail and telephone calls following the hearing were running very heavily in Lance's favor, a reversal of the trend before his televised testimony.

As for Carter's promise to enforce high moral conduct in government, about 26 per cent of those interviewed said that their confidence in Carter's keeping that promise had decreased, while 8 per cent said their confidence had increased. More than half — 53 per cent — said their opinion of Carter's commitment was unaffected by the controversy.

This erosion of confidence in Carter also was reflected in an evaluation of his over-all job performance. About 22 per cent said their opinion of Carter's performance in office had decreased because of the Lance controversy. Slightly more than 9 per cent said their opinion of Carter's performance had risen with 59 per cent saying there had been no change.

Asked to rate Carter's overall performance, more than half of those interviewed gave Carter excellent or good marks. About 38 per cent gave him only a fair rating, with 9 per cent saying he has done a poor job.

This performance rating for Carter is somewhat lower than findings by other polls taken in early August, but factors such as differences in the wording of the questions could account for this.

The almost even split on the question of whether Lance should resign may indicate an improvement in Lance's position. A special Gallup Organization survey of 501 adults commissioned by Newsweek Magazine found late last week during the hearings that 67 per cent of those questioned thought Lance should resign. Twenty-one per cent said he should not resign.

That poll and The AP survey cannot be directly compared with accuracy because of variations in the interviewing methods, sample selection and timing.

The AP poll figures represent the exact outcome of the interviews with the panel of adults across the continental United States. But conclusions about the opinions of all adult Americans, drawn from the poll results, could be affected by statistical variations.

With 1,548 persons in the sample, one can say with 95 per cent confidence that the error due solely to possible variations in the sample is about 2.5 per cent up or down for the major findings of the study.

Congressional leaders feel it's up to Carter, Lance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said today the future of Bert Lance is now up to President Carter and the budget director himself.

"I think the President and Mr. Lance are evaluating the situation and I think they both need a little time in which to do that," Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., told reporters. "I think they will be aided by silence and not by public statements."

Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, the assistant Republican leader and a member of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which heard nine days of testimony on Lance's financial affairs, said:

"Since we don't have anything to vote on, we should leave it where it began — with the President."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said Lance's future would be settled by the budget director and Carter "sitting down together."

Byrd and O'Neill said the subject of Lance was not discussed at a Democratic congressional leadership meeting with Carter at the White House this morning.

Byrd said he had previously talked to the President about the matter. He declined comment when asked if he stood by past statements that the budget director's resignation was inevitable.

Stevens said that if he were president he would try to determine whether Lance could be effective in dealing with Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., the chairman and ranking minority member of the govermental affairs committee.

"All government reorganization plans are going to have to be dealt with by Ribicoff and Percy," he said.

Both have said they think Lance should resign. The Office of Management and Budget, which he heads, has a key role in government reorganization.

'Look it up and you'll see I'm right'

Matthau's way with words

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Walter Matthau, director Howard Zieff, and a couple of the crew members were having lunch during the shooting of "House Calls." One of the crew members was a gaffer, and Matthau said did anybody know that the word "gaffer" is a contraction of "godfather."

No, nobody knew that.

Matthau didn't seem surprised. He munched away on his eggs and threw a few more word stories out.

"Are you acquainted with the word 'brummagem'?" he asked.

No, nobody was acquainted with the word "brummagem."

"It means showy but inferior," he said. "Look it up and you'll see I'm right." (I did. He was.) "I used it once in a conversation with Lord Olivier. I don't think he was acquainted with it, either. He sort of gave me a blank look. But I didn't want to insult him by telling him. I imagine he went home and looked it up."

Everybody just kept eating.

"Are you acquainted with the word 'striangulation'?" he asked.

Once again, nobody had even a nodding acquaintance with "striangulation."

"Good," he said. "There is no such word. I was playing a word game with Glenda Jackson the other day (Miss Jackson is his co-star in 'House Calls') and she used the word 'striangulation.'

"I challenged her. She said it meant 'strangulation by extension,' whatever that is. I refused to accept it and, of course, it turned out she was bluffing. It was a very good bluff, I think.

"Glenda is a very bright woman. She reminds me of a bantamweight fighter, very fast, very-sharp. She's the offspring of a Welsh coal miner, which may have something to do with it."

The company had been shooting on a street corner in Studio City, part of the San Fernando Valley, hot and smoggy but convenient. Most of "House Calls" is being shot on location, in and around Los Angeles. This time they were lucky. The location was near a pretty good restaurant.

BEDSIDE MANNERS — Glenda Jackson and Walter Matthau star in "House Calls," a romantic comedy now filming in Los Angeles. The co-stars fill in idle moments on the set playing word games.

So Matthau and Zieff and the others had skipped the usual location caterer — movie catering food is good but it gets boring after a while — and were lunching at a small but interesting place. It seemed to make the normally talkative Matthau even more so.

He talked about bookies. He talked about heart attacks. He talked about doctors. He talked about food. He was eating a crazy concoction of eggs, sour cream, Spanish sauce, avocadoes and a slice of pineapple.

"I can understand everything except the pineapple," he said, pushing it away from the rest of the food. It is curious what some people do with food.

"I went to a delicatessen in Chatsworth and this very nice lady served me some very nice lean corned beef with orange slices. Have you ever heard of a more terrible combination than lean corned beef and orange slices? It's like something my first wife might have considered.

"I remember once I saw a large black lady eating a Nathan's hot dog, with mustard and sauerkraut, in one hand, and a large cup of vanilla custard in the other hand. She would take a bite of the hot dog and then lick the vanilla custard. That picture of her doing that has stayed with me. In fact, I have been sick for 30 years thinking of that."

A man softly edged his way over to the table where the group was eating. When he had Matthau's attention, he said he was a visitor from Israel and wondered if he could take the actor's picture.

"Sure," Matthau said. "But let's go outside, where the light is better."

And he led the surprised and delighted visitor outside, onto the sidewalk, and happily posed with his arm around the man's shoulder while his wife took the picture.

While he was gone, Zieff and the others commented on how like Matthau that gesture had been. It is very unusual for an actor to be so cooperative, but Matthau does it all the time. They each had some story of how he had gone out of his way to be kind to visitors.

He came back in again, tossing a final wave and smile in the direction of the man from Israel.

They were shooting a scene, supposedly outside a TV studio, after both of them had appeared on a TV panel show. The scene had them walking out with two others, then Matthau grabbed Miss Jackson's arm and led her away.

It sounds easy. But Zieff wanted to have it all nice and casual, but it was hard to stage it to get that feeling and still work for the camera.

He rehearsed it five or six times. After each rehearsal, Zieff would say, "Talk to me," meaning that the camera people and the sound people should tell him how they thought the shot was shaping up from each of their standpoints.

One problem was the light. When you're shooting in real, genuine California sunshine, you have to be careful about it being too bright on certain objects and faces. So they had to place a crew member on an overhang extending out from the building with a device to shade the faces.

So there was plenty of time for Matthau to keep talking, and he had a crowd of eager listeners.

Mendes shuffles cards

By BRENDAN RILEY

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Musician Sergio Mendes says he "completely reshuffled the cards" in developing his "New Brasil 77." But if you liked his old "Brasil 66," you should like the new sound, too.

Mendes draws on his Brazilian roots, American jazz and contemporary pop music to create his new sound. That's pretty much what he did to create his old sound, too, which produced record hits like "Mas Que Nada" and "Fool on the Hill."

But Mendes says his group now is into "a new beginning." Of the original "Brasil 66," only Mendes and guitarist Oscar Castro Neves remain. The other eight members, all from this country, joined the group a year ago.

"When I formed 'Brasil 66' and we established a sound, a trademark, we lived with it for many, many years," Mendes says. "But after awhile it was sounding a bit the same, so I decided to completely reshuffle the cards and start fresh."

"For me, it's just part of my own growth as a musician, as a person, changing, learning, getting exposed to new sounds, new things," says Mendes.

Now the "New Brasil 77" plays and sings songs like Chicago's "If You Leave Me Now," and "The Real Thing," a song by Stevie Wonder and Mendes' favorite of the new album by "Brasil 77."

There seem to be similarities between the old and new — like the Latin influence, the drums, the smooth blending of voices, guitars and keyboards which Mendes plays.

But the new sound has "more drive, more funk, more pulse," says Mendes. "The roots will stay there, the basic identity of yourself from the beginning will stay — but the change will come."

The old and new sounds, says Mendes, were "both new for the time. In 1966 it was a fresh, new sound. Today it's new again.

Jazz set at Garrison

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band from New Orleans will give concerts in Garrison Theater of the Claremont Colleges at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

The widely-traveled, nine-piece band will recreate vintage New Orleans jazz they originated decades ago. Although in their 60s, 70s and 80s, the members have lost none of their vitality and love for their music. They bring as much exuberance to their audiences as they ever did.

The bands' veteran musicians include: Alonzo Stewart, drums and vocals; Dave ("Fat Man") Williams, piano; Thomas ("Kid Thomas") Valentine, trumpet; Emanuel Paul, saxophone, banjo and violin; Manuel Crusto, clarinet; Emanuel ("Manny") Sayles, banjo, guitar; Joseph ("Twat") Butler, bass; Homer Eugene, trombone; and Preston Jackson, trombone.

The band's home is Preservation Hall in New Orleans' French Quarter where the group can still be heard most of the year. Tickets are available at the box office and Mutual ticket agency. Group rates are available.

Tennessee, Maryland, Georgia

States initiate tourist channel

By INK DIPPER

The glimmering of an idea that has been most rewarding in three states could be a real bright star in all 50 states if it could be put together.

No one knows for sure which state of the three started first. Tennessee, Maryland and Georgia use Channel One as a tourist advisory channel. Welcome centers of the three states have base stations. If you want help, or need advice, just tune in Channel One and give a "Breaker . . . Breaker" in any of these states and you'll get an answer.

Having heard about the service, it's natural curiosity to know how it works. Driving down through Tennessee, near Chattanooga, and looking for Rossville, Georgia, it became apparent that advice on direction was needed. Channel One did the trick.

"We call it our HOT line," Commissioner Tom Jackson told us later. HOT line means, incidentally, Helping Out Tourists. "Since there are approximately 45 million tourists annually in Tennessee, we try to be as helpful as we can. Giving directions, as we were able to accommodate you, is what the HOT line is there for."

Jackson is in charge of the Tennessee Tourist Development agency. The purpose of the agency is to get people to stay in Tennessee longer than they may have planned. The HOT line serves to guide them to hotels and motels, tell the CBer where he can find spots of interest, or just direct him to his destination.

Tennessee even monitors Channel 19 periodically, according to Jackson, to advise on questions that come in on the truckers' channel for specific information or for help in highway emergencies.

"Most of our requests are non-event oriented," he said. "They're generally concerning location of historic sites, directions to hotels, motels and campgrounds, and recreational areas for boating and fishing."

We got excited about it because it seems that a network on Channel One could be developed from coast-to-coast by all the states. It would be a constant travelers' advisory. Everyone would know that Channel One was the place to go for information. Channel One is a clean channel, so it would take some pressure off 19. It is really the modern method of handling the most common problem in traveling: becoming somewhat disoriented and needing advice from a local person.

Tennessee is also doing another interesting thing. The state is obviously proud of its tourist attractions. So, in order to supplement its welcome centers services to CBers, it has also called upon private industry to get into the act. Opryland, in Nashville, Libertyland, in Memphis, Gatlinburg Chamber of Commerce, in Gatlinburg, and Lookout Mountain, in Chattanooga, have been asked to put in base stations, too.

Opryland is, of course, a great family entertainment park. Gatlinburg, in the heart of the Smokie Mountains, a National Park, is also a big ski resort area. Lookout Mountain, along with Chicamauga Battlefield, are enormous tourist attractions. And, Libertyland, in the western part of the state, is meaningful to everyone in the Midwest.

Maryland and Georgia have virtually the same system and for the same reasons.

RAZZLE-DAZZLER — Comedienne Jo Anne Worley will star in "The Razzle Dazzle Revue" at the Good Time Theater at Knott's Berry Farm Friday and Saturday nights. The farm is staging "Roaring '20s Marathon Weekend."

Barbershoppers plan first variety show

The Carousel Chorus of the Pomona Valley chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will take part in a Barber Shop Variety Show at the Claremont Playhouse at 8 p.m. Oct. 9.

The chorus has recently been rated first nationally in presenting top quality shows, chapter growth, and barbershop singing activities in general. The members share their hobby of barbershop singing with audiences of more than 200,000 annually not counting shows that are carried over radio and TV networks. Just recently they sang before 75,000 people at the Ontario Motor Speedway during pre-race activities for the California 500. The chorus will perform Oct. 24 on a Monday night football telecast.

Now numbering 90 voices, the chorus is directed by Carl Walters. Stage shows consist of ragtime, Dixie, and tunes from the gaslite era, Irving Berlin songs, special ballads, and numbers used in barbershop harmony competition.

The upcoming show is being sponsored by the Claremont Parks and Recreation Department, the Claremont Junior Woman's Club, and the Pomona Valley chapter of SPEBSQSA.

Proceeds will go to the Claremont recreation department for renovation and improvement of the electrical equipment at Memorial Park. All seats are reserved at $4 each. Tickets may be purchased by mail or in person from Claremont Parks and Recreation, Claremont Chamber of Commerce, or Claremont Juniors Jeanne Gates, 626-5691, or JoAnne Farley, 626-9666. The Claremont Juniorettes will usher.

For those thirsty kids

Raspberry cooler, fruit frost for hot weather

In the summertime, when the weather is hot and your kids are more active and thirstier than ever, frosty fruit punches can be much more healthful for them than many commercially prepared drinks and sodas.

A versatile microwave oven can help you whip up homemade summertime punches quickly, and your refrigerator/freezer will have them chilled or frozen for cold refreshment.

Home economists have created two fruit punches that are perfect for the family, and yet elegant enough for summer entertaining.

RASPBERRY COOLER

2 packages (12 oz. each) frozen raspberries
½ cup sugar
1½ cups frozen lemonade concentrate (after diluting)
2 cups frozen orange juice concentrate (after diluting)
1 pint ice water
1 quart ginger ale, chilled

Defrost 1 package of frozen raspberries with the sugar, in a two-cup glass on the defrost setting of your microwave oven for 4 minutes.

Crush the defrosted berries, and add the lemonade, orange juice and ice water. Just before serving, add the chilled ginger ale and the remaining package of uncrushed, thawed raspberries.

This punch should be served ice cold. Serves 12 to 15.

The recipe can also be made ahead and frozen for future entertaining. To do this, you combine all the ingredients except the ginger ale and the last package of raspberries. Freeze in your ice cube tray, then transfer the cubes to plastic bags for long-term storage.

When you wish to serve, place 2 to 3 frozen cubes in individual glasses, and defrost one serving in the microwave oven for 1 minute and 15 seconds. Fill each glass with 2 teaspoons of thawed, uncrushed raspberries and chilled ginger ale, before serving.

FRUIT FROST

1½ cups lemon juice
1½ cups sugar
1 can (16 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate, diluted (Pineapple juice concentrate can be substituted for orange juice concentrate)
1 quart ginger ale, chilled
Mint sprigs

Combine the lemon juice and the sugar in a 1-quart glass container. Cook in microwave oven on high power for 5 minutes, or until the sugar is dissolved. Stir the lemon juice mixture into the orange juice. Freeze in ice cube trays, and then transfer the cubes to plastic bags.

When you serve this drink, place 3 or 4 cubes in each glass. Crush the cubes slightly with a fork, as the cubes will not be hard, and fill the glasses with chilled ginger ale. If you like, each drink can be garnished with a sprig of mint for color and extra flavor. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

For those festive occasions

Mexicali 'meat ring' recipe listed

EDITOR'S NOTE: Portions of this recipe were inadvertently omitted last week. It is repeated here for our readers' convenience.

It's not true, as some visitors speculate, that every day is a holiday in Mexico. There are a lot of them, though, and one of the biggest is Independence Day, Sept. 16.

Eating, dancing, parades and fireworks highlight the celebration. Shouts of independence, "Grito de Independencia," resound.

You may not feel like shouting to mark the occasion, but you might feel like putting together a Mexican style menu for dinner.

Here's one that ought to adapt well to any table north of the border. It features meat loaf shaped into a ring and flavored wonderfully with a hot Mexican tomato sauce, green chiles and crushed corn tortillas. Don't worry, it's not too hot! Serve it with Mexican style rice, a salad (fresh tomato and avocado slices would be good) and cold cerveza — that's Mexican beer.

MEXICALI MEAT RING

2 eggs
1 can (7¾ oz.) sauce for tacos or hot tomato sauce
6 corn tortillas, crisply cooked and crushed
1½ pounds lean ground beef
1 can (4 oz.) diced green chiles
Mexican Style Rice (recipe follows)

In large mixing bowl, beat eggs. Thoroughly mix in all remaining ingredients except rice. Press into 4½-cup ring mold. Run knife around edge of meat; invert mold onto greased shallow baking pan. Shake gently to release meat. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes, or until done. Cool 10 minutes. Carefully slide meat ring onto serving plate. Fill center of ring with Mexican Style Rice. Serve hot. Makes six servings.

NOTE: To cook tortillas, heat ½ inch of oil in medium saucepan or skillet to 375 degrees F. Fry tortillas, one at a time, until light brown and crispy, about 1 minute.

MEXICAN STYLE RICE

1 can (13¾ oz.) chicken broth
1 can (7¾ oz.) sauce for tacos or hot tomato sauce
2 tablespoons diced green chiles
1¼ cups uncooked rice
½ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in large saucepan; bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, 15 to 20 minutes, or until liquid is absorbed. Makes six servings.

CORN CHOWDER

It cuts calories because no thickening is used.

2 strips bacon
1 small onion, finely chopped about ¼ cup
16 or 17 ounce can cream-style corn
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cut bacon strips in half crosswise and cook slowly in a wide saucepan or rangetop casserole until crisp; remove bacon and drain on brown paper. To the drippings in the saucepan add the onion and cook gently until golden; add the corn, milk, salt and pepper and heat. Sprinkle with the crumbled bacon. Makes four ¾-cup servings. Recipe may be doubled.

DINNER FOR THREE

Veal Paprika
Rice
Snap Beans
Salad
Fruit Shortcake

VEAL PAPRIKA

Good to make ahead and reheat so flavors have a chance to blend.

2 tablespoons butter
1 pound (may be scant) cut-up about 1-inch hunks boneless neck veal
½ cup finely diced celery
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup chicken bouillon
1 teaspoon sweet Hungarian-style paprika
¼ teaspoon sugar
½ cup cultured sour cream
Salt

In a medium saucepan in the hot butter, brown the veal. Stir in the celery, garlic and bouillon. Simmer, covered, until veal is tender — about 1 hour. There should be about ½ cup liquid in the pan. Stir in the paprika, sugar, sour cream and salt; heat. Makes 3 servings.

PARTY FARE

Seafood Salad with Island Dressing
Cloverleaf Rolls
Fruit Sherbet
Beverage

ISLAND DRESSING

½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon curry powder
Lemon juice to taste
1 tablespoon dark rum, if desired
¼ cup flaked canned coconut

Whisk together the mayonnaise, sour cream, curry powder, lemon juice, and, if used, the rum. Stir in the coconut. Cover and chill to allow flavors to blend. Delicious served with a seafood salad; good, too, with chicken salad. Makes about 1&1/4 cups.

CORNER OF HOLT & INDIAN HILL BLVD POMONA OPEN 24 HOURS

For managing hectic schedule

Bacon-cheese puffs and hot cheese dip quick

Managing the hectic schedule of a career and other activities needn't preclude gracious entertaining for on-the-go single women. Working women may not have time for the elaborate preparations once deemed necessary by hostesses. A little advance planning, however, will enable them to handle a spur-of-the-moment dinner or large cocktail party with equal ease and aplomb.

Some of the most elegant dinners can be prepared in a fraction of the usual time in a microwave oven. Many recipes can be doubled or tripled, and frozen in portions for future entertaining. If you freeze your feast in serving dishes, the microwave oven is very practical for one step defrosting, heating and serving. Clean-up is simplified as well.

The microwave oven also simplifies the preparation of hors d'oevres. Delicacies such as Bacon-Cheese Puffs can be fully or partially prepared ahead of time and then frozen. You can defrost and have them ready to serve in minutes.

BACON-CHEESE PUFFS

1 pound softened cream cheese
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon baking powder
2½ tablespoons imitation bacon pieces
60 round butter crackers

Combine the cream cheese, egg yolk and onion in a large mixing bowl. Beat until smooth and well blended. Stir in the baking powder and bacon pieces. Blend well.

The mixture can be frozen at this point, and defrosted in a microwave oven when you need it. When you wish to cook the Puffs, place six crackers on a paper plate in a circle. Top each cracker with ½ teaspoon of the cheese mixture. Heat in microwave oven for 30 seconds on high power and serve hot.

Cheese Balls and spreads, which also make excellent hors d'oevres, can be softened conveniently in the microwave oven for short order entertaining. Your creativity can take you a step further with a hot cheese dip which is delicious with corn chips or a vegetable bowl of raw or par-boiled broccoli, cauliflower, carrots, cherry tomatoes and green beans.

HOT CHEESE DIP

¼ large green pepper, finely chopped
½ bunch green onions, minced
2 jars (5 oz. each) very sharp cheese spread
1 can (7 oz.) minced, drained clams
2 to 4 dashes tabasco
Garlic powder to taste

Combine all the ingredients in a 1½-quart casserole. Heat, uncovered, in a microwave oven for 3 minutes on high power, or until cheese melts. Stir once or twice during heating. Makes two cups.

Rolls, breads, coffeecakes and pastries are always more flavorful when they are warm. The microwave oven is very practical for this purpose, too.

Planning ahead is a great help for a busy hostess. For example if you make a list of several menus which are simple and have been prepared successfully in the past, you will be one step ahead if you need to serve something elegant on short notice.

If you are really caught in an emergency, without any special dinners that have been cooked in quantity and frozen ahead of time, try ordering a dish from an ethnic or specialty restaurant. You can transfer it to an attractive ceramic serving dish, and reheat it in record time in the microwave oven.

Another plan ahead tip is to keep non-perishable entertainment staples on hand. These can include wines or other beverages, crackers, tins of prepared snacks, hors d'oevres, soup stocks and sauces.

You may also find it easier to do one project each day before the evening you are expecting guests, and just assemble the meal before they arrive. This way, you don't end up shopping, cooking and cleaning at the last minute. You may even have time to relax for a while before your guests arrive.

Tender teriyaki skewers

Summertime is barbecue-time for people who enjoy being outdoors. Tender Teriyaki Skewers is a recipe that uses low cost, tenderized meat with fresh pineapple.

Yes, fresh pineapple works like a meat tenderizer! Fresh pineapple contains a natural enzyme, bromelain, which acts to break down protein. In combination with meat, pineapple acts just like a tenderizer. You can turn tough meat into tender chunks of beef ready to grill and enjoy. And what a terrific flavor combination!

Chunks of instant marinated beef, golden sweet pineapple, crisp green pepper, onion and bright cherry tomatoes can be skewered and grilled. Follow the timing carefully. If you let fresh pineapple stay with meat too long, bromelain will make the meat mushy. Only fresh pineapple can be used for this method. Bromelain is destroyed when heated, so is not present in canned pineapple. That's why fresh pineapple should not be used in gelatin salads, while canned pineapple is perfectly safe. Gelatin is a kind of protein, and fresh pineapple keeps it soft. But in their avowed efforts to gut a tangy teriyaki sauce, fresh pineapple does wonders.

TENDER TERIYAKI SKEWERS

1 fresh pineapple
2 pounds top round steak
1/3 cup cream sherry
1/3 cup honey
¼ cup soy sauce
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 bell pepper, chunked
1 pint cherry tomatoes
8 green onions, cut in 3-inch pieces

Cut pineapple into quarters lengthwise. Remove fruit with a curved knife. Core and chunk fruit. Pierce round steak all over with a fork. Cut steak into 1½-inch cubes. Blend together sherry, honey, soy sauce, ginger and garlic powder. In a tall, narrow bowl, combine pineapple chunks, steak and teriyaki sauce. Cover and let stand 15 to 20 minutes to marinate. (Fresh pineapple will tenderize the meat). Skewer chunks of pineapple, steak, bell pepper, cherry tomatoes and green onion pieces on shish-kebob skewers. Broil 5 or 6 inches from heat for about 12 minutes, turning once. Baset Baste with teriyaki sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Dessert for waning days of summer

Try frozen banana rainbow 'fruit loaf'—banana yogurt

The wanning days of summer still generate lots of heat that can dull a family's appetite. And preparing attractive yet nutritious foods to tempt the finicky can be a dispiriting challenge.

But here comes the banana to the rescue. Yes, the banana, frozen that is, can provide naturally sweet, healthful relief for the summer diet doldrums. Blended with yogurt and frozen until firm, it forms an economical basis for desserts and salad main dishes.

Tops on our list of late-summer banana coolers is the Frozen Banana Fruit Loaf, a refreshing variation on the classic frozen salad. Served as a festive luncheon dish or for a light supper, this tangy combination of bananas and plain yogurt, laced with colorful peaches and berries, will perk up a heat-jaded palate. It also supplies many of the basic nutrients for a well-balanced meal. Bananas contain an impressive amount of Vitamin A and potassium; they also provide thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, Vitamin C and Vitamin B6. A splendid source of quick energy, they complement the yogurt's high protein content.

The cholesterol conscious can also indulge themselves in these frozen banana delights and still feel virtuous. A wickedly rich-tasting dessert like Frozen Banana Yogurt is low in fat, yet comparable in flavor and texture to ice cream.

Best of all, though, these banana coolers are simple and quick to prepare, saving hours in a hot kitchen and leaving the cook free to enjoy the last, long summer days knowing the family is eating well.

FROZEN BANANA RAINBOW FRUIT LOAF

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups mashed very ripe bananas (6 medium)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 containers (8 ounces each) plain yogurt
4 egg whites, unbeaten
3 bananas, sliced
1 cup blueberries
1 cup sliced strawberries
1 ripe peach, peeled and sliced

In medium saucepan mix gelatine with cold water. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over medium heat or until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 1 minute. Stir in sugar and salt. Remove from heat; stir in mashed banana, lemon juice, and yogurt. Pour into freezer tray or 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Freeze until firm. Turn frozen mixture into large bowl and add egg whites. Beat at high speed on electric mixer until smooth and fluffy, about 10 minutes. Fold in sliced bananas, blueberries, strawberries, and peach slices. Return to pan; freeze until firm, several hours or overnight. To unmold, dip pan quickly in warm water and run knife along inside edges of pan. Invert onto serving platter. Let loaf stand at room temperature about 30 minutes before serving. Slice and served. Makes eighteen ½-inch slices.

Tuna mushroom cakes will make delicious main dish

Budget cooking doesn't have to mean boring cookery. Take a tip from the many restaurants specializing in wholesome meatless fare that have sprung up in and around the New York area. The success of these eateries attest to the fact that more New Yorkers are choosing meatless dishes these days when they dine out. It's relatively inexpensive, filling and full of delicous flavors.

Much of this cookery is based on vegetable and whole grain combinations rather than meat main dishes. If you're aware about nutrition you know that an essential element in any diet is complete protein. And that's where canned tuna in vegetable oil comes in. A 3½ ounce serving provides 28.8 grams of complete protein. And there's no fuss involved.

You can adapt an item originated at one of N.Y.'s old-time famous "dairy" restaurants — Mushroom Potato Cakes. Add tuna, and the result is delicious main dish Tuna Mushroom Cakes. It's a great stretchable in the days of shrinking food budgets because it's made with leftover mashed potatoes or instant mashed potatoes and thrifty canned tuna. The mushrooms are pressed into the patties rather than incorporated in the mixture which is baked rather than fried. (A decided plus for cutting down on saturated fats!)

Another tempting recipe with "stretchables" is Tuna Rice Cakes with Curry Sauce. Tuna and rice go unusually well together — and their subtle flavors are a perfect foil for the savory — yet mild — curry sauce.

Both recipes are the kind of popular dishes you'll enjoy serving over and over again no matter what shape your budget is in.

TUNA MUSHROOM CAKES

2 cups mashed potatoes
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
1 egg
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained

For 2 cups mashed potatoes, use leftover mashed potatoes or prepare 4 servings of instant mashed potatoes according to package directions, reducing water by ½ cup. In a large bowl combine potatoes, tuna, egg, onion, parsley, salt and pepper; mix well. Shape into 12 patties. Press mushrooms onto the surface of tuna cakes. Place cakes on a greased foil-lined baking sheet and bake in a 350 degree oven 25 minutes, turn, bake 20 minutes longer. Serve with tomato sauce, if desired. Makes six servings.

TUNA RICE CAKES WITH CURRY SAUCE

Tuna Rice Cakes:
1½ cups cooked regular rice
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in oil
3 eggs
2 tablespoons grated onion
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons salad oil

In large bowl mix rice, tuna, eggs, onion, salt and pepper. Shape mixture into patties, using 1/3 cup mixture for each patty. In a large skillet heat oil. Add tuna cakes, 4 at a time, and cook, turning once, until golden brown. Serve with Curry Sauce.

Curry Sauce:
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped pared apple
1 teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
1 chicken or vegetable bouillon cube
2 cups milk

In a large saucepan melt butter. Add celery, apple and curry powder; cook over medium heat 10 minutes. Sprinkle with salt and flour. Add bouillon cube and milk. Cook, stirring frequently, about 10 minutes, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Serve over Tuna Rice Cakes. Makes eight cakes.

Pate for picnics is elegant

Picnics in the park don't always have to be informal. In fact, once in a while you should plan an elegant picnic. Especially if you're attending one of the ever-so-popular outdoor performing arts centers plan an elegant and different menu for a change.

Pack a picnic basket — inside you'll need those ever necessary disposable cups, plates and napkins. Pick up some brightly colored ones this time.

Now for the menu. Pate is a refreshing change from the usual picnic fare and so ideal because it's portable. Add a little French bread, cheese and fruit and you're set. The beverage is beer of course. What could be more refreshing on a hot summer night?

Try making the pate yourself. It's actually quite simple. One unusual ingredient in this pate is the addition of beer. The mellow brew deliciously enhances the flavor of the liver. Won't people be impressed — homemade pate and made with beer!

PATE

1 pound chicken livers
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
¼ cup butter or chicken fat
1/3 cup beer
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sage
2 tablespoons capers
½ cup chopped fresh parsely

Wash chicken livers and drain. Lightly saute liver, onion and garlic in butter for 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add beer, salt and pepper and simmer uncovered 5 minutes. Cool slightly. Add remaining ingredients. Grind or puree in food mill or blender. Pour into individual crocks. Refrigerate overnight to blend flavors. Serve in crocks. Yeild: 3 cups.

Serving suggestions: For first course, serve on shredded lettuce with crackers, toast points or French bread.

Serve in small caly flower pots — top with broken walnuts or capers. Make parsley tree (Tie small bunch of parsley on toothpick and stick in pot giving tree effect.)

With cornstarch glaze, sesame seeds

One bowl hard rolls with steak—barbecued chicken

The casual season is here – picnics, beach parties, outdoor barbecues — not to mention weekend entertaining. If living quarters are small it's a good time to repay friends and relatives in the great out-of-doors. One way to approach menu plans for these occasions is to focus on foods that will adapt in case of weather emergencies. The accompanying recipe for One Bowl Hard Rolls is a reliable candidate.

Hard rolls make a perfect sandwich to take to the beach. They carry well and won't dry out quickly if a hot winds' a blowing. Split and toasted over an outdoor grill they make a delicious sponge for mopping up juices from a sizzling steak or barbecued chicken. They don't crush easily in knapsack or bike basket and there's plenty of crust to support a generous filling. For stuffing on location, bring salami and cheese along with a bottle of wine.

Made by the Rapidmix Method of yeast dough preparation, hard rolls are simple to do. Mix some of the dry ingredients including the undissolved active dry yeast together. Then add hot tap water and margarine. This saves time and dishwashing too. The dough is kneaded about 10 minutes, then it rises for about 45 minutes before shaping into rolls. While the rolls are rising, prepare the cornstarch glaze so it will have a chance to cool slightly before brushing on the rolls. To achieve a crunchy bottom on the rolls sprinkle cornmeal on the baking sheet and place the rolls on it about 3 inches apart. When rolls are ready to bake brush each one with the cornstarch glaze and sprinkle generously with sesame or poppy seeds.

ONE BOWL HARD ROLLS

4½ to 5½ cups unsifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 package active dry yeast
3 tablespoons softened margarine or butter
1½ cups hot tap water
1 egg white (at room temperature)
Cornmeal
½ cup water
1 teaspoon cornstarch

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 and 1/3 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast. Add softened margarine. Gradually add hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg white and 1 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Divide in half. Form each half into a 9 inch roll. Cut into nine 1-inch pieces. Form into smooth balls. Place about 3 inches apart on greased baking sheets sprinkled with cornmeal. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Slowly blend remaining ½ cup water into cornstarch. Bring mixture to a boil. Cool slightly.

When ready to bake, brush each roll with cornstarch glaze. Slit tops with a sharp knife crisscross fashion. If desired, sprinkle with sesame or poppy seeds.

Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Makes 1½ dozen rolls.

Peanut quiche recipe listed

Quiche is a versatile dish It can be an appetizer or hors d'oeuvre, depending upon the season as well as what comprises the rest of the menu. A wedge of hot quiche could precede an entree of roasted meat or poultry accompanied by rice and vegetables and followed by a light dessert. Or quiche can be baked in a square pan and cut into small pieces for cocktail finger food.

This egg and cream tart is equally good as the main dish of a light lunch or supper or the cold entree in a picnic basket. Football fans will find that quiche travels well to the stadium and tastes particularly good with a hot thermos on a cold, crisp day.

The Peanut Quiche shown here is a new version of this classic custard tart. The recipe uses Swiss cheese, onion and chopped peanuts in addition to the standard ingredients of eggs and cream. Peanuts give the quiche a special flavor and texture along with good nutrition.

PEANUT QUICHE

1 cup unsifted flour
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup (1 stick) margarine
2 tablespoons cold water
1½ cups shredded Swiss cheese
1/3 cup minced onion
¼ cup chopped peanuts
1 tablespoon flour
3 eggs
1 cup light cream
¼ teaspoon dry mustard

Combine 1 cup flour and ½ teaspoon salt in a bowl. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add water and mix thoroughly. Form into a smooth ball. Cover and refrigerate 15 minutes. Roll out on lightly floured board. Transfer to a 9-inch pie plate and shape edge. Set aside.

Combine Swiss cheese, onion, peanuts and 1 tablespoon flour in a bowl. Toss gently to mix. Sprinkle evenly into pie shell.

Combine eggs, light cream, remaining ¼ teaspoon salt and dry mustard in a bowl. Beat until smooth. Pour evenly over cheese mixture.

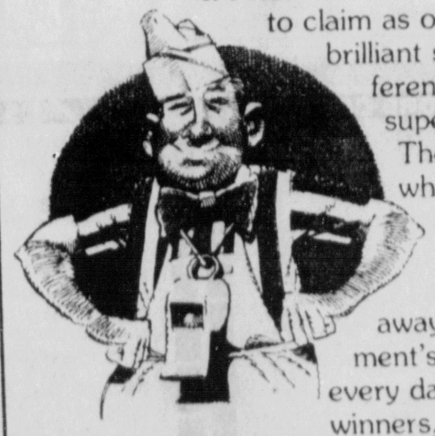
Bake at 425 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees F. and bake for 30 minutes, or until a knife inserted 1 inch from edge comes out clean.

How to hit it big at the supermarket without playing games.

A whole lot of losers pay for very few winners.

Games, gimmicks and promotions can be very expensive. And the cost, as every ad manager knows, has to come from somewhere. So for the handful of folks who hit it big, others simply have to pay higher food costs. At least that's the way it would be if we ran games. It's entertaining for all of us to think in terms of getting rich quick. But it's no fun at all to pay higher food prices. That's why we won't allow any of our other customers to pay the price for Harry Whoozit and his family to fly off to Hawaii. Besides, Lucky is in the food business, not in the travel business.

We blew the whistle on high prices.



"It's not fair!" we cried. We're proud to claim as our own, the brave and brilliant souls who dared to be different by inventing the discount supermarket business back in 1963. They reasoned that to make the whole discount idea work properly . . . to really keep prices low . . . overhead costs would have to be kept low. So, voila! Away went games, stamps, giveaways, never to cross our advertising department's door again. In came lower prices overall, every day. Which made all our customers into winners, every day.

Here's our policy.

When you shop through our aisles, you're likely to find prices lower by a few cents here and a few cents there. It may not seem like a dramatic saving, item by item. The fact of the matter is, we may not be lower than some stores on some items, partly because we don't sell below cost. But we're lower on so many items, it adds up. When you see the total at the cash register, you'll know you're on to a sure thing. Because Lucky has lower prices overall . . . and that's what discount is really all about. Check out the sampling of prices below, then come on in and see for yourself.

Heart disease takes grim toll

Modern nutrition can improve odds for good healthy heart

By Gaynor Maddox

About half of the men and women who die this year will die of heart disease.

But there is something we can do about this grim statistic. Modern nutrition is among several hopeful factors in the effort to improve heart health.

To begin, knowledge of the terms used by nutritionists is important in your effort to make nutrition work for you. Cholesterol, for example, is not well understood.

"Many men and women do not understand that cholesterol and animal fat are not the same thing. Cholesterol is a definite element. In the blood stream it is called serum cholesterol. In foods it is called dietary cholesterol. The body manufactures cholesterol itself. We also eat foods that add extra cholesterol itself. We also eat foods that add extra cholesterol to the body. When the correct balance is exceeded, in many cases cholesterol obstructs the blood flow through the arteries. It may also stop the flow and cause a heart attack.

"Cholesterol is a lipid, meaning that it can be handled, is greasy and soluble in fat solvents," explains Dr. D. Mark Hegsted of the Harvard Nutrition Department.

"Some foods contain both animal fat and cholesterol. Egg yolks are heavily charged with cholesterol and fat. So are red meats. The idea that only the visible fat of red meats contain cholesterol is erroneous. The lean or muscle also contain some.

"Remember that dietary cholesterol is found only in animal fats. That means whole milk and many cheeses, eggs, butter and cream, as well as in beef, lamb, pork, etc. Most of these meats contain both saturated fats and cholesterol.

"I am not recommending that men past forty and, in fact, most people cut out all these delicious foods. No, eat and enjoy them. But eat less of them. This form of self-discipline may pay off handsomely — in longer life.

"On the other hand, the socalled polyunsaturated fats — safflower oil, corn oil, and to a lesser degree some of the oils such as cotton seed, and soy bean, as well as such foods as grains, vegetables and fruits, contain no destructive elements for the heart, including no cholesterol. You cannot substitute these polyunsatured foods for all the others, but do use more of them in your daily diet. They will pay you excellent dividends.

"There are animal foods that have no — or little — cholesterol. These include fish, many types of shell fish and fowls. Include them two or three times a week in your meals," states the Harvard nutrition researcher.

With tart-sweet flavor

Baked coconut custard offers 'exotic' dessert

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Those from the Pacific and Caribbean islands know the pleasures of eating fresh coconut meat and drinking fresh coconut milk.

There are many mainland cities whose markets now regularly have fresh coconuts available. Those venturing into the use of such a fresh item for cooking will find a baked fresh coconut custard worth trying. Also fresh lemon meringue pie is a pie for any season with its refreshing tart-sweet flavor. Use your favorite meringue recipe for the topping.

BAKED COCONUT CUSTARD

½ cup fresh coconut milk
½ cup grated fresh coconut
4 eggs
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk

Pierce eyes of coconut and drain milk into measuring cup. Reserve. Place coconut in a 350-degree oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven. Crack shell with hammer and remove meat. Peel brown outer rind with a vegetable peeler and grate coconut meat. Beat eggs until light and lemon colored. Add sugar and salt and beat until thick. Gradually add coconut milk and stir. Pour into 6 buttered custard cups or 1-quart baking dish. Sprinkle grated coconut over top. Place in pan of water and bake in 325-degree oven 45 minutes for individual cups or one and one-fourth to one and one-half hours for large dish, until a knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 6 servings.

NEVER-FAIL FRESH LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1 cup sugar, divided
1/3 cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cold water
1½ cups hot water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 egg yolks, lightly beaten
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 pastry shell for 9-inch pie

Combine one-half cup of the sugar, cornstarch, salt and cold water in the top of a double boiler. Mix well. Stir in hot water. Cook over boiling water 5 minutes or until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and continue cooking over boiling water 8 minutes or until very thick, stirring occasionally. Add butter. In large bowl mix together egg yolks and remaining one-half cup sugar. Slowly add a little of the hot mixture. Then stir into the remaining hot mixture in double boiler. Cook uncovered over simmering water (not boiling) 10 minutes or until very thick, stirring frequently. Gradually stir in lemon juice and rind. Remove from water. Cool. Add vanilla and turn into a baked pastry shell. Top with meringue. Bake in 300-degree oven 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Ham patties with spiced apple rings harmonious

Cooks have little need for opinion surveys to determine how they measure up. What's left on the plate after each meal indicates how their efforts were received. If you're ringing up clean plates meal after meal, you don't need an expert to tell you you're doing something right. But if some meals bring on the blahs or if food costs get out of hand, that's a different set of circumstances.

Today it takes extra sensory perception to synchronize food costs, menu planning and family acceptance. And if food preparation skills are limited much advice about reducing food costs doesn't apply. For instance, buying a ham or a turkey may appear to save money and take care of the entree for a certain number of meals. But if the use of leftovers becomes monotonous, waste often results. Varying subsequent uses of the leftovers and offering a harmonious menu are very important.

Weekly specials at supermarkets are often useful for perking up low cost menus. Fresh apples are plentiful now and savvy cooks use them to extend more costly foods. Flavor is friendly with meats, vegetables and other fruits. While personal taste preference can't go wrong whatever the variety choice, mildly tart varieties such as McIntosh, Stayman, Rome and Jonathan are excellent with meats and vegetables. Golden Delicious, Cortland and Red Delicious make fine salads and desserts. Apple products make appropriate garnishes and can be served directly from the can or jar.

Ham is a leftover that most cooks find many uses for. It can be sliced or ground for sandwiches, slivered for salads, cubed for casseroles and soups or minced finely for garnishing omelets and vegetables. The following recipe uses a ham patty made by grinding the ham, adding chunks of fresh apple, breadcrumbs and onion so texture and appearance are completely changed. Topped with a spiced apple ring and a thin glaze of pineapple preserves it becomes a respectable entree.

HAM PATTIES WITH SPICED APPLE RINGS

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 onion, chopped
4 cups ground cooked smoked ham (about 2 pounds)
1 cup chopped, peeled and cored apples
2 cups soft bread crumbs (about 4 slices)
2 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 jar spiced apple rings (1 lb. 4 oz.)
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1/3 cup pineapple preserves

In a small skillet heat butter and saute onion for 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Stir mixture into ham. Add apples, bread crumbs, eggs, and mustard. Mix well and shape into 6 large patties. Place patties side by side on a heavily greased shallow baking pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and top patties with spiced apple rings. Mix melted butter and preserves. Spoon mixture over apple slices. Replace in oven and bake for another 15 minutes or until apple is glazed. Serve hot with a green vegetable and baked sweet potatoes. Serves 6.

Lettuce con queso, Louis combines basics, Latin flair

Although lettuce is renowned for being an excellent salad ingredient, it's also a remarkably good vegetable to feature in non-salad main dishes. In fact, lettuce is essential to many culinary classics.

Try it in Lettuce Con Queso which combines foods basics to Latin American cooking, including lettuce, a cornerstone of this particular cuisine. This simple variation of the traditional chili con queso calls for a velvety cheese sauce of Monterey Jack or Cheddar, onions, chilies, tomatoes, liquid hot pepper sauce and spices for pouring over shredded lettuce on a cornbread bed. And, there's little work involved for such an imaginative dish.

Lettuce Louis is an inexpensive version of the classic crab Louis. Using cooked chicken instead of shellfish, the crisp shredded lettuce is dotted with cubed chicken and covered with the piquant Louis sauce.

Low-calorie economical lettuce is in good supply the whole year, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. Look for firm heads that "give" a bit when squeezed and have bright, unblemished leaves. When planning family menus keep in mind lettuce's contributions of vitamins A and C, iron, and roughage.

LETTUCE CON QUESO

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped fresh onion
3 large fresh tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup milk
2 fresh green chilies, seeded, and chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon liquid hot pepper sauce
3 cups (¾ pound) shredded Monterey Jack or mild Cheddar cheese, divided
4 cups shredded lettuce
Cornbread squares
Melt butter in saucepan; add onion, tomatoes and bay leaf. Cook, stirring frequently, until onion is tender. Make a paste of the flour and milk; add to saucepan. Simmer 10 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Add green chilies, salt, pepper sauce and 2¾ cups cheese. Stir until cheese melts. To serve, place shredded lettuce over split cornbread squares; top with cheese mixture and remaining shredded cheese. Makes 4 servings.

LETTUCE LOUIS

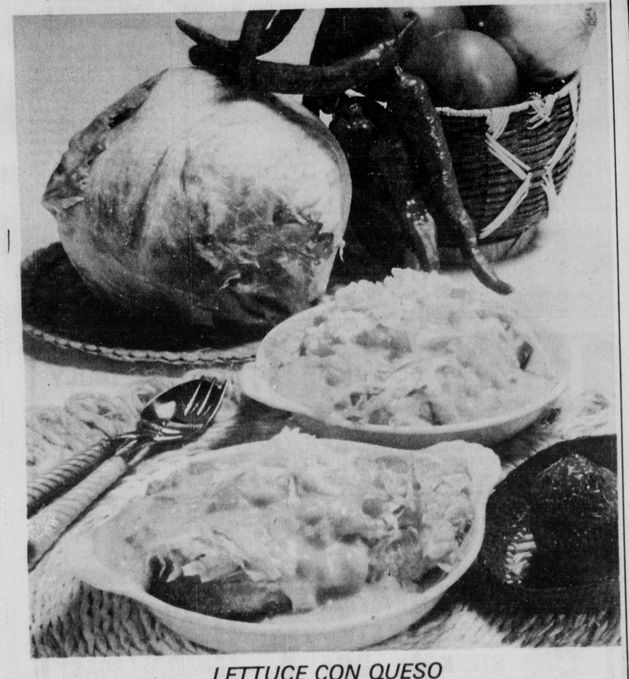
2 tablespoons finely chopped scallions
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
Dash salt
1 head lettuce
4 cups cubed cooked chicken
4 fresh tomatoes, quartered

In medium bowl combine mayonnaise, sour cream, chili suacsauce, green pepper, scallions, parsley, lemon juice, horseradish and salt; chill. Cut lettuce in quarters; place cut side down on cutting board and slice diagonally, making ¼ inch wide shreds. To serve, place lettuce on plate; arrange chicken in center of lettuce and top with dressing. Garnish with tomatoes. Makes 4 servings.



LETTUCE CON QUESO

National chicken cooking contest

A grandmother from Georgia, using a quick stir-fry method, cooked chicken with vegetables to win the $10,000 top prize in the 1977 National Chicken Cooking Contest.

Mrs. Ann Costa of Atlanta prepared Chicken Ratatouille to win over 50 other contestants in the annual event held in Jackson, Mississippi.

Placing second and winning $4,000 from Cedar Falls, Iowa, was Dr. Linda Louise Walsh, a psychology professor. Her recipe for Chicken in Tomato-Wine Sauce won the approval of a panel of national food experts who served as judges.

Other winners, sharing a total of $20,000 in prizes, were:

Mr. Jank K. Matsumoto of Hawaii, who placed third and won $3,000 for her recipe for Sesame Seed Chicken Wings; Mrs. Woni Fournier of Lincoln, Nebraska, fourth prize of $2,000 for Sesame Chicken a la Fournier; and Robert "Buck" Collier of San Manuel, Arizona, fifth, $1,000 for Chicken Barbecue Bueno.

The contest, one of the nation's oldest cooking competitions, is sponsored by the National Broiler Council.

A total of 342 pounds of chicken was cooked in the Jackson Coliseum as the 51 contestants prepared their recipes before a large crowd of local spectators and food editors representing national and local news media.

CHICKEN RATATOUILLE

⅓ cup corn oil
2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, skinned, boned and cut in 1-inch pieces
2 small zucchini squash, unpeeled and thinly sliced
1 small eggplant, peeled and cut in 1-inch cubes
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1 medium green pepper, seeded and cut in 1-inch pieces
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 can (16 oz.) tomato wedges
2 teaspoons garlic salt
1 teaspoon Accent flavor enhancer
1 teaspoon dried sweet basil, crushed
1 teaspoon dried parsley
½ teaspoon black pepper

Heat corn oil in large fry pan. Add chicken and saute about 2 minutes on each side. Then add zucchini, eggplant, onion, green pepper and mushrooms. Cook, stirring occasionally about 15 minutes or until tender crisp. Add tomatoes stirring carefully. Add garlic salt, flavor enhancer, basil, parsley and pepper. Simmer about 5 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Serve chicken on large platter with mound of rice in center. Makes 4 servings.

Tuna chow-time stew, hot tuna hero for roughing it

The breezes are whispering. The beach is beckoning. Birds are singing. And the open road's calling. Throughout the country, "roughing it" is a way of life that's attracting more and more of the young-at-heart. It's back to nature for millions — but back to nature with proper equipment and fixings for good-tasting chow.

Canned tuna is a natural for outdoor fare. It's as much of a must in backpacks as it is on the pantry shelf. With a camp stove kit (safe and efficient), a few cans of tuna in vegetable oil and some other staples, you can produce great grub in no time at all, hot meals with zesty flavor and substance that appease sharpened appetites.

What we mean by substance is complete protein — something you need whether at home or on the road. And tuna has complete protein comparable to lean beef, at a significantly lower cost. Did you know one 7-ounce can of tuna actually gives a person more than 100 per cent of the recommended daily dietary allowance (RDA) for protein? That's substance!

Here are two recipes ideal for al fresco feasting anywhere. One's a hearty Tuna Chow-Time Stew, rich with tomatoes, green beans, mushrooms, and other vegetables — pasta too. The other's a savory, toasty Hot Tuna Hero. You can prepare the basic mixtures at home and take them along in insulated containers. Or you can prepare them on the spot. It only takes minutes to heat them up. And both pack a lot of solid satisfaction. When you eat them, you know what GOOD is!

TUNA CHOW-TIME STEW

3 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in oil
½ cup sliced onion
½ cup chopped celery
2 cans (13¾ ounces each) chicken broth
1 cup uncooked macaroni
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms
1 package (9 ounces) frozen cut green beans or 1 can (1 pound) cut green beans, drained
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
½ teaspoon pepper

Drain 2 tablespoons oil from tuna into large saucepan. Add onion and cook until tender. Add celery, chicken broth, macaroni, tomatoes and mushrooms with liquid, green beans, salt, basil and pepper. Cover and cook over medium heat for 10 to 12 minutes, stirring occasionally, until macaroni is tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

HOT TUNA HEROES

3 cans (7 ounces each) tuna in oil
1 cup chopped onion
3 to 4 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup catchup
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried leaf oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup chopped parsley
6 hero rolls

Drain vegetable oil from tuna and heat in skillet or saucepan; add onion and cook until tender. Stir in vinegar, lemon juice and catchup. Add tuna, salt, oregano, pepper and parsley. Cook about 10 minutes over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Spoon on split warmed hero rolls. Makes 6 servings.

Spirited daiquiri pie set

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: My husband likes the light and airy pies that have cocktail flavors. Some time ago you gave a recipe for Grasshopper Pie, but if you've ever published one for Daiquiri Pie I've missed it. When I told my husband I was asking you for that recipe, he said, "Tell her to put in plenty of spirit!" — COOL COOK.

DEAR COOL COOK: The chiffon-type pies patterned after favorite cocktails have certainly caught on. The earliest recipe for Grasshopper Pie sent to me dates from 1960: I believe Daiquiri Pie was created shortly after. When I tried the following recipe on eight tasters, four men and two women thought it "Perfect — delightfully refreshing." One of the remaining tasters dissented. She said, at first bite, there was too much spirit; however, by the time she finished her portion she conceded that the vanilla-wafer crust muted the assertive flavor. The other critical taster stuck to her guns: from first to last she insisted, "Too much liquor." From these reactions I conclude that this Daiquiri Pie will be spirited enough for your husband! — C.B.

SPIRITED DAIQUIRI PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup fresh lime juice
Sugar
Dash of salt
3 large eggs
1½ tablespoons freshly grated lime rind
½ cup light rum, 80 proof
1 cup heavy cream
Vanilla-wafer crust, see below
Cream topping, see below

In a medium-size stainless steel bowl sprinkle the gelatin over the lime juice and let stand about 5 minutes to soften. Whisk in 1/3 cup sugar and the salt, then whisk in the unbeaten egg yolks until blended. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly with a rubber spatula around sides and bottom of pan and without boiling, until gelatin is completely dissolved and the mixture is hot. Remove from heat; whisk in the lime rind and the rum. Chill, stirring several times, until slightly thickened — about 1 hour. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar; continue beating, if necessary, until whites hold peaks that tilt over slightly when the beater is slowly withdrawn. Without washing the beater, beat the cream until stiff. Fold whites, then cream into gelatin mixture. Turn into the Vanilla-wafer Crust. Chill until firm. Spread the Cream Topping over the filling and chill again. Before serving, carefully loosen the edge of the crust with the tip of a paring knife; remove springform band; place pie on bottom of springform on a serving plate. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Vanilla-wafer Crust: Finely crush ½ pound vanilla wafers — there should be 2 cups; thoroughly stir in ½ cup butter, melted. Press over the bottom and up two-inches of the sides of a springform pan 9 inches by 2½ inches. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 10 minutes; do not brown. Cool before filling.

Cream Topping: Beat 1 cup heavy cream until stiff, adding toward the end of the beating 2 tablespoons superfine sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Note: This pie tastes best when made early in the day and served that evening; this way the flavors of the filling have a chance to blend and the crust will have some crispness.

With a sweet, chewy taste

Applejack raisin sauce and chocolate kick sauce set

A truly spectacular dessert is something dinner guests will always remember. When you want to dress up a dessert, make raisins a part of the recipe. Raisins are a perfect dessert ingredient because everyone loves their sweet, chewy taste.

Next time you're entertaining friends, try serving crepes, ice cream or pound cake topped with an elegant raisin sauce. Raisin sauces are simple to prepare and can be made hours ahead of time, without spending hours in the kitchen.

Applejack Raisin Sauce is a sweet combination of two fruit favorites. A splash of rum or apple brandy adds spice to the already pleasing flavor.

Both Mocha Java and Chocolate Raisin Sauces will delight the chocolate enthusiasts. Mocha Java means chocolate and coffee while Chocolate Kick features chocolate blended with light cream.

The smooth consistency and luscious flavor of all three raisin sauces make them exquisite dinner finales.

Just as adults enjoy a sweet dessert sauce after dinner, children enjoy the sweet taste of chewy raisins as a snack. They provide a quick energy boost while satisfying in-between meal hunger. As you begin packing lunch boxes for a new school year, be sure to include convenient individual raisin packs, a nutritious treat that tastes good any time of the day.

APPLEJACK RAISIN SAUCE

1/3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¾ cup water
Dash salt
¾ cup raisins
¼ cup apple jelly
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons rum or apple brandy

In small saucepan, mix sugar and cornstarch. Add water, salt, raisins and jelly. Bring to boil, stirring. Simmer until thickened and clear. Add lemon juice and rum. Cool. Store in covered container in refrigerator. Serve over ice cream, crepes, pound or short cake, pudding, meringues or cream puffs. Makes 1½ cups.

MOCHA JAVA RAISIN SAUCE

¾ cup raisins
½ cup strong hot coffee
2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
¾ cup sugar
Dash salt
3 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Put raisins, coffee and chocolate in small saucepan over low heat. Stir until chocolate melts. Add remaining ingredients. Continue to cook gently, stirring, until sauce thickens slightly. Serve warm or cooled over ice cream, crepes, pound or short cake, pudding, meringues or cream puffs. Makes about 1½ cups.

NOTE: Sauce keeps well stored in covered container in refrigerator.

CHOCOLATE KICK RAISIN SAUCE

Walnut chicken recipe

Looking for a new way to serve an old favorite? Here's Walnut Chicken. Tender chicken, fresh mushrooms, green onions and walnut chips are marinated in a combination of soy sauce, ginger, garlic and beer. The mellow brew penetrates the chicken while enhancing its flavor at the same time.

Walnut Chicken is a great dish to serve to dinner guests as it can be so easily prepared and the cooking time is a matter of minutes. Another advantage is you needn't turn on the oven at all. Fluffy white rice is the perfect accompaniment, and remember to pass some extra soy sauce and of course the beer — the beverage companion for any meal!

WALNUT CHICKEN

¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup beer
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 pound boneless chicken breasts, skinned, cut into 1-inch pieces
¼ cup vegetable oil
1/3 cup sliced green onions
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup broken walnuts

Combine soy sauce, beer, ginger, garlic and chicken in bowl. Marinate for approximately 30 minutes. Heat oil in wok or large skillet. Add chicken pieces and soy mixture. Stir-fry until chicken is cooked and soy mixture begins to coat chicken (approximately 5 minutes). Add green onions, mushrooms, garlic and walnuts. Cook 3 minutes, tossing mixture with slotted spoon. Serves 4.

Dodgers finish race that never was

BATHING IN VICTORY

Dodger manager Tommy Lasorda gets doused with champagne by Doug Rau after the Dodgers clinched the National League West championship with a 3-1 win at Candlestick Park Tuesday.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have clinched the National League West title with a flourish, ending a race that never was.

"We jumped ahead with a 22-4 record and never looked back," manager Tom Lasorda said after Tuesday night's pennant-clinching 3-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Dodgers, second to the Cincinnati Reds by 10 games a year ago, dethroned baseball's defending champions with a combination of solid pitching and power hitting.

Tommy John, 19-6, came within one out of pitching a shutout Tuesday night, before allowing the Giants a run and being saved by reliever Lance Rautzhan. Rick Monday's 14th homer — the Dodgers' 180th of the season — provided the margin of victory.

"To beat out Cincinnati, a team that had won two World Series in a row, is a tremendous accomplishment," said Lasorda, who was drenched with champagne, shower water and ice cubes during the postgame celebration.

"The Reds thought they guaranteed themselves another pennant when they got Tom Seaver," said Dodgers second baseman Davey Lopes. "Well, we may not be as good position by position, but collectively, we're the best team in baseball.

"Until someone can prove differently, I'm going to keep feeling that way."

The Philadelphia Phillies, on the verge of repeating as Eastern Division champs, will meet the Dodgers in the NL playoffs opening in Los Angeles Oct. 4.

The Reds, who won behind Seaver's two-hit pitching at San Diego Tuesday night, are now 11½ games behind with 10 to play and never could get within striking distance of the pacesetting Dodgers.

"The only thing I asked of them in spring training was that they believe in themselves as much as I believed in them," said Lasorda, who became the Dodgers' manager after Walter Alston retired last fall.

"We never even thought about the Reds," third baseman Ron Cey said between slugs of champagne. "Once we had the lead, we felt all along that if we stayed healthy, we were going to win it.

"A lot of things had go right — and they did."

Monday, whose two-run, 450-foot homer followed Dusty Baker's run-scoring double in the second inning off Ed Halicki, was one of the few Dodgers with physical problems this year. He missed 43 games with back trouble, but feels fine now.

"That homer put the icing on the cake for me," he said. "I feel like a little kid right now."

Lasorda said, "This is my greatest thrill in 32 years of baseball."

The one it topped, obviously, was being named manager after 27 years in the Dodgers organization.

"To manage this club is a great thrill and an honor. These guys worked hard, knew what they had to do to win and knew they were going to win from the day they left spring training."

That includes Reggie Smith, the right fielder who has contributed 30 homers and 83 RBI in his first full season with the team.

"Who said I'd never play with a winner again?" said Smith, who was a rookie with the Boston Red Sox when they won the American League pennant in 1967.

"We were 100-to-1 shots then, and it took a lot of luck," Smith recalled. "I can appreciate this one more. We took it from day one of the season. We won it wire-to-wire, and not too many teams can say that."

The starting outfielders — Smith, Monday and Baker — have joined the Dodgers over the past two years but the other five everyday players are holdovers from the 1974 team that won the National League title, beating Pittsburgh in the playoffs, and lost to the Oakland A's in a five-game World Series.

The Giants, winless against the Dodgers in eight games here this year, didn't go down without a fight Tuesday night.

Jack Clark tripled in the ninth and scored on pinch hitter Gary Alexander's two-out single before Rautzhan struck out Gary Thomasson to start the Dodgers' celebration.

Ganesha did nothing fancy

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Garry Norvell turned a few heads Saturday night when his Ganesha High Giants upset South Hills, a perennial powerhouse from the perennially powerful Sierra League.

"I wasn't surprised," said Norvell, apparently taking in stride a 14-7 victory over a team that had been rated eighth in the CIF by a Los Angeles newspaper and 17th in the country by a national magazine.

"I knew we had a very good defense," Norvell explained. "I just didn't know whether we could control the ball sufficiently to keep our defense from having to be on the field for the whole game."

The Giants did just that, primarily on the strength of 83 yards rushing from Bennie Gooden and 65 from Floyd Williams.

"We didn't do anything fancy," said Norvell. "But we outplayed them in the fourth quarter, when it counts."

Norvell admitted that the South Hills team his squad beat was not the same one that thrashed Ganesha, 32-6, in 1976. "But then we're not the same team we were last year, either," he asserted. "This group is a lot more mature than last year's was at the same time. I think we could have beaten South Hills even if they had had their No. 1 quarterback." (Steve Stanley missed the game with a broken jaw.) "They (the Huskies) just didn't have the speed or the defense they usually do."

Norvell has abandoned the wishbone as his offensive formation in favor of the veer — because he's decided not to use a fullback.

"Our two defensive ends (Craig Parm and Kevin Jones) play fullback but we decided not to have them do both. We're only using the two running backs — Gooden and Williams."

The Ganesha coach has the rare luxury of having two completely separate platoons — he has no players going both ways.

Ganesha was only one of five San Antonio League teams to win their openers, quite an improvement over the league's 1-6-1 record for the first week of the 1976 season.

Having a first letter near the beginning of the alphabet seemed to help. The SAL's first five schools aphabetically — Chino, Claremont, Damien, Ganesha and Garey — all won their 1977 debuts while the last three — Montclair, Pomona and Upland — lost.

Certainly Damien scored the biggest win numerically, a 41-6 conquest of Hacienda League neighbor San Dimas.

Coach Dick Larson said he felt that score might be a bit misleading, but added that "some of the kids who might not have got into the game with a lower score did very well."

Among those players, according to Larson, were defensive tackles Bill Saelzler and Leonard Luiten and defensive end Robert Ramos.

Starting defensive end Mark Leavens, who suffered a sprained ankle against San Dimas, is considered doubtful for Friday night's game against Monrovia.

"We'll have our hands full with Monrovia," said Larson. The Wildcats blanked Pomona last week, 28-0.

"Monrovia's Dennis Brown is an exceptional running back and Larry Gholar is a fine receiver. They have good size and good speed."

Larson isn't concerned about any possible mental letdown after last week's romp.

"Good teams don't have that problem," he said. "Besides, we used 50-some people in the game so none of them were in long enough to have a letdown."

Of all those players, senior running back Doug Paul stood out. The 5-foot-5, 150-pound senior rushed for 107 yards on 11 carries (in just over two quarters) and two touchdowns, including a 61-yarder.

On the subject of long runs from scrimmage, it's hard to beat Grant Warhurst's effort of last Thursday.

The Claremont senior broke loose for a 98-yard touchdown against Bonita, a school record. He finished with 188 yards on 17 carries in the Wolfpack's 20-0 triumph over Bonita.

Coach Esper Keiser was especially pleased with the defensive play of linebackers Fred Sawyers and Rusty Harrison and down linemen Robert Villanueva, Neil Anderson and Mike Sevilla.

Rams greet 'old friends'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams discounts any theory that old friends come back to haunt you, but it has happened to him and may happen again.

Atlanta's Falcons, coached by former Rams assistant Leeman Bennett, upset Los Angeles 17-6 last Sunday and this Sunday, in the second game of the new National Football League season, another former assistant, Dick Vermeil, brings the Philadelphia Eagles to town.

In addition, the Eagles will have former Ram Ron Jaworski at quarterback and Jaworski was unhappy he didn't get more of a chance with the Los Angeles club.

Every Los Angeles fan wonders what has happened to the Rams, but Knox maintains it isn't what the other fellow knows, it's been a lack of execution.

"Bennett didn't do anything different than expected," he said Tuesday of his erstwhile assistant who became head coach at Atlanta this season. "What he did do was have his team control the football. They hit 10 of 17 passes with no interceptions."

Bennett was one of two of Knox' assistants who earned head coaching jobs in the National Football Conference's Western Division after last season. Bennett went to Atlanta and Ken Meyer was appointed head coach with the San Francisco 49ers.

Knox said that 34-year-old Joe Namath will again be his quarterback in the second game of the regular season

"I thought he played well. He stayed in the pocket. We didn't do well on pass protection."

Then Knox, who admitted he was angry and hoped his players were the same, told newsmen:

"If we play like we did against Atlanta, we're in deep trouble. We need to play with more intensity. We're not a good football team right now. We need some leadership from the players. They're not giving direction.

"Having talent and using it are two different things. You have to prove yourself every Sunday.

Knox said that offensive tackle Doug France, who suffered a knee injury in the preseason, might be back for Sunday's game.

Orioles remain just alive

By Associated Press

The Baltimore Orioles are still alive. Just how well they are remains to be seen.

While the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox were rained out Tuesday night, the Orioles came through with a 5-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays as Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for his 18th triumph and rookies Eddie Murray and Rich Dauer homered.

"The magic number holds tonight," said Manager Earl Weaver, whose Orioles took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League East, three games behind the Yankees but one-half game in front of Boston.

"We're on our death bed but we're not dead yet," shouted outfielder Pat Kelly.

With 11 games left for the Yankees and Orioles and 12 for the Red Sox, the magic number is nine for all concerned. Any combination of nine Yankee wins and Oriole or Red Sox losses will spell the end of the long, hot summer race.

"It's up to the Yankees," said Palmer, who won his fifth consecutive decision. "If they win nine we're in trouble.

Murray's homer in the fourth inning, which snapped a 1-1 tie, was his 23rd of the season and set a club record for a rookie. Dauer hit his fourth homer in the next inning and Ken Singleton singled home two insurance runs in the seventh.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the California Angels downed the Texas Rangers 5-2, the Chicago White Sox trounced the bumbling Oakland A's, who committed seven errors, 8-2, the Detroit Tigers edged the Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 10 innings and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Seattle Mariners 5-1.

Royals 4, Twins 2

George Brett hammered two solo homers and Hal McRae added a two-run shot while Paul Splittorff scattered seven hits for his sixth consecutive triumph. Kansas City leads Chicago by 10½ games and Texas by 11 and the Royals' magic number in the AL West is down to two.

Brett homered in the fourth and eighth innings while McRae's homer in the fifth traveled an estimated 445 feet.

"At the start of the season they were pitching me in," said Brett. "I was still trying to go to the opposite field and wasn't doing too well. Charley Lau (batting coach) told me to scare them away by pulling the ball.

"They aren't scared away yet. Twenty home runs (actually it's 21) and they aren't scared away. It's a lot more fun running around the bases than going to first and stopping."

John Robinson overworks star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles White has carried a total of 73 times in Southern California's two football games this fall, and Coach John Robinson is a little apologetic about "overworking" his sophomore tailback.

"I know I said we weren't going to have our tailback carrying the ball all the time," a smiling Robinson said Tuesday during his weekly breakfast with reporters. "But that just goes to show I can't be trusted."

White gained 188 yards on 38 carries for the Trojans in their 17-10 victory over Oregon State last weekend, and has rushed for 343 yards in second-ranked USC's two victories this fall.

"I had planned to play Lynn Cain and Dwight Ford more at tailback," Robinson said. "But then when we've gotten in the third quarter, I guess I just got insecure and changed my mind.

"When Charles is in there, I feel like the next time he touches the ball, he's going to break it all the way."

Although he hopes to spell White more as the season goes on, Robinson said the 5-foot-11, 187-pound speedster is quite capable of withstanding the physical punishment that goes with carrying the ball 35 or 40 times a game.

The Trojans play their 1977 home opener Saturday afternoon, hosting TCU. The match is between teams with starkly contrasting fortunes, as Southern Cal has won its last 13 games going back to 1976, and TCU has lost its last 13. Both streaks are currently the longest in college football.

"Sure we'll be concentrating on TCU," Robinson said when asked if his coaching plans might take the Horned Frogs for granted.

Spartans top CIF rankings

San Antonio League teams Damien High and Ganesha rank 1-2 and Hacienda League entry Walnut is third in the first CIF poll for the newly formed Southeastern Conference.

Since the old classifications of 4A, 3A, 2A and 1A have been abolished for CIF football playoff purposes, there is now a separate poll for each of eight conferences plus the eight-man division.

Since space does not permit running each of the nine football polls as well as five cross country top tens and two water polo top tens, the Progress Bulletin will run all polls which show local teams among the leaders and any other polls of interest as space permits.

This week, Chino is ranked seventh in the Southeastern Conference football behind leaders Damien, Ganesha and Walnut and Chaffey is rated No. 5 in the Big Five Conference.

In cross country, Upland ranks fourth and Claremont seventh in the 3A Division with Alta Loma fifth and Walnut sixth in the 2A class.

Chaffey is No. 6 in 4A water polo and Upland is fourth in the 3A. (See poll on Page 34.)

Surprises spice first week for HL teams

By RAY NELSON
PB Correspondent

Individual heroics and a couple of surprises went hand-in-hand during the initial week of non-league play for Hacienda League teams.

Ontario running back Tommy Jefferson, Walnut quarterback Steve Green and San Dimas signal-caller Von Suchanek all turned in creditable performances while Ontario and Royal Oak were on opposite ends of surprises.

Jefferson probably turned in the biggest individual contribution as he amassed 203 yards on 21 carries in helping pace the Jaguars' 20-0 triumph over Mountain View.

An offensive stalwart in the Ontario backfield last season, Jefferson was considered at the beginning of the current campaign to be one of the few bright spots on a team suffering from a lack of numbers.

However, the Jags provided their rookie coach, Terry Roche, with a surprisingly easy conquest in his debut and several individual contributions.

Besides the antics of Jefferson, the Jaguars benefited from the scoring punch provided by running back Albert Newman and quarterback Sonny Medina.

Newman turned loose scoring runs of 35 and five yards while Medina completed passes when he had to, including one TD toss, as the Ontario offense piled up 400 total yards.

Green completed 18 of 27 passes for 234 yards and two touchdowns as Walnut won its opener, 38-27.

Despite the senior's performance, Walnut coach Kenn Gunn revealed Green will not start at the offense's controls when the Mustangs face Rowland Friday night.

"We're going to start the other guy (Pat Flaherty) next week," commented Gunn following his opening triumph.

The idea is to give Flaherty, who was an All-Hacienda receiver last year, a chance to win the most hotly-contested position on the team. Gunn had said before the year that both QBs have outstanding talent and "whoever wins will make people sit up and take notice."

While San Dimas was suffering a costly 41-6 setback to San Antonio League powerhouse Damien, first-year coach Don Warhurst received a pleasant surprise from Suchanek.

The junior quarterback completed 12 of 20 passes for 119 yards and one touchdown.

"It was one of the bright aspects," said Warhurst. "I was real pleased. He was under a lot of pressure and showed a lot of poise and maturity for the first time out. I thought he threw the ball well."

Despite Suchanek's heroics, the Saints suffered a severe blow to their defense when Mike Nunley was sidelined with a strained knee, which he twisted in a pileup.

"He'll be out at least four or five weeks," commented Warhurst.

The other Hacienda surprise was that Royal Oak, expected to vie for the 1977 league title, suffered an opening 7-0 whitewashing at the hands of Charter Oak.

Quarterback Jeff Strycula could complete only four of nine attempts for the Romans.

The second week schedule will be highlighted Friday night by Walnut and Bonita taking on Montview opponents in Rowland and Azusa, respectively.

While Alta Loma travels to Upland and Ontario faces Montclair, San Dimas will oppose Valencia.

Valencia gave the Saints their only regular-season loss, 14-7, last season and comes off a big win against El Toro.

BACK OF THE WEEK — Jim Freitas, quarterback, Long Beach State, completed 22 of 36 passes for 316 yards and seven touchdowns—two short of the NCAA major college record—in a 50-31 romp over Fullerton State. Freitas, younger brother of former San Diego State star Jesse Freitas, threw scoring passes of 25, 25, 18, 27, 12, 24 and nine yards.

Kessinger to receive award

DETROIT — Infielder Don Kessinger of the Chicago White Sox has been named the first winner of the Danny Thompson Memorial Award for "exemplary Christian spirit in baseball."

The award was presented in memory of Thompson, a former infielder with Minnesota and Texas, who died last December of leukemia.

Kessinger, a major leaguer for 12 seasons, mostly with the Chicago Cubs, will receive the award from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn before the second game of the World Series on Oct. 12.

Nastase ousted

PARIS — France's Georges Goven, using a homemade racket with extra stringing, beat Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 in first round action of the Coupe Poree tennis competition.

A similar racket drew much attention when used by Michael Fishback at the U.S. Open. It's made of a normal frame and cross-stringing. But in addition, extra stringing is woven in and out of the cross-strings, making the face thicker and heavier.

In other matches France's Patrick Proisy beat Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia when Pilic retired awith Proisy having won the first set 6-1 and the second set tied 3-3.

Liess, Richards win openers

PENSACOLA, Fla. — Second-seeded Zenda Liess of Daytona Beach, Fla. and Renee Richards won their first round matches in second-day action of the Women's Tennis Association and Professional Championships tournament.

Miss Leiss easily defeated Roylee Bailey of Sacramento, Calif., 6-1, 6-0 while Dr. Richards needed only 30 minutes to oust Erin Dignam of Palisades, Calif., 6-0, 6-0.

In other first round action, No. 4 Carrie Meyer defeated Stephanie Tolleson 6-2, 6-2 and No. 7 Ruta Gerulaitis defeated Aleida Spex 7-6, 3-6, 7-5.

Stingers leave early

PRAGUE — The Cincinnati Stingers of the World Hockey Association, who left the ice for 13 minutes in the third period because they were unhappy with the officiating, lot to the Czechoslovak national team 12-3 in the International Rude Pravo Tournament.

Rich Leduc scored two quick goals in the first period for the Stingers.

Chinese defeat Cosmos

SHANGHAI — The injury-plagued Cosmos, the champions of the North American Soccer League, lost 2-1 to a Chinese all-star team.

Pele, the Cosmos' star now on a farewell world tour, scored the visitors' lone goal with a curving penalty shot around a wall of Chinese players in front of the goalmouth.

The capacity crowd of 50,000 in Chiangwan Stadium gave him a standing ovation.

Agent pleads guilty to larceny

NEW YORK — Former sports agent Richard Sorkin pleaded guilty to grand larceny charges, admitting that he lost $360,000 entrusted to him by seven professional hockey and basketball players from the New York area.

Sorkin, who took the money from five members of the New York Islanders hockey team and two members of the New York Nets basketball team, faces a possible seven-year term on each of the seven counts of grand larceny. He will be sentenced Nov. 1.

Freitas tops in PCAA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Jim Freitas has been named offensive player of the week for the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, and linebackers Brad Vassar and Frank Manumaleuna have been named the defensive players of the week for the PCAA.

Freitas, a quarterback for Cal State Long Beach, connected on 22 of 36 passes for 316 yards in the school's recent 50-31 win over Cal State Fullerton.

Freitas, 6-2, 190 pounds, threw seven touchdown passes in the game, and is now rated as the nation's second leading passer.

Brett signs Angels' pact

ANAHEIM (AP) — Strikeout artist Nolan Ryan of the California Angels will have to wait until next year in his quest for a third 20-victory season.

The American League's winningest pitcher has been advised to rest his ailing right arm for three weeks. Since the Angels won't be involved in post-season competition for the 17th straight year that means the season is over for Ryan.

Ryan thus finished the campaign with a 19-15 record, 22 complete games, 331 strikeouts and an earned run average of 2.73.

Only 11 games remain for the Angels, who are mired in fifth place in the AL's Western Division.

Tuesday was a big day for left-handed pitcher Ken Brett. He signed a contract with the Angels through 1979, then celebrated by hurling a complete game 5-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"My little brother tried to upstage me again tonight," said Brett after his 13th victory, which equalled his career high. Kansas City's George Brett, the defending AL batting champion, hit two home runs as the Royals topped Minnesota 4-2.

Bobby Bonds, Dave Chalk and Ron Jackson hit home runs to account for all of California's scoring Tuesday night. Bonds, who stole a pair of bases, now has 36 homers and 39 steals in his quest to become the first player in major league history with 40 homers and 40 stolen bases in the same season.

Ryan said his arm problems have nothing to do with the surgery that was performed on his right elbow in 1975. He has been removed early from his last three starts because of a stiffening in his right forearm.

"The doctor said the elbow joint is clean," said the 30-year-old Ryan.

County sets tennis tourney

THE THOROUGHBREDS AT SANTA ANITA aren't the only attraction to draw valley residents to Arcadia. Tennis players from this area have always turned out abundantly for the Los Angeles County-operated tournaments there. The last of the year's three adult events comes up next month, with both open and class C competition scheduled in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

The dates are Oct. 15, 16, 22 and 23 and the primary location is Arcadia County Park, though some matches in the early rounds will be played at the Pasadena High School courts. Entries are due by Oct. 3 with the Los Angeles County Tennis Association, 155 W. Washington Blvd., 8th Floor, Los Angeles, 90015. Fees are $9 for singles and $10 per doubles team.

* * *

CLAREMONT LEAGUE players will begin battling for high ladder positions again Saturday when the new season opens for men's singles and men's and mixed doubles contestants. Women's singles and doubles leagues start play next Tuesday and Thursday, respectively, though players are registering for these two ladders this week.

Registration for the Saturday action will take place at the various starting times at the Cahuilla Park courts — 8:30 a.m. for men's doubles, 10:30 a.m. for mixed doubles and 3 p.m. for men's singles. Fees for the 12 weeks of competition are $15.50 for singles players and $31 per doubles team.

* * *

ALSO IN CLAREMONT, tennis classes for adults and children will begin Saturday at Cahuilla Park and another adult session starts Sept. 29. Registration for these Claremont Recreation-sponsored classes can be made at the Memorial Park office, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd. Fees are $23 for adults and $15.50 for children.

The Saturday adult sessions are 1:30 to 3 p.m. while the Thursday schedule is 12:30 to 2 p.m. The children's class is 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Saturdays. All the classes continue for 12 weeks.

THE INAUGURAL SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA Open tennis championships are on this week at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, climaxing with the finals Monday. Brian Gottfried, ranked No. 3 in Grand Prix points, was topseeded with Manuel Orantes and Raul Ramirez rated No.'s 2 and 3. Tournament officials had hoped right up to the last minute to persuade Jimmy Connors to get into the 64-man draw but the controversial 1976 world's champ is passing this one up.

Next on the pro tournament schedule is the Transamerica Open at San Francisco's Cow Palace next week. Gottfried, Orantes and Ramirez will be among the contestants in this one, too.

HAWAII IS ANOTHER, somewhat more idyllic stop on the Grand Prix tour. The fourth annual Island Holidays Pro Tennis Classic is scheduled Oct. 1 through 9 at the Royal Lahaina Resort on Maui and the early entrants for this one include Gottfried, Roscoe Tanner, Harold Solomon, Dick Stockton, Stan Smith, Bob Lutz and John Newcombe.

A 32-man field will chase prize money totaling $100,000. The winner will collect $20,000.

STAGS OPEN — Claremont-Mudd water polo coach Page Remillard discusses strategy with Dave Kent (30) and Scott Foerster (22). Stags open season at Cal Poly tonight.

Stags open at Cal Poly

Coach Page Remillard's Claremont-Mudd water polo squad opens its season tonight when it faces cross-town rival Cal Poly at 7 p.m. at Cal Poly.

"I think we'll have a much stronger team than last year," stated Remillard, "even though we won't be starting any seniors."

Of the Stags' four returning starters, three were All-SCIAC selections in 1976. Leading the way will be soph Paul Miller, last year's conference scoring champion and junior Dave Kent.

"We have some capable offensive performers," mentioned the Stag mentor, "but our strong point this year should be defense. Our offense isn't as coordinated as I would like it to be right now."

After playing Poly, the Stags will leave the next morning for Tucson where they will take part in the annual University of Arizona Invitational. C-M will open against powerful Texas A&M on Friday.

"This game against Poly should give us a good indication of where we stand this year," said Remillard. "They're a tough, aggressive team and we're going to have to be at our best to beat them."

Besides being the 1977 season opener, the game should provide added incentive for Remillard and the Stags since the C-M coach is a graduate of Poly and a former Bronco water polo player.

'Pack, Bearcat girls triumph on courts

Bonita scored volleyball and tennis wins over Upland, while Claremont's girls' volleyball team advanced in the La Mirada Invitational Tuesday to highlight girls' prep action.

The Bearcat girls upended the Highlanders, 15-11, 15-12, on the volleyball court, while they downed Upland on the tennis courts, 16-2.

Starring for Bonita's tennis squad, was the first doubles team of Yvonne Radi and Susan Arnold who defeated their opponents, 6-1, 6-0, 6-0.

Claremont came from behind to down Neff, 8-15, 15-5 and 15-4 in the first round of the Invitational. The Wolfpack was selected to participate in the eight-school tournament when one of the original selections backed out.

Claremont will face Sonora Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in second-round action at La Mirada High.

Buzzy Bavasi bowing out

SAN DIEGO (AP) — After a disappointing season marred by fan criticism, Buzzie Bavasi, the only president the San Diego Padres have ever known, is bowing out.

"The last three months have been very troubling," Bavasi said after announcing his resignation Tuesday. "I'm really sorry the club did not progress as I had hoped. I regret that we didn't keep Dave Kingman, Doug Rader and Willie McCovey."

Bavasi, who formed the National League expansion team in 1969 after 17 successful years as general manager of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, said he and his wife Evit plan "a vacation from baseball."

A press release said Bavasi will remain a consultant for the remainder of the season.

Ray Kroc, the feisty 74-year-old hamburger king who bought a headache instead of happiness with a baseball team, said today he will run the San Diego Padres by himself.

"I'm going to take over," Kroc said. "And I'm going to turn this club inside out."

Bavasi probably "was influenced by the pressure and problems of player contracts," Kroc told a confidante.

The 61-year-old Bavasi said he has three job offers but will stay in San Diego.

The Padres struggled and overcame early fan disinterest, producing an occasional winning string, but in only one year, 1975, did they finish as high as fourth place in the National League West.

The managerial switch in May, from John McNamara to Alvin Dark, failed to lift the club, and bickering among players has grown. At least 10 "want to be traded," according to a recent report.

Injuries to left-handed pitchers Randy Jones and Brent Strom left the Padres depending on a rookie infield and an erratic, but sometimes powerful, offense.

Despite multiyear contracts worth more than $1 million to several Padres, free agents were generally disappointing.

This is the fourth year in which more than one million fans went to San Diego Stadium. Many have blamed Bavasi for the team's troubles.

A newspaper poll in May said more San Diegans thought Bavasi was more a problem than the field manager, but Kroc replaced McNamara with Dark.

The brief announcement by Bavasi Tuesday after meetings with Kroc and club directors surprised some players. Dark said, "I'm stunned."

Said rookie shortstop Bill Almon: "It sounded like Kroc wanted some kind of shakeup. This club is in turmoil."

Kickers open with 8-0 win

The Diamond Bar Kickers opened their Pacific Soccer League schedule with an 8-0 blanking of the South Bay Vikings from Torrance.

Mike Brocki, playing his third season with the Kickers, led the way with four goals with Guy Pagan, Rocky Crisp, Paul Caligiuri and Jeff Ratajczak also scoring.

The Kickers have received a formal invitation from Hertha 03 Zehlendorf, the largest soccer club in the world, to visit Germany next summer and be hosted by German families.

In hopes of accepting the invitation, the Kickers are currently planning various fund raising activities.

Persons interested in donating to this cause may contact coach George Ratajczak at 595-4058, Orien Pagan at 595-3446 or Kathy Brocki at 595-6139 evenings.

This is Ratajczak's sixth season with the Kickers. He is assisted by Jack Cooprider and Bill Wood.

The balance of the team roster consists of Mark Baines, Art Davis, Tony de la Rambelje, Jay Mace, Mike Spurrier, Rusty Lansford, Todd Nagy, Dave Ryan and Tim Tipping.

Ratajczak is excited about the Kickers' potential.

"The overall skill and balance of this year's team should put us in a strong position to be contenders for the championship," he said. "I think this year's team will continue to give Diamond Bar a team of which it can be justly proud."

The Kickers return to action Saturday at Palos Verdes against the Mariners in a 10:30 a.m. match at Margate Field.

SAL squads face stiff competition

"But we'll really be taking a step up in competition," said Keiser, referring to Saturday's game against Glendora. "They've got quite a bit more speed than we saw playing Bonita."

For speed, it's hard to beat Santa Ana Valley. But that's just what Jim Rawls' Chino squad will try to do, Friday night.

Valley proved last Friday that it's one of the CIF's best football teams by knocking off Angelus League power Servite, 27-20.

The Falcons feature 9.8 sprinter Robert Powell at runningback and quarterback Andrew Paig, clocked at 9.9 in the 100-yard dash. Paige returned a kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown against Servite.

"We think we have a good shot at beating Valley," said Rawls. "They'll come in here thinking they have the world by the tail and we just might catch them by surprise."

Rawls will counter Powell and Paige with a rushing attack that netted over 400 yards last week in a 24-10 win over Burroughs.

Rawls praised the play of the offensive line, particularly guard Sam Beebe and center Hector Martinez, both juniors. Defensively, back Richard Perez and linebacker Alton Rivera stood out.

"Narcie Sousa (junior quarterback filling in for the injured Dan Reyes) surprised me a great deal," Rawls said. "He played very good football. But I wasn't surprised that we were able to come back (from being down 10-0). We controlled the line of scrimmage throughout the game."

FOREGO'S SHOWER

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — The daily and lengthy shower with a garden hose given the great race horse, Forego, is a great help to him, according to trainer Frank Whiteley.

"We keep a steady stream of water on his legs," the trainer said. "We work with him for a couple of hours every day. I'm sure the water helps his circulation. He loves it and all our stable help chips in to help in every way for the champion."

Ramirez paces Garey runners

Joe Ramirez finished first with a time of 15:59 to pace Garey High to a 26-30 cross country victory over Blair.

Elias Templos and Armando Pesqueira also made contributions by finishing the three-mile course at Arroyo Seco Park fourth and fifth.

Garey will travel to San Bernardino to face El Cajon Monday.

NHL names four officials

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League announced Tuesday the addition of four officials to its 36-man staff for the 1977-78 season.

They are referee John McCutcheon of Owen Sound, Ont.; linesmen Kevin Collins of Springfield, Mass., and Don Koharski of Dartmouth, N.S., and referee-linesman Mike Foy of Willingboro, N.J.

In addition to working in the NHL, the four will also work a limited number of games in the American and Central hockey leagues.

NEW YORK (AP) — Walt Michaels, the new coach of the New York Jets, was a linebacker in his playing days. He retired in 1961 but came back for one game in 1963. Michaels, then an assistant coach with the Jets, was pressed into service in the season opener against Boston because of injuries to the regular linebackers.

Lauda nears title

MONZA, Italy — Niki Lauda all but wrapped up the 1977 World Driving Championship when he finished second behind winner Mario Andretti in the Italian Grand Prix. Lauda, driving a Ferrari, now leads the series with 69 points to Jody Scheckter's 42. Even if Scheckter wins the remaining three races, Lauda's 27-point lead means that he needs only one more point to become the 1977 champion. Points are awarded for the first six finishers, 9 to the winner, 6, 4, 3, 2 and 1.

At the start, pole-sitter James Hunt (McLaren) and Carlos Reutemann (Ferrari) were outdragged by second-row starters, Scheckter (Wolf) and Andretti (Lotus). Jody held the lead for 10 laps, then Mario took command, leading to the finish. Both Hunt and Reutemann retired when they lost it and left the road.

America's hottest new driving talent, Hawaiian-born Danny Ongais, is blazing a trail of fast laps and pole positions this year in the USAC series. Ongais will make his Formula One racing debut in the United States Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, Oct. 3, and the Canadian Grand Prix a week later at Mosport Park, Ontario. He will drive a brand new Penske PC5 constructed at Roger Penske's racing plant in Poole, England, where Penske is also constructing new cars for newly crowned Citicorp Cup Champion, Tom Sneva, and for Andretti, who will campaign the USAC Trail in 1978.

Ongais will be sponsored by Interscope Racing which is owned by his longtime supporter, Ted Field. Field says their plan is to run a limited number of events next year, probably the South American and South African rounds, as well as Long Beach. They will then concentrate on the USAC series, rejoining the Formula One circus at the end of the season when it returns to North America.

Canadian Star Gilles Villeneuve was wandering around the Monza paddock looking somewhat lost. Earlier this year he was a pretty safe bet for a permanent Grand Prix drive with Team McLaren in 1978. He has dominated the Canadian Formula Atlantic series and has been touted as the best of the young drivers.

On the political side of racing, the Commission Sportive Internationale (the governing body of motor sports) is upset with their role in Formula One and held a press conference at Monza. Pierre Ugeux, Jean Marie Balestre and Michel Beori, leaders of the CSI, delivered a broadside attack on the Formula One Constructors Association (FICA) in general and Bernie Ecclestone in particular. Long after the fact, it seems the CSI has come to the realization that FICA, not CSI, is the power that runs Grand Prix racing. Now CSI is demanding that: (1) The CSI nominate the FICA members to the joint CSI/FICA working party; (2) In the future, a maximum number of entries will be accepted at any given Grand Prix — the number to be decided by CSI, not FICA or the promoter; (3) Organizers will not be allowed to practice more than four cars more than will be permitted to race; (4) Organizers will be allowed to nominate a maximum of four guaranteed entries and, (5) In the future, grid positions will be determined on the basis of qualifying times set in practice.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones has been banned from driving in the SCORE Baja 1,000 due to his alleged ramming of another car during the Off-Road World Championship at Riverside International Raceway Aug. 28, SCORE president Sal Fish announced Tuesday.

The penalty, which was handed out after consultation with Jones, bars him from competing in any more SCORE International events this year — meaning in effect he won't be allowed to drive in the Nov. 1012 Baja race.

Jones will, however, be eligible to drive in off-road races sponsored by the organization in 1978.

Riverside schedules road race for 'cycles

RIVERSIDE — National championship motorcycle road racing will return to Riverside International Raceway the weekend of October 1st and 2nd with the staging of the second annual Riverside Superbike International.

The 28th race in the 29-event Camel Pro Series, premiers professional racing circuit of the American Motorcyclist Association, will provide Riverside fans with their first look at a road racing matchup among 1976 series champion Jay Springsteen of Flint, Michigan, and his two principal adversaries Kenny Roberts of Turlock, California and Gary Scott of Springfield, Ohio. Last year at Riverside Springsteen couldn't race, and Scott had to start at the back of the pack.

This $26,000 race will be the final Camel Pro Series event of six contested on road courses around the nation — from Daytona Beach, Florida to Sears Point, California.

Riders will race on Riverside's famed 2.5 mile Grand Prix circuit, same challenging eight-turn course used by drivers in such prestigious races as the California Grand Prix and the International Race of Champions.

Battling it out along with Springsteen, Roberts, Scott, Skip Aksland of Manteca, Ron Pierce of Bakersfield and Gene Romero will be the factories themselves — Harley Davidson of the U.S., Yamaha, Suzuki and Kawasaki from Japan.

In addition to the AMA Camel Pro Series championship race, the weekend features two days of action that will include a 250cc lightweight race for experts and juniors, a 250cc novice road race, a production race for street bikes and the spectacular sidecars.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — After an initial upsurge based on the news that the August Consumer Price Index rose only 0.3 per cent, stocks turned mixed Wednesday in fairly active trading.

Investors apparently were disturbed by Commerce Department's report that the nation's international payments deficit rose to $4.61 billion in the second quarter following a $4.16 billion deficit in the first quarter.

Many also were disturbed by rising tensions in the Middle East. Israeli troops reportedly crossed Lebanon's border. In retaliation, Palestinians shelled an Israeli border town.

Against that background, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.38 points to 850.40 shortly before noon EDT. Investors were encouraged the closely watched average had held at the 850 level Tuesday.

The market was hindered by uncertainty about what President Carter would say at his 3 p.m. EDT news conference.

That was one reason the market's breadth figures showed no decisive trend. Of the 1,565 issues crossing the tape, 611 advanced, 432 declines and 522 remained unchanged.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 9,000,000 shares, compared with 8,400,000 traded during the same period Tuesday.

Inco Ltd. was the most active NYSE-listed issue, unchanged at 21⅛ following an over-thecounter block trade of 112,600 shares at 20⅞. Dow Chemical was second, unchanged at 31⅛. Royal Dutch Petroleum was third, up ⅜ to 56⅛ in trading that included a block of 100,000 shares at 56.

Gamble Skogmo, which rose 3 Tuesday, was off 3¼ after a delayed opening. Bertin Gamble, the company's cofounder, has retired and sold his 171,898 shares to the company for $32.50 a share. The company also purchased 422,156 shares at the same price from Gamble and Skogmo foundations.

Nalco Chemical, halted from trading Tuesday, was off 1½ after a delayed opening. The company said it informed the Environmental Protection Agency it had inadvertently destroyed some test data. The firm denied published reports that the destruction was deliberate.

Northwest Industries was ahead ⅞ after the United Rubber Workers union ended an 18-week strike against its Acme Boot Co. subsidiary upon approving a new 42-month contract.

Prices were higher in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Dome Petroleum was ahead 1¼ after the company reported it had found natural gas in three wells in the Canadian arctic region.

Over-the-counter stock prices

Los Angeles (UPI) Over-the-counter quotations supplied by the National Association of Securities Dealers, are bids and offers quoted by over-the-counter dealers to each other; the quotations do not include retail markup, mark down or commission; and do not represent actual transactions.

TINY TV — Clive Sinclair, founder of Sinclair Radionics, a New York based firm, displays the Microvision television in New York. The tiny TV, about the size of a paperback book, is made in England and sells in U.S. department stores for about $395.

Higher energy costs boost prices of American flowers

In bouquets, arrangements and bunches, Americans buy billions of flowers every year and the same inflation that has been eroding buying power in other areas has boosted the price of the blossoms.

Industry spokesmen blame higher fuel costs for much of the increase. Many flowers are grown in greenhouses and the natural gas to heat the greenhouses has risen in price. Labor, materials and shipping charges, also are more expensive.

"Energy costs alone have tripled in the past three years," said Douglas Gordon of the Denver Wholesale Florist Co. which ships about 80 million carnations a year from Colorado — the nation's biggest carnation producer — to the rest of the country and overseas. Labor, fertilizer and pesticides also have gone up sharply, he said.

Flower prices vary widely from area to area and season to season, making it difficult to compile statistics on percentage increases. Price rises over the past year or two generally have ranged from 10 to 50 cents a flower, however, long-stemmed roses start at about $1.50 each in big cities.

Gordon, who handles flowers from 85 growers, said the average cost of producing one carnation is 11 cents, but prices for individual flowers vary, according to quality. The top grade brings 22 cents a blossom: the bottom grade, "practically nothing."

At the retail level, he said, you might get a dozen carnations for $3 or less in the supermarket or at a street stand or you might pay $10 or more for an arrangement delivered from a florist.

Part of the difference in cost between the grower and retail levels is shipping charges. Getting the flowers from the market in Denver to the wholesaler or retailer in other parts of the country — usually by air, in boxes holding anywhere from 500 to 1,000 blooms — adds four cents to the cost of each carnation, Gordon said.

Spoilage also boosts prices. The wholesaler and retailer do not know exactly what the demand will be and have to have enough on hand to anticipate buyers. Sometimes, they have too much. The flower seller is "faced with a lot of spoilage," said Gordon. He said he could not estimate exactly how many of the blossoms he ships are never sold, but said it was possible that the loss was as much as one in four.

Roses are even more delicate, Gordon said. "They have to be cut at the right hour and sold immediately," he added.

Arnie Thirup of Pajara Valley Greenhouses in Watsonville, Calif., agreed. "The rose takes the most skill of any flower to grow," he said. "They're just like women. If you do something to them that they like, they appreciate it. If they don't like it, they let you know."

Thirup said roses must be cut twice a day, seven days a week. "They are very, very fragile," he said, explaining that each bunch must be wrapped in ice and newspaper to avoid spoilage.

It takes 47 to 57 days to grow a rose in a commercial greenhouse. Along with other flowers, Thirup has 250,000 rose bushes, each of which produces up to two dozen long-stemmed, hybrid teas or up to about three dozen sweetheart roses per growing season. On a nationwide basis, some 425 to 450 million roses are sold every year.

Growers in California currently are getting about 30 cents a rose, Thirup said, adding that prices will be higher in winter when more heat is required. He said that in winter, heating costs alone work out to 10 to 15 cents a rose. "If you don't keep the heat up in a rose house to 62 degrees at night they will go dormant," he said.

It costs about five cents a rose to ship the flower from California to markets in the East, Thirup said.

Wholesale prices, meanwhile, fluctuate according to the season and the quality of the flower. Tiny sweetheart roses are much cheaper than the long-stemmed ones. In summer, the blossoms may wilt. "When it gets 100 degrees, your flowers die," said one wholesale dealer in the New York flower market.

The dealer said he was charging up to 75 cents a rose, but said prices sometimes dropped as low as 25 cents. "At Christmas you can't buy a rose even if you pay $10,000," he said only half-jokingly, explaining that many roses are sold locally in winter when demand is high, leaving short supplies for nongrowing areas.

By the time the rose is delivered to the florist and the retailer adds his expenses, plus any costs of arranging and delivery, you may pay up to $20 to $25 for a dozen long-stemmed roses in a major metropolitan area, particularly at holiday times.

"The whole thing accumulates to make the final cost involved," said Jim Krone of Roses, Inc., an association of commercial growers in 29 states. He noted that prices probably will be lower in smaller cities were the cost of doing business is less.

Once you've bought your roses, you can expect them to last five to seven days at home if you take a little care, Krone said. Recut the rose stem under water since any flower that has been out in the air is dehydrated and its base is sealed. If you recut the stem in the open air, the flower will gulp air, a bubble may form preventing a rose from taking further water. A floral preservative added to the water also may help prolong the life of the blooms. Continue to add plenty of water. "Roses are thirsty," Krone said.

Bad 'roads' cost drivers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy-conscious motorists are learning that bad roads increase their driving costs.

The average U.S. motorist pays an extra $108 a year in fuel, tire wear and front-end repairs because of rough roads, says The Road Information Program (TRIP).

UCLA conference

Slower economic growth seen

LOS ANGELES (BW) — As the nation settles into its third straight year of business recovery, economists at the UCLA Business Forecast expect slower growth in the real gross national product (GNP) than was achieved in the first two quarters of 1977, when real GNP grew 7.5 and 6.1 percent, respectively.

The quarterly forecast, released at a conference attended by 500 businessmen at the UCLA Graduate School of Management, predicted no remaining quarter of 1977 and 1978 with growth over 6 percent.

"But slower growth is not recession," said Larry J. Kimbell, director of UCLA forecasting models. "Indeed, the real growth for the year 1978 is predicted to match roughly the growth in 1977. We predict growth of 5.1 percent in 1978. Our base run forecast calls for real GNP growth of 4.8 percent in 1977."

Kimbell said that several major sectors of the economy are likely to show less real growth in 1978 than in 1977. These include automobiles and total consumer durables, residential construction, business fixed investment and inventories.

Other sectors should take up the slack, he said. These are consumer expenditures for nondurable goods and services, state and consumer expenditures for nondurable goods and services, state and local government purchases of goods and services, and, perhaps most surprisingly, net exports of goods and services.

"The huge U.S. trade deficit that has been so widely publicized in 1977 has obscured the fact that this sector will be one of the major factors contributing to stronger growth in real GNP in 1978," Kimbell said. "However, we are expecting a continued negative current dollar net export balance throughout 1978 and virtually no growth in constant dollar net exports."

But no growth in real net exports is a much better performance than occurred in 1977, when net exports contributed a negative $6.3 billion to the change in real GNP. The business economists said that they did not expect the U.S. trade deficit to be such a negative factor in 1978.

In the housing sector, the UCLA forecast projects that the exuberant market in single-family units could be joined by multi-family units next year. Apartment vacancies are low, and rent increases, if not choked off by local rent controls, are likely to accelerate. The forecast calls for housing starts of more than two million units in 1978, made up of 1,402,000 single-family units and 652,000 multi-family units.

A possible threat to the residential construction industry is the spread of rent controls. Another worrisome threat to home building next year is the possibility of more restrictive monetary policy needed to bring the growth rate of the money supply back in line with targets set by the Federal Reserve Board. The forecasters said that a tighter monetary policy would lower the chances for much further housing growth in 1978.

A note of caution on housing speculators and investors was sounded by Fred E. Case, UCLA professor of urban land studies and a member of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission.

"By mid-1978, investors will find that cash flow deficits plus the slower increases in prices will make them realize that their investments are not economic and the process of dumping will begin," Case said.

He said that a better supply of housing in the under-$60,000 class will then emerge, but the total cost of home ownership will take 25 to 30 percent of monthly family income, compared to 15 to 20 per cent historically.

UCLA forecasters said that the nation seems to be stuck at an inflation rate of the 6 to 7 percent magnitude. However, more moderate food price increases are bringing the rate of inflation more in line with the UCLA forecast for an increase of 5.3 percent in the consumer price index next year. The forecasters added that services, especially medical care, continue to be a problem.

The UCLA forecast calls for slower growth of employment in manufacturing, but faster growth in state and local government. With stable gains in services and trade, the prospects are for continued job gains over the next several years. The fact that the extraordinarily rapid employment growth in the first part of 1977 cannot easily be repeated does not imply recession.

The unemployment rate is projected by UCLA to decline further in 1978, going to 6.2 percent by the end of 1978. Non-white teen-age unemployment, running just under 40 percent in recent months, continues to be a chronic problem area.

W. Germans fret over revival of anti-German feeling

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The West Germans have created a stable democracy from the ruins of World War II and paid $23.5 billion to Jews and other victims of Nazism, but they believe anti-German feeling is reviving in other European countries.

They are concerned about recent criticism in France, Italy and other European nations of the Bonn government's refusal to return an escaped Nazi war criminal to Italy, its response to urban terrorism and renewed interest among the German people in Hitler.

West Germans feel some of the comment implies their democracy is a facade and that the seeds of Nazism remain in the German spirit.

Some attribute it to jealousy and resentment at seeing the World War II foe the strongest nation in Western Europe.

"The better off we are, the less the world can forget about Hitler and Auschwitz," Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said in a recent speech.

"Perhaps it was naive to assume that a 30-year, functioning democracy was enough to set aside such prejudices," President Walter Scheel said in a speech Monday.

He added that this poses a danger to West European unity.

The Neue Ruhr Zeitung, a newspaper that supports Schmidt's Social Democratic party, accused foreign correspondents of painting "a picture of the Federal Republic of Germany that is even more somber than the picture their fathers painted of Hitler's Germany." It charges that they were "part of an international campaign conducted by 'desk perpetrators.'"

Hostility against the Germans has simmered in European countries ravaged by the Nazis ever since World War II. A new wave of unflattering press comment began a few months ago after release of the first film produced in Germany about Hitler.

The film, based on a book by newspaper editor Joachin C. Fest, is a straightforward account of the Nazi dictator's career, depicting his conquests and graphically illustrating the destruction of the war. The film has drawn large crowds, prompting critics in Eastern and Western Europe to question whether the Germans might come to worship "Adolf Hitler, superstar."

German sensitivities were pricked again last month following the escape from Italy of the wartime Nazi police chief in Rome, SS Col. Herbert Kappler, who was serving a life sentence for the massacre of more than 330 Italian civilians.

The Bonn government refused to hand over Kappler, who is 70 and has terminal cancer, because the constitution forbids the extradition of German nationals. The refusal touched off demonstrations in Italian cities and attacks on German cars and offices in Italy.

Stepped-up security measures to combat such terrorist attacks as the kidnaping this month of industrialist HannsMartin Schleyer have resulted in foreign comment that West Germany may use the terrorism as a pretext to move back toward a police state.

In an essay in the French newspaper Le Monde, French playwright Jean Genet said West German terrorists were making "heroic" efforts to unmask the brutality of modern society. He said efforts to wipe out terrorism would give West Germany "a terrifying, monstrous image" around the world.

Because of his criminal past and anarchist philosophy, criticism from Genet normally would bother few Germans. But its publication in Le Monde, France's most respected newspaper, aroused much concern.

West German spokesmen also objected to a French television interview with Klaus Croissant, a lawyer for the Baader-Meinhof gang of urban guerrillas. Croissant jumped bail and fled to France last July, and the French police claim they cannot find him.

The conservative Bonn newspaper General Anzeiger claimed that the Croissant interview and "anti-German" items in the French press were part of a Communist campaign to drive a wedge between the two countries.

"It is certain that this antiGerman propaganda is not due only to left and right extremists but is a component of a Communist plot," the paper said.

Der Spiegel, West Germany's leading news magazine, also had a complaint this week about the half a million comic books on World War II themes that are bought annually by American troops in Germany and their families.

The magazine said these comic books depict German soldiers as "bloodthirsty killers" and "Nazi villains torturing children and women."

"The GIs know next to nothing about the Germans," Der Spiegel said.

IMF's acquiring more clout over world economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the industrialized world makes it through its current set of economic problems, a lot of the credit will go to the International Monetary Fund, which holds its annual meeting here next week.

The IMF, with the encouragement of the United States, is acquiring steadily growing influence and authority over the world economy. Even major nations like Great Britain and Italy have had to knuckle under at times to IMF directives.

The leverage of the IMF results from the big increase in world oil prices, which has left many nations of he world starved for funds to pay their bills, including the charge for oil.

The United States and a few other wealthy nations have seen to it that the IMF has sufficient money to help these countries, but the help is usually given with strings attached which is the way the United States wants it done.

Both Italy and Great Britain, which received major loans from the IMF in the past year — Britain, $4 billion, Italy, $500 million — first had to agree after lengthy negotiations to take painful measures to control inflation and wages.

Although there are 131 nations in the IMF, it really is a few powerful ones, notably the United States, West Germany and Japan, who call the shots. Those who can afford to give help are the ones who can dictate the terms of that help, through the IMF.

There is one other nation that also can afford to give substantial help — oil-rich Saudi Arabia. Until the big 1973 increase in oil prices, it was an also-ran among the members, but it is now being considered for a seat all to itself on the IMF board of directors, a privilege only a few nations enjoy.

The United Sates and Saudi Arabia are the two chief contributors to a special new IMF fund of $10 billion for loans to member nations that need special financial help. The Carter administration formally asked Congress this week to approve the U.S. share of $1.7 billion. Saudi Arabia is putting up $2.5 billion.

The United States contributes about 20 per cent of the regular financing of the IMF, which means it also has 20 per cent of the voting power, sufficient for a veto over major decisions.

The chief function of the IMF currently is to recycle money from the countries that have it to those who don't and who are unable to borrow it from traditional international lenders, such as banks.

Many banks have come close to the limit of the amount of money they feel they can safely lend to countries that give no indication of soon being in a position to repay it. Besides Italy and Great Britain, these countries have included Zaire, Peru, Argentina, and Mexico, all of which have received IMF help in the past year or so.

IMF loans are supposed to make it possible for a country to avoid bankruptcy and economic collapse by keeping up payments on its debts, while also continuing to buy the oil and other essential needs of its economy. The conditions attached to these loans are intended to correct the imbalances in the economy that give rise to the debt in the first place.

At least the United States hopes it will work that way.

Unfortunately, for some poor nations, the IMF-prescribed conditions may force them to become even poorer.

It also is evident to all concerned that the IMF will need a lot more money, on top of the billions it already has spent if it is to succeed.

Member nations are currently approving new quotas, or contributions, to add about $11.2 billion to regular IMF financing facilities, bringing the total to $45 billion, and discussions have begun on another round of quota increases.

Anthony M. Solomon, U.S. undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs, told a congressional subcommittee Tuesday that the total balance of payments financing for all nations in the last three years was about $225 billion, of which $170 billion was provided by regular international lenders such as banks, and about $15 billion by the IMF. But the IMF share will have to be increased, he added.

Nun shot to death

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun was shot to death when she went to the door of the convent after hearing a gunshot, authorities said today.

Police took a 55-year-old Dayton man into custody and described him as highly disturbed and distraught. His name was not released pending the filing of charges.

Siser Donna Blaul, 34, was shot once in the chest Monday night, the Montgomery County Coroner's office said.

According to the coroner's report, the suspect rang the rear doorbell at St. Agnes Convent at about 8:25 p.m. The convent is in northwest Dayton, described as a transitional area with a high crime rate.

The report gave the following account:

Sister Rita Curry answered the door and the man asked for Sister Joan. When Sister Joan Pfeiffer came to the door the man said, "Where is it?"

Sister Pfeiffer asked the man what he wanted, the man pulled out a .38-caliber revolver and fired one shot which struck the wall at the bottom of the step.

Then Sister Blaul, who was grading school work, came downstairs and asked the man to leave. He fired another shot which struck Sister Blaul in the chest, the report said. She died at the convent at about 8:30 p.m.
